Saudi Arabia

The Ceaseless Quest for Security

NADAV SAFRAN

Nadav Safran's book is a masterguide of insight into and analysis of the often elusive nature of the behaviour of Saudi Arabia's rulers. Safran shows that security has been the predominant concern of Saudi Arabia since its creation – on a per capita basis its defence budget is by far the highest in the world. Safran traces the roots of Saudi preoccupation with security and its expression in defence and foreign policy through half a century and four reigns. The book can thus provide a unique perspective on the Kingdom's reaction to the explosive Arab-Israeli conflict; the shifting inter-Arab alignments and rivalries; the changing balance, revolution and war in the Gulf arena; and the bewildering politics and troubles of the Yemens.

Asian Power and Politics

The Cultural Dimensions of Authority

LUCIAN W. PYE, with Mary W. Pye

In a major new book, Lucian Pye reconceptualizes Asian political development as a product of cultural attitudes about power and authority. He not only contrasts the great traditions of Confucian East Asia with the Southeast Asian cultures of Hinduism and Islam, but also explores in depth the national differences within these larger traditions. The result is a dramatic advance in the theory of comparative political cultures.

Political Murder

From Tyrannicide to Terrorism

FRANKLIN L. FORD

Traversing civilizations, cultures, religions and modes of social behaviour, Franklin Ford's book is a unique inquiry into assassination. Are political murders usually produced by elaborate conspiracies, or are they more often the work of lone assassins? What motivates an individual to risk his/her life to kill another for reasons of state? Does assassination ever produce results consistent with the aims of those who attempt it? The questions raised are large ones and this book offers a sophisticated basis for seeking answers.

Spain After Franco

The Making of a Competitive Party System

RICHARD GUNTHER, GIACOMO SANI & GOLDIE SHABAD

On the death of General Franco in November 1975 there was considerable uncertainty about Spain's political future. After more than 35 years of government by dictatorship, would Spain become a democracy? If so, which parties would come to dominate the new political arena? By the end of 1978 a democratic constitution was approved and a party system created. This book focuses on competitive politics in Spain – their nature and development. The authors examine the interplay between the party-building and electoral strategies adopted by the new elites and the political orientations and behaviour of the mass public.

Hitler's Stalingrad Decisions

GEOFFREY JUKES

Why did the German summer offensive of 1942 decline swiftly from stunning success through stalemate to disaster? Geoffrey Jukes analyses the successive phases of Hitler's decisions in the Russian campaign that ended with the great defeat at Stalingrad. He shows how Hitler seriously underestimated the Russians, listened only to generals who shared his mistaken views, dismissed those who argued or failed to achieve the wildly overambitious targets, and withdrew under stress when urgent decisions were needed. He also describes the inability of generals to unite against Hitler or to find ways to disregard or subvert impossible orders, and their fatal neglect of potential Soviet counteraction.

KAL 007 and the Superpowers

ALEXANDER DALLIN

On September 1, 1983, a Soviet fighter plane shot down a South Korean commercial airliner, KAL 007, killing all 269 persons aboard. Why did the jet stray hundreds of miles off course, and fly for hours over Soviet territory, including sensitive nuclear and submarine installations? And why did the Soviets decide that the plane had to be brought down? These are the major questions that this volume addresses. It is the first book-length exploration of all the available information and it weighs each of the hypotheses that has been advanced both here and abroad to explain this dramatic episode.

The Prince

NICCOLÒ MACHIAVELLI

Translated, with an Introduction, by Harvey C. Mansfield, Jr.

This new translation of Machiavelli's classic work is the most literal and accurate available. It is entirely faithful to the original, yet remains accessible, written in idiomatic English. The introduction also contains a translation of Machiavelli's celebrated letter to Vettori in which he discusses The Prince.

Adversary Politics and Land

The Conflict over Land and Property in Post-War Britain

ANDREW COX

This book discusses the adversary basis of party politics in Britain and its impact on land policies since the Second World War. Emphasis is placed on the shaping of policy initiation by Conservative and Labour governments in the face of cumulative social, economic, bureaucratic and political constraints.

