This edition offers everything needed by the newcomer to this famous but intimidating text: images, maps, footnotes, and introductory essays by eighteen leading Joyceans.

“The Cambridge Centenary Ulysses is a brave and timely attempt to banish many of the fears that Joyce’s masterpiece causes for the ‘ordinary’ reader, if such a being exists—Joyce didn’t think so. Catherine Flynn and her team have done a welcome service of elucidation. And of course it’s a great pleasure to have the facsimile of the original text.”

Routledge and the Board of Editors Announce

Teresa L. Ebert and Mas'ud Zavarzadeh
Books in Marxist Social and Cultural Theory

Editorial Board: Bret Benjamin, Kimberly DeFazio, Shahrzad Mojab, Rob Wilkie

The task of the series is to advance new social and cultural theories grounded in historical materialism and to provide a collective space for a new generation of Marxist thinkers in dialogue with the most advanced forms of bourgeois thought.

The series is for the new. Not the “new” in bourgeois philosophies. Like the representatives of capital in liberal democracies who every “three or six years” fight with each other to “represent and repress” people, such “new” theories relentlessly compete with each other to design new illusions for maintaining the capitalist conditions that require newer and newer illusions.

The new in the series is the new of a historical becoming. It strives to comprehend and know its conditions of existence and understand why “the old system...must come to an end.” The series’ founding arguments are that “The mode of production of material life conditions the general process of social, political and intellectual life” and determines the “relationship of sovereignty and dependence, in short, the specific form of state” in a society.

Books in the series contribute to knowledge for conscious, organized class struggles to build a different society that crosses the “narrow horizon of bourgeois right” and inscribes on its banner “From each according to their ability, to each according to their needs!”

The series is critique-al. Bourgeois anti-critique bans critique as a negative “digging down” in the “deep dark below.” But, the “negative” is the becoming of the new, and the “deep dark below” is “the hidden abode of production” where one sees “not only how capital produces, but how capital is itself produced” and “The secret of profit-making” is “at last laid bare.”

Situated on the other side of reform-al marxisms (Neo-, Post-, Autonomous, Exit, Neue, Accelerationist, Krisis,...), the series overturns the libertarian fictions of “the common,” “capital is dead,” “communism of capital,” and the digital metaphysics that fashions Walmart as “the very anticipatory prototype of some new form of socialism.” Reform-al marxism and bourgeois thought (the contemporary expression of which are mostly in intersectionality, speculative realism, OOO, ANT, “new materialism,” social reproductionism...) are twins of the ruling ideas: “The ideas of the ruling class are in every epoch the ruling ideas.”

The series explores all Marxist critiques of capitalism, especially dialectical inquiries into the capitalist relations of production—its class contradictions, (im)material labor, value-form, general intellect, the law of value, wages and profits, labor process, climate change, imperialism, traveling capital, labor in the diaspora, fall in the rate of profit—and their cultural-social consequences. It includes books in metatheory as well as those analyzing the material links to struggles for the “positive transcendence of private property” and the return of humans to themselves as social beings. The series seeks to explain how the oppression that is one’s daily lived experience as “other” is caused not by cultural domination but by exploitation of labor at the point of production, by “the silent compulsion of economic relations.”

The series is directed by its Editorial Board of four Marxist scholars and coordinated by its Chief Editor, Dean Birkenkamp at Routledge: Dean.Birkenkamp@taylorandfrancis.com
Managing Editor, Michael Gibson: Michael.Gibson@taylorandfrancis.com.

