

People in Political Science

Activities

Weston H. Agor, professor of public administration at the University of Texas at El Paso, has received a $175,900 grant from the Charlson Research Foundation to continue his work in establishing a Global Intuition Network. Together with his 1990-91 grant this totals $285,800 for this purpose.

Edward S. Greenberg, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder, and Leon Grunberg, department of sociology, University of Puget Sound, have received a three-year grant from the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration (ADAMHA) to pursue a project entitled "Workplace Risk Factors for Alienation." The amount of the grant in the first year is $192,073 and the three-year total award is $523,689.

Lenneal J. Henderson, University of Baltimore, is chair of the 1991 All-America City Screening Committee of the National Civic League and a member of the League's 1991 All-America City Jury.

James L. Perry, Indiana University, will serve as the consulting editor for the Jossey-Bass Public Administration Series. Perry is also winner of the 1991 Charles H. Levine Memorial Award for Excellence in Public Administration.

Roy Pierce, The University of Michigan, presented a report on "Legislative Perceptions of Constituency Opinion in France" at a conference on Political Representation: Linkage Mechanisms in Comparative Perspective, organized in Berlin, April 1991.

Roberta Sigel, Rutgers University, is president, 1990-91, International Society of Political Psychology.

Walter J. Stone, University of Colorado at Boulder, has assumed the editorship of the Western Political Quarterly in July. His term as editor will run through 1995.

James Q. Wilson, University of California, Los Angeles, has been named by Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley to a commission to investigate the city's police department.

Ernest J. Yanarella, University of Kentucky, and William C. Green, Morehead State University, received a Quebec Ministry of International Affairs Research Grant for their study, "East Asian Automobile Investment in the United States and Canada: Comparative Perspectives on Labor, Environmental, and Community Impacts in Ontario and Quebec."

Administrative Appointments

Douglas Amy, chair, department of politics, Mount Holyoke College.

Thomas J. Baldino, professor and chair, Wilkes University; formerly Juniata College. He will also assume the position of director of Wilkes University's Institute for Regional Affairs.

Paul Allen Beck, chair, department of political science, Ohio State University.

Ralph Bledsoe has been selected to head former President Reagan's Presidential Library in California.

John C. Chamberlin, University of Michigan, has been appointed associate dean for faculty appointments in the College of Liberal Sciences and Arts.

Stephen P. Cohen, director of graduate studies, department of political science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Henrik Dullea, vice-president for university relations, Cornell University; formerly director of state operations, New York.

George C. Edwards III, distinguished professor, Texas A&M University, has been named director of the Center for Presidential Studies.

Lily Gardner Feldman, professor of political science at Tufts University, to research director of American Institute for Contemporary German Studies at Johns Hopkins University.

Samuel M. Hines, dean of humanities and social sciences, College of Charleston.

Cal Jillson, University of Colorado, Boulder, has been elected to a second term as chair of the political science department.

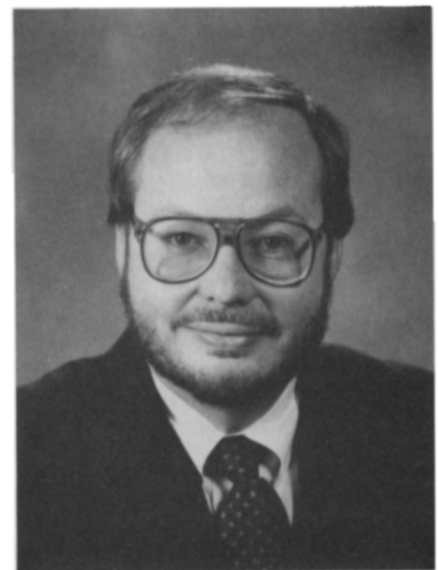

Michael E. Kraft, chair, department of political science, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, September 1991 through August 1994.

Ronald T. Libby, chair, department of political science, Southwest State University.

Naomi Lynn, president, Sangamon State University; formerly dean of the College of Public and Urban Affairs, Georgia State University.

W. E. Lyons, chair, department of political science, University of Kentucky.

Robert S. Robins, deputy provost, Tulane University.

George C. Edwards III

People in Political Science

Martin Schain, professor of politics, appointed associate chair of the new Center for European Studies, New York University.

Peter W. Schramm, chairman, department of political science, Ashland University. He is also coordinator of International education and coordinator of publications at the Ashbrook Center for Public Affairs.

Lee Sigelman, chair, department of political science, The George Washington University; formerly University of Arizona.

