

People in Political Science

Activities

Weston H. Agor, professor and director of the MPA program at the University of Texas, El Paso, appeared on the NBC Today Show on September 2, 1986, to discuss his research on the use of intuition in management. His second book on this subject, The Logic of Intuitive Decision Making, will be published in November 1986 by Greenwood Press.

Douglas E. Ashford, Mellon Professor of Comparative Politics at the University of Pittsburgh, has been given a Swedish Bicentennial Award to spend a month visiting Sweden over 1986-87 in connection with his comparative study of modern welfare states.

Charles T. Barber, professor of political science at the University of Southern Indiana, has been elected to a two-year term as Executive Secretary of the Indiana Academy of the Social Sciences. In addition, he was local arrangements chairman for its 1986 annual meeting, which focused on "The Internationalization of Indiana."

Harold B. Birch, department of government and international studies, University of South Carolina, has been elected president of the South Carolina Political Science Association.

David Colby, University of Maryland Baltimore County, has received a 1986 Robert Wood Johnson Fellowship.

R. Darcy, Oklahoma State University, delivered an address, "The Future of Women in Politics," at the International Year of Peace Conference at Kyung Hee University, Seoul, Korea, September 1986.

Paul W. Drake, professor of political science, and Institute of the Americas Chair for Inter-American Affairs, University of California, San Diego, has been elected vice president (automatically becomes president) of the Latin American Studies Association.

Stephen A. Douglas, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, will spend academic year 1986-87 at the Institut Teknologi Mara in Malaysia as part of the Midwest University Consortium for International Activities Cooperative Program.

Robert Duval, assistant professor, and David Hedge, associate professor, West Virginia University, have received a two-year grant of $23,496 from the West Virginia Energy Research Center to conduct research on electricity demand forecasting.

Michael Fleet, department of political science, Marquette University, has received a Fulbright Lectureship in Chile for 1986-87.

Robert C. Gray, Franklin and Marshall College, will be a Research Associate at the International Institute for Strategic Studies in London during the spring semester of 1987.

Jorge Heine, associate professor of political science at the University of Puerto Rico, Mayaguez, has been elected to a third consecutive term to the Executive Council of the Caribbean Studies Association.

Kenneth M. Holland, University of Vermont, has been awarded a Fulbright grant to lecture in Japan.

Michael C. Hudson, professor of international relations and government and Seif Ghobash Professor of Arab Studies at Georgetown University, has been elected president of the Middle East Studies Association of North America for 1986-87.

Edward A. Kolodziej, University of

People in Political Science

Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, will spend academic year 1986-87 on sabbatical leave researching British, French and U.S. nuclear decisionmaking and research. He has received a Fulbright Research and a Woodrow Wilson fellowship to conduct research on the project in France and the United Kingdom.

George LaNoue, University of Maryland Baltimore County, has received a 1986 Swedish-American Bicentennial Exchange Fund Award.

Herbert Maza, president emeritus of the Institute for American Universities in Aix en Provence, France, has been appointed chairman of the European Council of the International Association of University Presidents.

John McAdams, department of political science, Marquette University, has received a grant from the Institute for Study of Economic Culture for work on "The Politics of the New Class," 1986.

Robert F. Melson has received a Purdue University Center for Humanistic Studies Fellowship for the spring 1987 semester.

Sophia Peterson, professor of political science, West Virginia University, received a $65,000 Fulbright-Hays Group Project Abroad Grant from the U.S. Department of Education for six-weeks travel and study in the Republic of China during the Summer 1986. The sixteen participants in the grant, all historians, will revise current history courses to include Chinese history.

Claude S. Phillips, Western Michigan University, has been appointed program vice-chair for the 1987 conference of the Association for Politics and the Life Sciences, a new section of the American Political Science Association.

James Rhodes, department of political science, Marquette University, has received a National Endowment for the Humanities Individual Senior Scholar grant for work on "Religion and Politics."

Elmer R. Rusco, professor of political science, University of Nevada, Reno, has received a grant-in-aid from the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library Association.

Henry Sirgo participated in a National Endowment for the Humanities Summer

Seminar at Stanford University under the direction of Otis Graham of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill entitled, "The New Deal: Origins, Record, Reputation." His project was "Blacks, the South, and the Nationalization of the Democratic Party: Coalition, Formation and Maintenance During the New Deal."

Richard T. Sylves, associate professor of political science, University of Delaware, was awarded a University Public Service Fellowship for 1986-87. He will be released from teaching to work a year for public television WHYY TV-12 (Wilmington-Philadelphia) as a News and Public Affairs Analyst.

