DR. JOHN SNOW (1813–1858)

This photograph was one of a series entitled Literary and Scientific Portrait Club which consisted of a uniform set of portraits, assembled some time during or after 1857, of more than 1,100 eminent, literary and scientific men of the time. The terms of admission to the “club” required “each member having a photograph of himself taken by the artists of the club, Messrs. Maull and Polybank, 55 Gracechurch Street and 187a Piccadilly, at the cost of 10s. 6d. including an impression of himself”. (J. S. Bowerbank, Literary and Scientific Portrait Club, Heinz Archive and Library of the National Portrait Gallery, London, File P 106, 1–20.)