Richard A. Smith, associate professor of political science, has been named associate dean for curricular planning, Carnegie Mellon University's College of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Sandra T. Thompson, chair, division of social sciences, Florida Memorial College.

Nicholas Wahl, Milton Petrie Professor of European Studies, appointed chair of the new Center for European Studies, New York University.

Frank Zagare, chair, department of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo.

New Appointments

Phillip J. Cooper, professor of public administration, University of Kansas; formerly of the State University of New York-Albany.

Naomi Lynn

Christian A. Davenport, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Houston; formerly, SUNY at Binghamton.

Rodolfo O. de la Garza, professor of government, University of Texas at Austin, has been appointed to the Mike Hogg Professorship in Community Affairs in the College of Liberal Arts.

John Ferejohn has been appointed the first Patrick C. Suppes Family Professor in Humanities and Sciences at Stanford University. Ferejohn is a political science professor at Stanford, a professor by courtesy in the University's graduate school of business and department of economics, and a senior fellow of the Hoover Institution.

Lynne E. Ford, assistant professor of political science, College of Charleston.

John R. Gilliom, assistant professor of political science, Ohio University.

Joe D. Hagan, associate professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly of the University of Wyoming.

Gary Hawes, associate professor of political science, Ohio University.

John D. Huber, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly of the University of Rochester.

Stuart Kaufman, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Kentucky.

Jeffrey Kopstein, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder. Kopstein recently completed his Ph.D. at the University of California, Berkeley, and will spend the 1991-92 academic year on a Social Science Research Council Fellowship in Germany before taking up his position at CU.

Mark Lichbach, associate professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder; formerly of the University of Illinois, Chicago.

Paula D. McClain, professor of government and foreign affairs, University of Virginia; formerly School of Public Affairs, Arizona State University.

Paula D. McClain

James A. Nathan, Khalid bin Sultan Professor of Political Science and International Policy, Auburn University at Montgomery; formerly, University of Delaware.

Michael Nelson, professor of political science, Rhodes College; formerly Vanderbilt University.

Melissa A. Orlie, assistant professor of political science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

T. J. Pempel, professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder; formerly of Cornell University.

David Pion-Berlin, associate professor of political science, University of California at Riverside; formerly Ohio State University.

Paul J. Quirk, associate professor of political science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Susan E. Scarrow, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Houston; formerly Yale University.

Brigid A. Starkey, assistant professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly of the University of Maryland.

Yuan Ting, assistant professor, department of political science, Oakland University.

Susan Thomas, assistant professor, department of political science, Oakland University.

Edward Weisband, formerly Distinguished Teaching Professor, SUNY-Binghamton, now holds the Edward Singleton Diggs Endowed Chair in the Social Sciences at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Jeffrey Winters, assistant professor of political science, The University of Michigan.

Jeffrey S. Worsham, assistant professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly of Emory University and the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Huang Yasheng, assistant professor of political science, The University of Michigan.

Martha Zingo, assistant professor, department of political science, Oakland University.

Kimberly Martin Zisk, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly of Stanford University.

Promotions

John Campbell, professor with tenure, The University of Michigan.

Lois Lovelace Duke, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Clemson University.

Matthew Evangelista, associate professor with tenure, The University of Michigan.

John B. Gates, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of California, Davis.

Elizabeth Crump Hanson, professor, department of political science, University of Connecticut.

Michael A. Krassa, associate professor, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Mel Kulbicki, associate professor, department of history and political science, York College of Pennsylvania.

John McIver, associate professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder.

Jeffrey Macy, senior lecturer with tenure, political science department, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Don L. Mansfield, professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University.

David Mapel, associate professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder.

Karen Mingst, professor, department of political science, University of Kentucky.

John Nalbandian, professor, department of public administration, University of Kansas.

Jack Parson, professor of political science, College of Charleston.

Louis W. Pauly, associate professor, department of political science, University of Toronto.

Robert A. Poirier, professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University.

George W. Rice, professor emeritus, department of political science, West Virginia University.

John N. Short, professor, department of political science, University of Arkansas at Monticello.

John W. Sloan, professor, department of political science, University of Houston.

W. Rand Smith, professor, department of politics, Lake Forest College.

Zachary Smith, associate professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University.

Mary Ann Steger, associate professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University.

Walter J. Stone, professor, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder.

Richard Tobin, professor, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Gregory R. Weiher, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Houston.

Martin E. Weinstein, professor, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Frank Zagare, professor, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Cyrus Ernesto Zirakzadeh, associate professor, department of political science, University of Connecticut.

Retirements

Willard H. Elsbree, professor of political science emeritus, Ohio University.