Rickey Vallier participated in the American Political Science Association Summer Institute for the recruitment of black graduate students which was held at Louisiana State University.

Thomas P. Wolf, Indiana University Southeast, was awarded a Joseph J. Malone Fellowship to spend July 1986 in Egypt.

Christopher Wolfe, department of political science, Marquette University, has received a Bradley Foundation Grant, 1986-87, for work on a book on judicial activism.

Administrative Appointments

Eugene J. Alpert, associate professor, has been appointed chairperson of the department of political science at Texas Christian University for a three-year term effective August 1986.

Charles T. Barber, chairperson, department of political science, University of Southern Indiana.

Berenice A. Carroll's appointment as director of the Office of Women's Studies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign has been extended through academic year 1986-87.

Mark S. Frankel, program head for the Committee on Scientific Freedom and Responsibility of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Formerly director of the Center for the Study of Ethics in the Professions at the Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) in Chicago and adjunct associate professor of political science at ITT.

Peter A. Gourevitch, dean of Graduate School of International Relations and Pacific Studies, University of California, San Diego.

Samuel K. Gove has been appointed acting director of the Master of Arts in Public Administration program in the department of political science at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

George Graham, Vanderbilt University, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Devora Grynsban, formerly of Skidmore College, has been appointed assistant to the director for development with the Office of International Programs and Studies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; she will also be affiliated with the department of political science.

Natalie J. Hevener, vice chairman, department of government and international studies, University of South Carolina.

Charles A. Johnson, associate head, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Elizabeth G. King, assistant professor of political science at St. Norbert College, has been appointed director of the International Studies Program. King will administer a two-year, $82,000 Department of Education Grant recently received by St. Norbert College.

Lawrence Korb, dean, school of public affairs, University of Pittsburgh; formerly vice president, Raytheon.

David D. Laitin, chairman, department of political science, University of California, San Diego.

Lance T. LeLoup, chairperson, department of political science, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

David Littig, chair, department of political science, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

William T. E. Mishler, chairperson, department of government and political science, University of South Carolina; formerly of State University of New York at Buffalo.

Louise Byer Miller, Empire State College, State University of New York, has been appointed Coordinator of Social and Historical Studies, Center for Distance Learning.

Maria Chan Morgan has been appointed convenor of the Division of Social Sciences, Earlham College.

Donald F. Norris, director of Institute for Governmental Service, University of Maryland, College Park; formerly senior research associate at the Center for Applied Urban Research and an adjunct associate professor of public administration at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Claude S. Phillips has been appointed acting chairman, department of political science, Western Michigan University.

Marcus Pohlmann has joined the faculty of Rhodes College in Memphis, Tennessee, as associate professor of political science and chairman of the department of political science.

Edward Portis, director of graduate studies, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Robert F. Rich, formerly of Carnegie-Mellon University, has been appointed director of the Institute of Government and Public Affairs and professor of political science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Harrell Rodgers, Jr., professor of political science at the University of Houston, has been appointed dean of the College of Social Sciences.

Donald B. Rosenthal, chair, department of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo, for a three-year term beginning July 1, 1986.

Ernest E. Rossi, associate dean, College of Arts and Sciences, Western Michigan University, for a two-year term.

Marvin S. Soroos has been promoted to full professor and appointed to a five-year term as head of the department of political science and public administration at North Carolina State University, Raleigh.

Otis H. Stephens, Distinguished Service

People in Political Science

Ernest E. Rossi has been named associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Western Michigan University.

Professor, has been appointed as acting head of the political science department at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, for the 1986-87 academic year.

John H. Vanderzell, chair, department of government, Franklin and Marshall College.

David G. Wegge, associate professor of political science at St. Norbert College, was recently appointed director of the newly established St. Norbert College Survey Center.

Promotions

Tsuneo Akaha, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Bowling Green State University.

Sylvia Bashovkin, University of Toronto, associate professor with tenure.

Nathaniel L. Beck, associate professor, department of political science, University of California, San Diego.

James M. Carlson, professor, department of political science, Providence College.

Lief Carter, professor of political science, University of Georgia.

John Chamberlin, professor with tenure, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Marsha Chandler, professor, University of Toronto.

Harry I. Chernotsky, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, The University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Louise Comfort has received tenure at the associate professor level in the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs, University of Pittsburgh.

Russell J. Dalton, professor, Florida State University.

