Supreme Court Economic Review

Supreme Court Economic Review is a unique interdisciplinary series that applies economic and legal scholarship to the work of the Supreme Court of the United States. Contributions typically provide an economic analysis of the events that generated the Court's cases, of its functioning as an organization, of the reasoning the Court employs in reaching its decisions, and of the impact these verdicts have on society. Hoping to stimulate interest in the economic dimension of the Supreme Court and to explore solutions to the complex problems it addresses, SCER goes further than other periodicals in truly merging law and economics. Its focus on the Supreme Court makes the SCER an outlet for law and economics analysis that is not available elsewhere.

Volume 6 contents include:

The Best in

When Law Goes Pop

The Vanishing Line between Law and Popular Culture

Richard K. Sherwin

"When Law Goes Pop confirms that law has indeed entered the age of mass media imagery and that the stakes could hardly be higher. Elegantly written, provocative in the questions that it raises, inspiring in the hope that it stirs, this compelling work casts much-needed light on the spectacle of law both inside the courtroom and in the court of public opinion. It is required reading for anyone concerned about the rule of law in our time."—Nadine Strossen, president, American Civil Liberties Union
Cloth $27.00

The Federal Impeachment Process

A Constitutional and Historical Analysis

Michael J. Gerhardt

"The most comprehensive, analytic study of the federal impeachment process to date"—Choice

"This book. . . will be the standard work for years to come."—Constitutional Commentary
Paper $17.00

Troubling Confessions

Speaking Guilt in Law and Literature

Peter Brooks

"[A]n illuminating book on the role of confession in Western thought. Troubling Confessions. . . examines confession in the context of the church, the analyst's couch and the novelist's pen, as well as in judicial opinions, which Professor Brooks reads as literary texts and places in the company of Dante, Rousseau, Dostoevsky and James Joyce."—Linda Greenhouse, New York Times
Cloth $24.00

Cop Knowledge

Police Power and Cultural Narrative in Twentieth-Century America

Christopher P. Wilson

"Cop Knowledge breaks new ground in police analysis. This is a riveting exploration of the ways in which the actual history of policing in the U.S. is intertwined with police myths fostered by the media. Wilson's analysis is approachable, engaging, and, ultimately, disturbing."
—Connie Fletcher, author of What Cops Know

Youth on Trial

A Developmental Perspective on Juvenile Justice

Edited by Thomas Grisso and Robert G. Schwartz

Experts in developmental psychology investigate the current limitations of our youth policy with an eye to the developmental realities of adolescence. The first part of the book establishes a developmental perspective on juvenile justice; the second and third parts apply this perspective to issues of adolescents' capacities as trial defendants and questions of moral and legal culpability.

The Changing Borders of Juvenile Justice

Transfer of Adolescents to the Criminal Court

Edited by Jeffrey Fagan and Franklin E. Zimring

Despite declining juvenile crime rates, every state has increased the number of youths tried and punished as adults. In this collection, researchers discuss policy, waivers, and the boundaries of the courts.

Journal of Women in Culture and Society

Edited by Carolyn Allen and Judith A. Howard Published quarterly by
The University of Chicago Press

Since its inception in 1975, Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society has been recognized as the trailblazer in the field of women's and gender studies. In fact, Signs is consistently ranked among the top core journals in women's studies (source: SSCI Journal Citation Reports).

Signs' international scope includes articles from a wide range of disciplines in a variety of voices — articles engaging gender, race, culture, class, sexuality, and nation. The focus of essays ranges from cross-disciplinary theorizing and methodologies to specific disciplinary issues. Signs is a reliable resource for scholars, students, and professionals throughout the humanities, social sciences, education, law, and public policy.

- Unconventional perspectives

Signs encourages new methods of scholarship, analysis, and interpretation with articles that contest and reconfigure such founding terms as woman, culture, feminist, race, and nation.

- Unique attractions

Signs publishes major articles, disciplinary review essays, book reviews, special issues and sections, "U.S. and International Notes," and a "Comments and Reply" section, which provides a forum for lively debate between authors and readers. Signs takes its readers in provocative directions with cover designs that raise questions and promote energetic discussion. In fact, Signs recently won the annual award for the best journal design from the Council of Editors of Learned Journals (CELJ).

- Superb value

Your subscription to Signs ensures that you will keep pace with the latest interdisciplinary inquiry in the field, and it will energize your research with the most intense debate in women's studies—all at reasonable rates.

ethics

an international journal of social, political, and legal philosophy

John Deigh, Editor

Published quarterly by The University of Chicago Press

Purpose and Scope

Founded in 1890, Ethics is an international journal of moral, political, and legal philosophy. It presents scholarly work from a variety of disciplines and intellectual perspectives, including philosophy, social and political theory, law, and economics. Taking a cross-cutting approach, the journal aims to bring theory and its applications to bear on contemporary moral issues. In addition, Ethics offers about 200 review essays, survey articles, book reviews, and book notes per volume.

Special Features

Ethics publishes symposia and special issues that examine particular topics in depth through the contribution of distinguished scholars. Recent examples:

Martha Nussbaum's Political Philosophy, articles by Louis Antony, Hilary Charlesworth, Richard Arneson, Richard Mulgan, and Martha Nussbaum

Symposium on John Rawls's Law of Peoples, articles by Charles Beitz and Allen Buchanan

Christine Korsgaard's Creating the Kingdom of Ends, articles by Hannah Ginsborg, Paul Guyer, J. B. Schneewind, and Christine Korsgaard

Physician-Assisted Suicide, articles by Judith Jarvis Thompson, Dan W. Brock, Paul J. Weithman, Gerald Dworkin, F. M. Kamm, J. David Velleman, and Ezekiel J. Emanuel

Trust, articles by Karen Jones, Russell Hardin, and Lawrence C. Becker