Raymond H. Gusteson, professor of political science emeritus, Ohio University.

Edward Heubel, professor emeritus, Oakland University, effective August 1991.

John Lane, professor, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Theodore McNelly, department of government and politics at the University of Maryland-College Park, became professor emeritus in July 1990. He is continuing his research and publication projects.

Roger Marz, professor emeritus, Oakland University, effective August 1991.

Lester Milbrath, professor, political science and sociology, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Lois Lovelace Duke

George W. Rice, professor of political science, West Virginia University, effective May 1991.

Paul W. van der Veur, professor of political science emeritus, Ohio University.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

James B. Christoph, Indiana University, held a visiting appointment at Nuffield College, Oxford University, during the Trinity Term, 1991.

Robert E. DiClerico, professor, West Virginia University, spring semester 1990-91, as an exchange professor at Exeter University, England.

Frank Fischer, Rutgers University, will spend the 1991-92 academic year as a senior Fulbright scholar teaching American politics and public policy at the Institute for North American Studies of Free University of Berlin, Germany.

Ephraim Inbar, Bar-Ilan University, Israel, has been appointed as the Aaron & Cecile Goldman Visiting Israeli Professor, department of government, Georgetown University, 1991-92.

Ira Katznelson, New School for Social Research, is a visiting scholar, 1990-91, at the Russell Sage Foundation.

Gary Mucciaroni, New York University, is a visiting scholar, 1990-91, at the Russell Sage Foundation.

Clifford Orwin, University of Toronto, will be visiting professor of political science and co-director of the graduate workshop in political theory at the University of Chicago.

Margaret Weir, Harvard University, is a visiting scholar, 1990-91, at the Russell Sage Foundation.

Award Recipients

American Academy of Arts and Sciences

The American Academy of Arts and Sciences has announced the election of 195 new fellows and 21 foreign honorary members. Among them are the following political scientists and their affiliations.

Robert Bates, Duke University.

James W. Fesler, Yale University.

Gary C. Jacobson, University of California at San Diego.

Nannerl Overholser Keohane, Wellesley College.

John W. Kingdon, University of Michigan.

Stephen Krasner, Stanford University.

Elinor Ostrom, Indiana University.

Adam Przeworski, University of Chicago.

David O. Sears, University of California at Los Angeles.

American Association for the Advancement of Science

The following political scientists were elected in 1991 as Fellows of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. A Fellow is one whose efforts on behalf of the advancement of science or its applications are scientifically or socially distinguished.

Mark S. Frankel, American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Susan Hanson, Clark University.

Charlotte Newcombe Dissertation Fellowships

The 40 winners of the 1991 Charlotte W. Newcombe Doctoral Dissertation Fellowships will each receive a stipend of $11,500 to permit a final year of uninterrupted writing of their doctoral dissertations. Following are the political science students with their institutions and dissertation topics.

Joshua F. Dienstag, Princeton University. The Temple of History: Historical Thinking in Political Argument.

Debra A. Morris, Yale University. Politics without Foundations: The Postmodern Theories of Democracy.

Dirksen Center Congressional Research Grants

Fifteen writers, researchers, and graduate students will receive grants totalling $20,000 through the Dirksen Center's 1991 Congressional Research Grants Program. The grants range from $500 to $2,500 and all support studies of the U.S. Congress and congressional leadership.

This year's grant recipients with their affiliations and research topics are:

Scott Ainsworth, University of Georgia. Managing the Senate Floor: Leaders and Unanimous Consent Agreements.

William P. Browne, Central Michigan University. How Congress Decides: The Changing Dimensions of Agricultural, Rural and Related Environmental Policymaking.

Gregory A. Caldeira and Samuel C. Patterson, Ohio State University. The Social Matrix of Senate Leadership.

Jean M. Choate, Iowa State University. William Lemke and the National Farmers Process Tax Recovery Association.

Ken Collier, University of Kansas. White House Relations with Congress.

William F. Connelly, Jr., Washington and Lee University. The Permanent Minority Status of House Republicans.

Richard F. Fenno, Jr., University of Rochester. Research on the Explanatory Process in Senate Campaigns.

Shirley M. Geiger, University of South Carolina. The Effects of Environmental Change on Leadership Interactions and Decision Making in Subcommittees of the House Committee on Appropriations.

Malcolm E. Jewell, University of Kentucky, and Marcia L. Whicker, Virginia Commonwealth University. Comparing the Leadership Styles of Congressional and State Legislative Leaders.

Janann Sherman, Rutgers University. From Senate to White House: Margaret Chase Smith in the "Presidential Incubator."