Afrikaners of the Kalahari

White Minority in a Black State

MARGO and MARTIN RUSSELL

This book describes the complex and mundane reality of ethnic relations in the Kalahari, not only under the present relentless pressures to enter the cash economy of modernisation, but also in the past. The authors examine the 'Africanisation' of these poor white pastoralists of the interior, cut off from those influences which gave contemporary Afrikanerdom its particular cast. £9.50 net

A History of African Christianity 1950–75

ADRIAN HASTINGS

A survey of the history of Christianity throughout sub-Saharan Africa, this book takes as its starting point the time when the churches were still part of the colonial order and examines the coming of political independence and the transformations of the 1960s and early 1970s.

'...a remarkably comprehensive overview.'

Africanisation, Nationalisation and Inequality

Mining Labour and the Copperbelt in Zambian Development

PHILIP DANIEL

In this case study of the largest industrial community in black Africa, the author traces the inter-related evolution of the mining industry labour force and of the urban community, and explores the effects on income distribution and inequality of the great demographic, social and political changes that have taken place in Zambia in the last two decades.

Rural Africa

A. T. GROVE and F. M. G. KLEIN

The majority of the inhabitants of tropical Africa live outside urban areas and rely heavily on the land for their livelihood. This book is a study of the various farming systems to be found and their relationship to the differing ecological zones and economies within which they function.

THE REVIEW OF BLACK POLITICAL ECONOMY

Editor: LLOYD HOGAN

(Hampshire College, Amherst, Mass.)

Publication of the National Economic Association and Atlanta University Center

The Review of Black Political Economy is the basic vehicle for the formulation and analysis of black economic problems. It seeks practical application of policy prescriptions for the solution of these problems. The Review, while emphasizing the American context, has increasingly placed black economic affairs in a larger international framework.

Recent Special Issues:

Labor Market Discrimination

Government Policies in Alleviating Economic Problems

Effect of Energy Policies on Minorities

Malyn Newitt

The Last Hundred Years of Portuguese Rule in Africa

After finally coming to an end amid bloodshed in the mid-1970s after a life of 500 years, the Portuguese African empire demands the balanced assessment of its nature and policies which Dr. Newitt, lecturer in history at Exeter University and an acknowledged authority on the subject, here attempts.

Bengt Sundkler

Bara Bukoba: Church and Setting in Tanzania

In 1961-4, Bengt Sundkler, then Professor of Theology at Uppsala University and previously a missionary in South and East Africa, was Bishop of the Lutheran diocese of Bukoba, Tanzania. The author of Bantu Prophets (1st ed., 1948) is well qualified to analyse deeply the religious experience of first-generation Christians, to appreciate the force of dreams in that experience, and to see, e.g., revivalism and ecumenism in specifically African terms. This book is rich in original source material for the study of Christianity in Africa.

THE JOURNAL OF MODERN AFRICAN STUDIES

The Journal offers a quarterly survey of politics, economics, and related topics in contemporary Africa.

The main emphasis is upon the peoples and policies, the problems and progress of this dynamic and disparate continent; upon the many societies that are evolving rather than the essential characteristics of the old; upon the present, not on the more distant past. The best current work is sought from specialists in different academic disciplines, whose contributions can illuminate and cross-fertilise one another.

The Journal seeks to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. It is intended for both the political scientist and the practical politician, the administrator and the advocate, the economist and the educator, the banker and the business man, the diplomat and the technocrat, the civil servant and the nationalist leader. All have something to contribute to these pages and, it is hoped, much to learn from them.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, whether imperialism, pan-Africanism, capitalism, socialism, or nationalism. Such concepts, however, have relevance to the modern African situation, and merit serious discussion, often from several different points of view, in order that controversial issues may be fairly examined.
