Wages and Earnings in the United States, 1860-1890

By Clarence D. Long

In this first volume of a projected three-volume study of wages and earnings in the United States from 1860 to the present, Dr. Long traces the course of money wages and annual earnings, and analyzes their buying power by means of a new index of consumer prices. He compares wages and earnings in different regions, industries, and occupations, and between males and females, skilled and unskilled workers, and adults and youths. Published for the National Bureau of Economic Research. 210 pages. Tables & Charts. $4

"This is an exceptionally readable, illuminating book. The viewpoints and materials presented are stimulating and balanced. It is comprehensive in scope and yet does not contain diverting materials. I shall be pleased to recommend it highly to teachers with whom we are associated."

WILLIAM D. GRAMPP

Here is an analytical report of one of the major changes in economic policy in modern times. It is the purpose of this study, the first ever written of the School, to describe what the School was, what ideas it put forward, where contemporary political economists stood in relation to the School, the methods and motives of the campaign to repeal the Corn Laws, and what the School did after the laws were repealed. The book presents a new view of the critical issues of the period and emphasizes the causes of change.

The ECONOMIC HISTORY ASSOCIATION

The Economic History Association was organized in 1940. Its purpose is to encourage research and teaching in the history of economic activity and of economic thought. It seeks to co-operate with societies devoted to the study of agricultural, industrial, and business history. It aims to bring together economists, historians, statisticians, geographers, and others who find that the story of economic change throws light on their field of interest or is enriched by their contribution. Membership is open to all who are interested in the history of economic life in all its phases in the United States and other countries.

THE JOURNAL OF ECONOMIC HISTORY is published for The Economic History Association by the Graduate School of Business Administration of New York University. Correspondence concerning contributions to THE JOURNAL should be addressed to George R. Taylor, Box 610, Amherst College, Amherst, Mass. Applications for membership should be addressed to Herman E. Krooss, Treasurer, in care of New York University, 100 Trinity Place, New York 6, N.Y.