Robert H. (Robin) Dorff, North Carolina State University, Raleigh, associate professor with tenure.

Robert England, associate professor of political science with tenure, Oklahoma State University.

Robert K. Evanson, associate professor of political science with tenure, University of Missouri-Kansas City.

William Fierman, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Frederick H. Gareau, professor, Florida State University.

James Gibson, professor, department of political science, University of Houston.

Edie Goldenberg, professor with tenure, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Steven W. Hays, professor of political science, University of South Carolina.

Mark S. Hyde, professor, department of political science, Providence College.

David G. Houghton, associate professor, department of political science, Western Michigan University.

Thomas M. Holm, associate professor, department of political science, University of Arizona.

Peter H. Irons, professor, department of political science, University of California, San Diego.

Charles A. Johnson, professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Loch Johnson, professor of political science, University of Georgia.

Joseph Jucewicz, assistant professor, Franklin and Marshall College.

Sheldon Kamieniecki, associate professor, department of political science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Gary M. Klass, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Illinois State University.

Donald Kinder, professor with tenure, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

W. Wesley McDonald, associate professor, department of political science, Elizabethtown College (PA).

Timothy D. Mead, professor, department of political science, The University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Constance Squires Meaney, assistant professor, Franklin and Marshall College.

James T. Myers, professor of political science, University of South Carolina.

Bruce Oppenheimer, professor, department of political science, University of Houston.

Donald P. Racheter, associate professor of political science, having been previously granted tenure, at Central University of Iowa.

Peter G. Renstrom, professor, department of political science, Western Michigan University.

Terrel L. Rhodes, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, The University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Anne L. Schneider has been granted tenure as an associate professor of political science, Oklahoma State University.

Peter Solomon, professor, University of Toronto.

Richard Stren, professor, University of Toronto.

Michael P. Sullivan, professor, department of political science, University of Arizona.

Harry R. Targ, professor, department of political science, Purdue University.

Thomas Lyke Thompson, associate professor, department of political science, Western Michigan University.

Mark E. Tompkins, associate professor of political science with tenure, University of South Carolina.

William S. Turley, professor, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

John Vile, professor of political science, McNeese State University.

Joseph Wagner, associate professor, department of political science, Colgate University.

David G. Wegge, associate professor, St. Norbert College.

William F. West, associate professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

David P. Whiteman, associate professor of political science with tenure, University of South Carolina.

Nelson Wiseman, associate professor with tenure, University of Toronto.

New Appointments

James E. Alt, formerly of Washington University, St. Louis, has been appointed professor of government, Harvard University.

Christopher Allen, assistant professor of political science, University of Georgia; formerly with the Harvard Business School.

James A. Anderson, professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University; formerly at the University of Houston.

Robert C. Angel, assistant professor of political science, University of South Carolina; formerly of University of Alabama.

John Anderson, lecturer of political science, University of Massachusetts at

People in Political Science

Boston; former Congressman from Illinois.

Fred W. Becker, associate professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly Sangamon State University.

Seyla Benhabib, formerly of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been appointed associate professor of government, Harvard University.

B. E. Bergesen, Lindsay A. O'Connor Professor for fall 1986, department of political science, Colgate University.

Walter Berns, John M. Olin Professorship, Georgetown University.

Robert A. Bertsch, professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly University of South Dakota.

David Michael Billeaux, assistant professor of political science, Oklahoma State University; formerly of Pennsylvania State University Behrend College.

Barry Bluestone, Frank J. Boyden Professor of Political Economy with tenure, department of political science, University of Massachusetts at Boston; formerly of Boston College.

Joel Brooks, assistant professor, department of political science, Illinois State University; formerly of Lynchburg College, VA.

Gregory A. Caldeira, professor, department of political science, The Ohio State University; formerly University of Iowa.

James Carroll, adjunct faculty, graduate public policy program, Georgetown University; senior staff member at Brookings Institution.

Houchang E. Chehabi, formerly of Yale University, has been appointed associate professor of government and of social studies, Harvard University.

Fred Chernoff, assistant professor of international relations, department of political science, Colgate University.

William F. Connelly, Jr., assistant professor of politics, Washington and Lee University; formerly of Clemson University and most recently APSA Congressional Fellow.

Jill Crystal, assistant professor, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Roger Davidson, visiting professor, department of government, Georgetown University, 1986-87 academic year.

Michael Dawson, assistant professor, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Richard H. Dekmejian, professor and chair, department of political science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Arthur DiQuattro, assistant professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University; formerly at the University of Washington.

