
People in Political Science

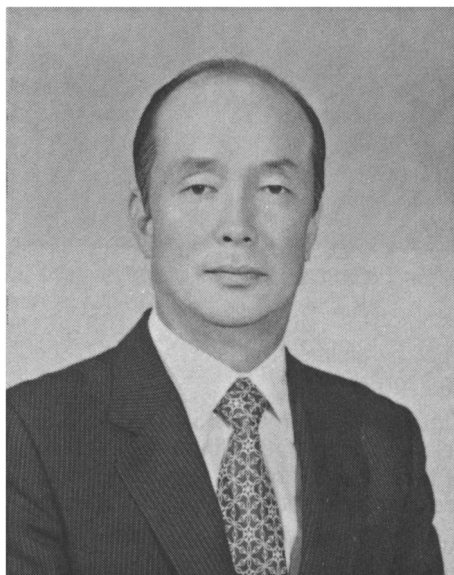

Activities

Joseph B. Board, Robert Porter Patterson Professor of Government at Union College, delivered a series of lectures on the U.S. Constitution at the Sorbonne during the fall of 1987.

Paul G. Buchanan, assistant professor of political science at the University of Arizona, has recently been notified by the Latin American Advisory Committee of the Howard Heinz Endowment that he is one of seven scholars to receive a research grant for Latin American Studies in the Endowment's annual competition. The title of Buchanan's research project for the Heinz Grant is "Labor Administration and

PAUL G. BUCHANAN

KIM OCK-JIN

Democratic Consolidation in the Southern Cone."

William K. Hall, Bradley University, will be a Fulbright Senior Lecturer at the University of Tokyo and the Japanese Foreign Service Training Institute, April 1988-January 1989.

Frederick Hartwig, professor of political science at Union College, is on a two-year leave of absence (1987-89) serving as a political analyst for Peter D. Hart Research in Washington.

Leslie Manigat, formerly professor of international relations at the Universidad Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, took office as president of Haiti on February 7. His latest book, The Caribbean and World Politics: Cross Currents and Cleavages (co-edited with Jorge Heine and published in New York by Holmes & Meier) was published on February 1.

People in Political Science

CAROL EVERLY FLOYD

Kim Ock-jin, former APSA Congressional Fellow, is in charge of the daily operation of the Seoul Olympic Organizing Committee as Vice President/Secretary General.

Arlene Saxonhouse, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, has been awarded an NEH fellowship for 1988-89 to work on a project entitled, "The Fear of Diversity and the Birth of Political Science."

J. David Singer, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, will spend part of summer 1988 as a Fulbright scholar in Yugoslavia.

Administrative Appointments

P. Bai Akridge, Program Manager of Corporate and Scientific Programs, IBM's Asia-Pacific Group Headquarters in Tokyo, Japan, for three years starting April 1, 1988.

Pedro A. Caban, assistant professor of political science at Fordham University, has been elected chair of the Institute for Puerto Rican Policy. Currently, Caban is on sabbatical leave on a Ford Foundation Post-Doctoral Fellowship conducting research on the nature of political institutions in Puerto Rico.

William J. Daniels, professor of political science, Union College, has been named associate dean for undergraduate studies, Union College.

Robert Duval, director of graduate studies, department of political science, West Virginia University.

Carol Everly Floyd, Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, Illinois Board of Regents.

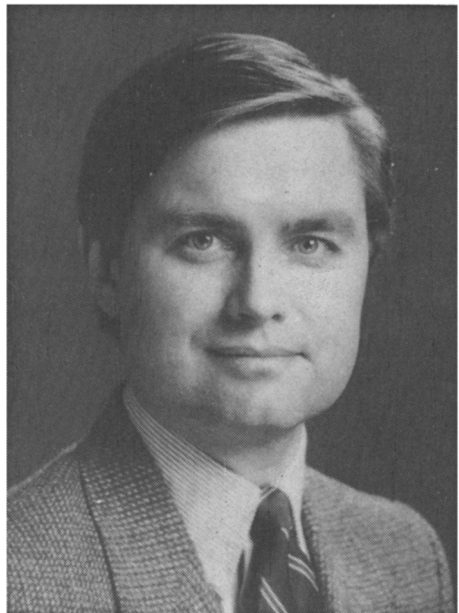

Michael V. Gershowitz, formerly of Long Island University, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Dean of the Faculty at Westminster College of Salt Lake City.