The Politics of the World-Economy

The States, the Movements and the Civilizations

IMMANUEL WALLERSTEIN

These essays elaborate on the political and theoretical implications of the world-systems perspectives outlined in the author's previous work, offering new perspectives on central issues of current political debate: the role of the super powers, the relations of the Third World to the capitalist 'core', and the potential for socialist revolutionary change.

The Spatial Theory of Voting

An Introduction

JAMES M. ENELOW and MELVIN J. HINICH

An important new approach to the study of voting and elections is proposed in this book: the spatial theory of voting, based on the premise of self-interested choice. It gives explicit definitions to behavioural assumptions and clarifies the consequences for the type of candidate or policy the voters will select.

The US-USSR Grain Agreement

ROGER B. PORTER

This study of the 1975 US-USSR Grain Agreement negotiations illuminates the parameters and constraints faced by policy makers in a democratic, pluralistic political system, and investigates the interaction between the formulation and implementation of a policy, suggesting that who is seen as responsible for a policy is often as important as its content. £17.50 net

Documents on the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict, 1967–1983

YEHUDA LUKACS

The Israeli-Palestinian conflict has generated a vast quantity of documents from many quarters and a plethora of suggestions for its resolution. Any serious analysis of the conflict demands a thorough familiarity with its documentary history, and this collection brings together key documents and statements of position from Israel, Palestine, the Arab countries, America and the United Nations. £19.50 net

African Regional Organizations

The Second Baldwin Government and the United States 1924–1929

Attitudes and Diplomacy

B. J. C. McKERCHER

It has long been argued that Baldwin's second government, especially the Foreign Office led by Austen Chamberlain, was to blame for the deterioration in Anglo-American relations in 1927–29. This book argues that Chamberlain consistently worked for an improvement in relations and found the means for a settlement in 1929. However, Labour's election success gave the credit to others and left Chamberlain's reputation tarnished. £22.50 net

Notes for Contributors

- 1 All contributions should be sent to: The Editor, British Journal of Political Science, University of Essex, Wivenhoe Park, Colchester, Essex CO4 3SQ. They should not be sent to the Cambridge University Press.
- 2 Articles submitted to the Journal should in general be between 5,000 and 12,000 words (or equivalent in tables and figures) in length. An abstract not exceeding 120 words is required.
- 3 Notes and Comments are welcome. A Note should contain a body of original information, a new method for doing something or a new idea (speculation, argument, proof, etc.) presented in a brief and unadorned form without inessential commentary. Comments containing criticisms of articles published in the Journal and additional thoughts on them will be considered for early publication, especially if they are short – say, under 1,000 words.
- 4 Most issues of the Journal contain a Review Article – either a detailed discussion of a single book or a review of the state of some area of the discipline. Review Articles submitted without prior consultation will be considered for publication, but in their own interest contributors would be well advised not to prepare a Review Article specially for the Journal without first getting in touch with the Review Articles Editor.
- 5 Contributors should note the Journal's editorial policy, which is as stated inside the front cover.
- 6 Authors of articles and Review Articles receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if they are ordered at proof stage.
- 7 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not been previously published and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. In the interest of authors, copyright is normally assigned to the Cambridge University Press.
- 8 Contributions intended for publication should be submitted IN TRIPLICATE. Contributions must be typed and may be reproduced in any clearly legible form. The preferred size of paper is A4 (8½ × 11½ in), but quarto (8 × 10 in) or the US standard size (8½ × 11 in) will also be accepted. Because of postage costs, manuscripts not accepted for publication are not normally returned to the author unless their return is specifically requested.
- 9 The entire material of any article, including footnotes, quotations, appendices, etc., should be double spaced, with left-hand margins of at least 1½ in. The preferred treatment of footnotes is that they should be numbered consecutively in the text and typed all together at the end, beginning on a fresh page.
- 10 Anyone who is preparing a manuscript for submission to the Journal is urged to follow the Journal's style sheet, which covers a number of detailed points concerning footnotes, punctuation, spelling, etc. Copies of the style sheet can be obtained from the Editor. Footnote references should always contain, in the case of books, the name of the author as it appears on the title page, the full title including any subtitle, the place of publication, the name of the publisher and the date of publication, and, in the case of articles, the name of the author, the full title, the name of the journal, the volume number, the year and the page reference (number of first and last page).
- 11 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by air mail where appropriate, within ten days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent directly to the Editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