Richard Elling, director of the MPA program at Wayne State University; also elected to Ferndale, MI school board.

Matthew Evangelista, assistant professor, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

David H. Folz, former visiting professor, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

David B. Friedman, assistant professor of political science, University of California, San Diego; formerly a graduate student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Michael M. Gant, formerly associate professor at Texas A&M University, has been appointed associate professor of political science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

John G. Geer, assistant professor of political science, Arizona State University; formerly of Princeton University.

Paul Gehman, visiting assistant professor, State University of New York at Buffalo, formerly a graduate student at the University of Rochester.

Tracey L. Gladstone, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Wisconsin-River Falls; formerly of Northern State College, Aberdeen, South Dakota.

Daniela Gobetti, assistant professor, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

James Greer, assistant professor of political science, University of Massachusetts at Boston; Ph.D., University of Chicago.

Michael Greenberg, lecturer in political science, department of political science, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly of the University of Texas at Austin.

Paul Gurian, assistant professor of political science, University of Georgia; formerly a graduate student at the University of North Carolina.

Thane Gustafson, associate professor, department of government, Georgetown University, full-time in fall 1987. In current academic year, Gustafson will teach part-time at Georgetown while completing his work as director of the Soviet Studies Program at the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

Peter Haas, formerly a graduate student at MIT, and most recently visiting faculty member at Yale, to assistant professor, at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. He will be on leave 1986-87, on a fellowship at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

B. Welling Hall, assistant professor of political science, Earlham College.

Henry Hall, associate professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly Tennessee State University.

Olivia Hardeman, assistant professor of political science, Oklahoma State University; formerly of Chicago State University.

Paul Herrnson, formerly a graduate student at the University of Wisconsin, to assistant professor, at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Daniel Hewitt, adjunct faculty, graduate public policy program, Georgetown University; currently assistant professor, University of Connecticut.

Jeffrey Hill, adjunct faculty, graduate public policy program, Georgetown University; currently assistant branch chief, Regulatory Policy Branch, Office of Management and Budget.

Harry Hirsch, associate professor in political science, University of California, San Diego; formerly of Harvard University.

John C. Hughes, assistant professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly Itawamba Jr. College, MS.

Susan Hunter, assistant professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly coordinator of research services, Social Science Research Laboratory, San Diego State University.

Jerry Johnson, assistant professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly Idaho State University.

William Michael Johnston, associate professor of American politics, department of political science, Colgate University.

Marita Kaw, assistant professor, department of political science, The Ohio State University; formerly Michigan State University.

David M. Keithly, assistant professor of international relations, Troy State University Program; formerly Claremont McKenna College.

James Kellough, assistant professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Patrick J. Kenney, assistant professor of political science, Arizona State University; formerly of Wichita State University.

Paul Michael Kozar, assistant professor of political science, Mount Vernon College.

Ellis S. Krauss, formerly professor of political science at Western Washington University, has been appointed professor of political science at the University of Pittsburgh.

John A. Kroll, formerly of Cornell University, has been appointed assistant professor at Florida State University.

Alexander P. Lamis, associate professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly University of North Florida.

People in Political Science

Larry LeDuc, professor of political science, University of Toronto; formerly University of Windsor.

Michael Levy, adjunct faculty, graduate public policy program, Georgetown University; currently economist, Joint Economic Committee of U.S. Congress.

George A. Lopez, formerly of the department of political science of Earlham College, has accepted a joint appointment in the department of government and international studies and at the Institute for International Peace Studies of the University of Notre Dame.

Stephen Macedo, formerly a graduate student at Princeton University, has been appointed instructor in government, Harvard University.

Dwain Mefford, assistant professor, department of political science, The Ohio State University; formerly University of Southern California.

Alex Mintz, associate professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University; formerly at Hebrew University.

J. Stephen Morrison, a doctoral candidate at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, has been appointed a lecturer with the department of political science and the African Studies Program at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

Jennifer Nedelsky, assistant professor, joint appointment law and political science, University of Toronto; formerly Princeton University.

J. Keith Nicholls, assistant professor of political science, Arizona State University; formerly of Florida State University.

John Nutter, assistant professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Samuel C. Patterson, professor, department of political science, The Ohio State University; formerly University of Iowa.

H. W. Perry, Jr., formerly of Washington University, St. Louis, has been appointed assistant professor of government, Harvard University.

