
SLEEMAN IN OUDH

An Abridgement of W. H. Sleeman's Journey through the Kingdom of Oude in 1849-50

Edited by P. D. REEVES

A detailed, accurate and unbiased account of conditions in the north Indian kingdom of Oudh before its annexation in 1896. The tour W. H. Sleeman, Resident at the court of the King of Oudh, made in 1849-50 through the rural areas of the kingdom provides a timely record of social, economic and political conditions, and of the effects of British intervention in Oudh affairs.

This edition is the first reprint of the text since 1958 and eliminates much extraneous material which made the book difficult to use in the past. $19.50

BISHOP HEBER IN NORTHERN INDIA

Selections from Heber's Journal

Edited by M. A. LAIRD

Selections from the journal of Reginald Heber, Bishop of Calcutta in 1823. His discussion encompasses government policies, contemporary social and cultural upheavals, and the countryside and historic buildings. The journal illuminates the British impact on the economy and society of India, and conversely, illustrates that country's effect on a moderate Anglican with evangelical sympathies. Includes a short glossary, select bibliography, frontispiece, two maps and nine reproductions of Heber's drawings. $19.50

Java in a Time of Revolution

Occupation and Resistance, 1944-1946

By BENEDICT R. O'G. ANDERSON. With remarkable scope and in scrupulous detail, Professor Anderson analyzes the Indonesian revolution of 1945. Against the background of Javanese culture and the Japanese occupation, he explores the origins of the revolutionary youth groups, the military, and the political parties to challenge conventional interpretations of revolutionary movements in Asia. $15.00

Culture and Politics in Indonesia

Edited by CLAIRE HOLT, with the assistance of Benedict R. O'G. Anderson and James Siegel. In these essays, the methods of anthropology, history, and political science are used to illuminate some of the cultural roots of Indonesian political behavior. The authors make clear how traditional institutions, beliefs, values, and ethnic origins affect conceptions of power and rebellion, influence political party affiliations, and create new modes of cultural expression. $14.50

Administration and Development in Malaysia

Institution Building and Reform in a Plural Society

By MILTON J. ESMAN. A recent effort by the Malaysian government to adapt its post-colonial bureaucracy to the requirements of rapid social change and economic development is described and evaluated in this book. Writing from the vantage point of a participant, the author explores an attempt to strengthen one section of Malaysia's governmental elite, its senior administrators, through a strategy of planned and guided change designated as "institution building." He points out that because Malaysia is a polyethnic society, its development strategies had to consider the intergroup tensions that constitute its overriding political problem. $12.50

South Asian Political Systems

The Politics of Afghanistan

By RICHARD S. NEWELL

Presented in this compact introductory survey are the facts and concepts necessary for a sympathetic and informed grasp of the political forces at work in contemporary Afghanistan. Introductory chapters concentrate on the geographical, linguistic, and social factors that largely define the setting of current Afghan political developments, and considerable attention is given to the royal efforts to unify and control the country over the past two centuries.

The heart of the book deals with the changing objectives and features of local and provincial government and the rapidly expanding administrative requirements caused by economic, political, and social change. The author gives close scrutiny to recent constitutional attempts to provide open political participation and fundamental civil liberties, and highlights the complex relationship between Afghan foreign relations and the magnitude and direction of foreign assistance. $9.50

Revolution and Cosmopolitanism

The Western Stage and the Chinese Stages

Joseph R. Levenson

Based upon a careful analysis of a wide selection of Western plays translated into Chinese during the 20th century, this study tries to place the Communist Cultural Revolution into a new historical perspective. “People’s war involves not merely a way of fighting
but a way of life.”

The Yen-an Way in Revolutionary China
by Mark Selden

The Chinese Communist Party was the first revolutionary party ever to come to power after a prolonged people’s war. In this study, Mr. Selden focuses on a single base area of the Communist resistance movement. Its center, Yen-an, was the party’s wartime capital and the name became synonymous with the entire movement. The principles of the Yen-an Way, the party’s wartime program, embody all the major features that have defined China’s subsequent revolutionary course. Based on a wealth of previously untapped materials, this work directly challenges prevailing interpretations of peasant nationalism and the rise of the Chinese Communist movement.

THE OPENING OF THE WISDOM-EYE

BY HIS HOLINESS TENZIN GYATSHO

The Dalai Lama

XIVth AND PRESENT GRAND LAMA OF TIBET

Written in the fourth year of the Dalai Lama's residence in India, THE OPENING OF THE WISDOM-EYE expounds clearly and succinctly the teachings of the Buddhist Dharma in Tibet.

It fills a need for a readable, uncomplicated book on the subject, and one that is unquestionably authoritative.

To set his text in historical perspective, the Dalai Lama introduces it with a short account of the arrival of Buddhism in Tibet in the 6th century CE, from India, and the subsequent spread of Dharma throughout his country.

THE OPENING OF THE WISDOM-EYE is being published in the English translation prepared in Thailand by three Oriental scholars—Thubten Katzang Rimpoché of Tibet, Bhikkhu Nagasena of India, and Bhikkhu Khantipalo of England. Their 27 pages of appended Notes to the Text include notes prepared for the Hindi edition. This version was originally published in Bangkok in a limited edition.

VIS AND RAMIN

Edited and Translated by George Morrison

This volume presents a prose translation of the Persian verse poem Vis o Ramin, composed in the eleventh century A.D. by Fakhr ud-Din Gurgani. The poem bears resemblance to the legend of Tristan and Isolde, and is one of the earliest of its kind in Persian literature, perhaps having a historical origin in the Parthian period. Although Gurgani uses Persian poetry to embellish the tale, the atmosphere of ancient Iran is faithfully conveyed. $16.00

Krishnamandala by Walter M. Spink. This volume explores the many sides of Krishna: the prankish child, ardent pastoral lover, princely hero, highest deity. The text draws on the rich devotional and rhapsodic Krishna literature, painting and sculpture to illuminate its theme. The illustrations (12 color, 111 monochrome), most of them previously unpublished, form a record of an exhibition organized by the author for The University of Michigan Museum of Art during the summer of 1970

America Encounters India, 1941-1947

Gary R. Hess

During World War II the demand of the Indian National Congress for independence placed the United States in an awkward position. Should she support a prized ally's intransigent colonial policy or fulfill her dedication to the ideals of the Atlantic Charter? In relating the events surrounding America's initial unfavorable response to nationalism in Asia, Gary Hess provides new insight into America's subsequent promises and frustrations in dealing with emerging peoples. $9.50

THE HISTORY OF KOREA

by Woo-keun Han
translated by Kyung-shik Lee edited by Grafton K. Mintz

“For the general reader, this is the best English language book on Korean history to appear to date. It fills a long-felt need and deserves a warm reception.”*

Hailing the first appearance of the English translation of this book in Seoul in 1970, the Journal of Asian Studies review went on to say, “Professor Han’s ability objectively and critically to narrate Korean history in its East Asian setting, with frequent and perceptive references to contemporary developments in both China and Japan, has given Western readers a book for which we have been waiting all too long.”

Now a new edition is available, published by The University Press of Hawaii. It is a revision of the 1970 edition and corrects all the errors (minor though many may have been) noted in the JAS review.