Rediscover ★ Library of America

This first volume in the Library of America Don DeLillo edition presents three indispensable novels from the 1980s, published here with new prefaces by the author.
1136 pp. • LOA #363 • $45 cl

This authoritative new text corrects errors, restores key changes made to Hemingway's original punctuation—including to the novel's famous last line—and reinstates references to real people removed for fear of libel.
377 pp. • $15.95 pb [French flaps]

A landmark in the modern literature of war, in a 75th anniversary edition with a selection of letters—nine never before published—that reveal the novel's genesis in Mailer's own wartime service.
848 pp. • LOA #364 • $40 cl

Three novels by Rudolfo Anaya, one of the giants of Latino literature, including, on its 50th anniversary, the coming-of-age classic Bless Me, Ultima.
766 pp. • LOA #361 • $40 cl

This long-awaited second volume of Library of America's authoritative Fitzgerald edition features his greatest masterpiece in a newly corrected text, along with a selection of stories.
756 pp. • LOA #353 • $35 cl

Charlotte Perkins Gilman's fascinating utopian novels, Herland and With Her in Ourland, with the best of her stories—including "The Yellow Wall-Paper" in two distinct versions—and poetry.
912 pp. • LOA #356 • $45 cl

MLA Guide to Digital Literacy Second Edition

Ellen C. Carillo

176 pp. • 6 × 9

Paperback and e-book
$22.00

Member price
$15.40

The second edition of this best-selling classroom guide helps students understand why digital literacy is a crucial skill for their education, future careers, and participation in democracy. Offering practical guidance for assessing information online, this guide provides students with the tools to locate reliable sources among the clickbait and viral videos that pervade the web. The guide's hands-on activities, germane readings, and lesson plans give students strategies for reading and analyzing data visualizations; finding and evaluating credible sources; learning how to spot fake news; fact-checking; crafting a research question; effectively conducting searches on Google and on library catalogs and databases; finding peer-reviewed publications; evaluating primary sources; and understanding disinformation and misinformation, filter bubbles, propaganda, and satire in a variety of sources—including websites, social media posts, infographics, videos, and more (on platforms like Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube).

New to the second edition:

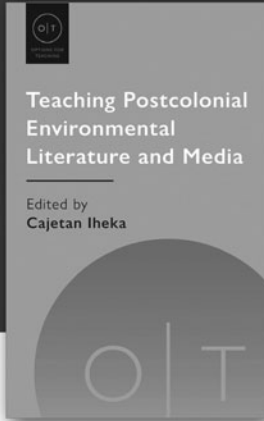

- attention to the ethical dimensions of digital technology, including privacy issues and bias in search algorithms—with an accompanying lesson plan
- an emphasis on how digital literacy can help stem racism, sexism, ableism, and the perpetuation of harmful stereotypes
- instruction on inclusive research and citation practices to avoid perpetuating systemic bias
- a new chapter, “Composing in Digital Spaces,” that offers instruction in multimodal composition and foregrounds accessibility
- a new and up-to-date reading, “The Real History of Fake News”
- a section on avoiding plagiarism
- updated references and examples
- resource lists of digital tools, platforms, and software that can support the practices described in the guide

CAN THE TRUTHS OF LITERATURE RIVAL THOSE OF HISTORY?

Vladimir Putin's invasion of Ukraine has brazenly re-enacted what Adolph Hitler did to Czechoslovakia and Poland in "the long 1939." Can we look to fiction when history repeats itself?

Mining the borderlands where history meets literature, James Heffernan shows how the imminence and outbreak of World War II ignited the imaginations of writers ranging from Ernest Hemingway, Martha Gellhorn, and W.H. Auden to Bertolt Brecht, Evelyn Waugh, Irène Némirovsky, and Henry Green, whose novel Caught vividly re-creates his own experience as an auxiliary fireman in the London Blitz.

Graham Greene once called Hemingway's For Whom the Bell Tolls "more truthful than history." Whether or not Greene was right, this book steadily compares historical narratives of the long 1939 with re-creations of its major events in works of literature written well before anyone knew how the war would end.

"Spoiler alert: this book will unsettle your fixed ideas about the difference between history and fiction, reality and imagination."

– W. J. T. Mitchell, University of Chicago, and Senior Editor of Critical Inquiry

"Heffernan's brilliant study of major writers, mostly novelists and poets, on the brink of the Second World War is both salutary and inspired. It's also compulsive reading ... This is a book to savor, and one that sends us quickly back to the writers under discussion."

– Jay Parini, American novelist, poet, biographer, and critic