M. J. Peterson, formerly of the faculty of Harvard University and most recently of Brandeis University, to assistant professor at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Susan J. Pharr, formerly of Georgetown University, has been appointed professor of government, Harvard University.

Lawrence A. Powell, instructor of political science, Purdue University; Ph.D. candidate at MIT.

Michael B. Preston, professor, department of political science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Laurie A. Rhodebeck, assistant professor, State University of New York at Buffalo; formerly of Notre Dame University.

Jo Richardson, assistant professor of government, McNeese State University; formerly at the University of Arkansas at Monticello.

Michael J. Robinson, associate professor, department of government, Georgetown University, fall 1986.

Steven Rosenstone, professor with tenure, department of political science, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; formerly Yale University.

Lester Salamon, adjunct faculty, graduate public policy program, Georgetown University; currently director, Center for Governance & Management and the Non-profit Sector Project at the Urban Institute.

Eliz Sanasarian, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Glendon Schubert, professor of political science, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly of the University of Hawaii.

C. J. Schwendinger, instructor, Troy State University European Program; formerly University of Oklahoma.

Martin M. Shapiro, associate professor of international relations, Troy State University European Program; formerly Pace University.

Kenneth Shepsle, formerly of Washington University, St. Louis, has been appointed professor of government, Harvard University.

Grace Skogstad, associate professor of political science, University of Toronto.

Peter H. Smith, professor of political science, the Simon Bolivar Chair in Latin American Studies, and adjunct professor of history; formerly of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Donald R. Songer, assistant professor of political science, University of South Carolina; formerly of Oklahoma Baptist University.

Laurence R. Sprecher, associate professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly University of Southern California.

Rein J. Staal, Ph.D., University of California, Berkeley, 1985, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

Judith H. Stiehm, vice provost, faculty affairs, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Judith Swanson, assistant professor of political science, University of Georgia; formerly with Yale University.

Patricia Sykes, formerly of the faculty of Clark University, to assistant professor, at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Dennis F. Thompson, formerly of Princeton University, has been appointed professor of government, Harvard University.

William N. Thompson, associate professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Arturo Valenzuela, professor, department of government, and director of Latin American Studies Program, Georgetown University, January 1987.

Roberto Vichot, assistant professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Gary L. Wamsley, Centennial Professor of National Security Management, Troy State University European Program; formerly Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Richard W. Waterman, assistant professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly of the University of Houston.

Loren S. Weinberg, associate professor of public administration, Troy State University European Program; formerly University of New Mexico.

Harold Wolman, professor of political science, Wayne State University; formerly of Urban Institute and visiting professor at University of Salford, England, 1984-86.

Jerome E. Young, assistant professor of political science, University of Arkansas at Monticello; formerly of Northern Kentucky University.

Retirement

Walter S. G. Kohn, Illinois State University, after 30 years of service.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Jeffrey Abramson, visiting associate professor of government at Harvard University; from Brandeis University.

David Atwood, tutor in peace studies at Woodbrooke College, Birmingham, England, as visiting associate professor of political science, Earlham College.

Jonathan Aronson, University of Southern California, will be a visiting professor for the fall quarter 1986 at University of California, San Diego.

Nathaniel L. Beck, University of California, San Diego, is a visiting associate professor at Harvard University for 1986-87.

Richard K. Betts, visiting professor of government at Harvard University; from Brookings Institution.

Richard A. Brisbin, visiting assistant professor of political science, West Virginia University; formerly of SUNY-Potsdam and St. Mary's College.

Naomi Chazan, visiting professor of government at Harvard University; from Hebrew University, Jerusalem.

Peter F. Cowhey, University of California, San Diego, visiting professor at the University of Washington for the fall quarter 1986.

People in Political Science

Maurice Cranston, London School of Economics, visiting professor for the spring quarter 1987 at University of California, San Diego.

James Critchlow, former government official and Soviet Central Asia specialist, is spending the academic year 1986-87 as a visiting professor of political science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Robert B. Cunningham, associate professor of political science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, will be participating in a scholar exchange program with the Yarmouk University, Jordan, fall and winter quarters.

John Damis, visiting professor of government at Harvard University; from Portland State University.

Robert Danziger, Instituto Universitario Europeo, Florence, Italy, was a visiting associate professor, State University of New York at Buffalo, for the spring semester 1986.

Christophe Deissenberg, currently on the faculty of the University of Konstanz (FRG), will be at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for the academic year 1985-86 as a visiting associate professor.

Uday Desai, visiting scholar, Center for Asian Studies, University of Texas at Austin, spring 1986.

Henry Ehrmann, Dartmouth College, visiting professor for the winter quarter 1987 at University of California, San Diego.

Abdelmajid Ali Lel-Ersan Azzam, Yarmouk University, Jordan, will be teaching for the department of political science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, for the 1986-87 academic year.

Peter Euben, University of California at Santa Cruz, visiting professor, fall semester 1986; from University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Matthew Franck, visiting instructor, department of political science, Marquette University.

Michael Franz, visiting instructor, department of political science, Marquette University.

John Gilmour will be a visiting lecturer for the year 1986-87 at University of California, San Diego.

Merilee S. Grindle will be a visiting lecturer on government and social studies at Harvard University; from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Jacob Goldberg, Tel Aviv University, will be a visiting professor for the spring quarter 1987 at University of California, San Diego.

William H. Greenleaf, professor of political theory and government at the University College, Swansea, will be visiting professor of political science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, fall quarter.

James B. Greene, visiting assistant professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

J. Patrick Hagan, assistant professor of political science at West Virginia University, will be on leave during 1986-87 in order to teach at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Lubomyr Hajda will be a visiting lecturer in government at Harvard University.

Patricia A. Hurley, visiting assistant professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Gary C. Jacobson, University of California, San Diego, is a visiting professor at Stanford University for 1986-87.

Samuel H. Kernell, University of California, San Diego, is a visiting fellow at the Brookings Institution for 1986-87.

Joel Kovel, Albert Einstein College of Medicine, will be a visiting professor for the fall and winter quarters 1986-87 at University of California, San Diego.

Mark Kramer, visiting lecturer on government at Harvard University.

Jan-Erik Lane, Umea University, Sweden, will be a visiting professor for the spring quarter 1987 at University of California, San Diego.

Thomas B. Lee, Dean of the College of Graduate Studies at Tamkang University in Taipei, Taiwan, will be an Exchange

Professor at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for the 1986-87 academic year.

Carol S. Leff, who taught most recently at Washington University, St. Louis, will be a Graduate College Scholar and visiting assistant professor of political science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign during academic year 1986-87.

Michael H. LeRoy, J.D., University of North Carolina, 1986, will be a visiting assistant professor of political science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for the 1986-87 academic year.

Saideh Lotfian, visiting lecturer in political science, Texas Christian University.

James Manor, visiting professor of government at Harvard University; from University of Leicester.

Gregory A. Markko, visiting assistant professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University.

Deborah Mathieu, University of Arizona, will be a visiting assistant professor for the year 1986-87 at University of California, San Diego.

Athanasios Moulakis, European University Institute, Italy, will be a visiting professor for the year 1986-87 at University of California, San Diego.

Edward C. Page, visiting associate professor, department of political science, Texas A&M University; from University of Hull, Great Britain.

Nelson W. Polsby will be a visiting professor of government at Harvard University; from University of California, Berkeley.

R. V. R. Chandrasekhara Rao, dean of the School of Social Sciences, University of Hyderabad, Hyderabad, India, will spend the 1986-87 academic year as a visiting professor of political science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Lucille S. Rich, Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1985, will be a visiting assistant professor of political science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for the 1986-87 academic year.

Richard Rose, of the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow, will be in residence at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, during the second semester of 1986-87 as the John Hinkley Visiting Professor.

Scott D. Sagan will be a visiting lecturer on government at Harvard University.

Joel Schwartz, visiting assistant professor, University of Toronto.

Michael J. Shapiro, University of Hawaii at Manoa, visiting professor, fall semester 1986, from University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Manjula R. Shyam will be a visiting assistant professor at the University of Arizona for the fall semester of the 1986-87 academic year.

Gabriel Szekely, El Colegio de Mexico, will be a visiting professor for the winter quarter 1987 at University of California, San Diego.

Sheila Tobias, University of Arizona, will be a visiting lecturer for the spring quarter 1987 at University of California, San Diego.

James S. Todd will be a visiting assistant professor at the University of Arizona for the 1986-87 academic year.

Peter Trubowitz will be a visiting lecturer for the year 1986-87 at University of California, San Diego.

Mary L. Weaver, visiting assistant professor at government department and graduate public policy program, Georgetown University; from Trinity University in San Antonio.

Priscilla Wohlstetter, School of Public Administration, University of Southern California, will be a postdoctoral fellow with the Center for Policy Research in Education at The Rand Corporation, academic year 1986-87.