Allan Hammock, acting associate dean, College of Arts and Sciences, West Virginia University.

David Hedge, acting chair, department of political science, West Virginia University.

Robert A. Heineman, professor of political science, has been named Director of the Center for Research and Scholarly Activities in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Alfred University.

Anthony King, Pro-Vice-Chancellor (Academic), University of Essex, until September 1989.

JOHN J. KORNAKCI

PS: Political Science & Politics

PAULA D. McCLAIN

Lawrence J. Korb, director, Center for Public Policy Education, The Brookings Institution; formerly University of Pittsburgh.

John J. Kornacki, formerly National Center for Food and Agricultural Policy, has been chosen as executive director of the Dirksen Congressional Center, effective April 1988.

Gregory Mahler, associate professor of political science at the University of Vermont, has been appointed associate director of the University's Canadian Studies Program.

Jarol B. Manheim, director, Political Communications Program, The George Washington University.

Paula D. McClain of Arizona State University was elected president-elect of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists at their nineteenth annual meeting in Washington, D.C. March 23-27, 1988. She will be the Program Chair for the Conference's 20th anniversary meeting in Baton Rouge, LA in 1989.

Henry R. Nau, associate dean, School of International Affairs, The George Washington University.

Walter C. Opello, Jr., chair, department of political science, State University of New York, Oswego; formerly University of Mississippi.

Bruce Oppenheimer, professor of political science at the University of Houston, has been appointed co-editor of Legislative Studies Quarterly.

Steven A. Peterson, professor of political science, has been named chair of the Division of Social Sciences at Alfred University.

Irving Shiffman, chair, department of political science, California State University at Chico.

Michael Stohl, associate director of international research and education, Purdue University.

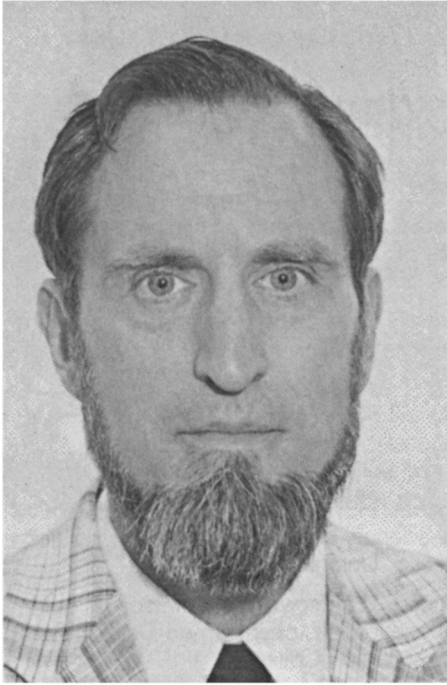

Charles M. Tidmarch, professor of political science, chair, department of political science, Union College.

James E. Underwood, professor of political science, has been named Dean of Faculty at Union College.

HENRY R. NAU

People in Political Science

CLAUDE E. WELCH, JR.

Claude E. Welch, Jr., professor of political science at the State University of New York at Buffalo, has been named editor of the quarterly academic journal Armed Forces and Society.

Frank L. Wilson, head, department of political science, Purdue University.

New Appointments

Richard Brisbin, Jr., assistant professor, department of political science, West Virginia University.

William J. Dixon, associate professor of political science, University of Arizona; formerly at Emory University.

Gregory Gleason, assistant professor, political science department, University of New Mexico, effective fall 1988; formerly University of Miami.

Paul Heisig, assistant professor, department of political science, Bradley University; formerly Northeastern State University (Oklahoma).

W. Martin James III, assistant professor in political science, Henderson State University; formerly Director of Research for Arkansas Auditor of State.

Charles O. Jones, Glenn B. and Cleone Orr Hawkins Professor of Political Science, University of Wisconsin-Madison; formerly University of Virginia. Also is a visiting fellow at the Brookings Institution from January-August 1988.

Promotions

Larry T. Aspin, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Bradley University.

Robert Durant, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Georgia.

Evelyn Fink, assistant professor, Dartmouth College.

Jo-Anne Hart, assistant professor of political science, Brown University.

Thomas Lauth, professor, department of political science, University of Georgia.

Lynn Mather, professor, Dartmouth College.

Han Park, professor, department of political science, University of Georgia.

Rodger Yeager, professor, department of political science, West Virginia University.

John Kroll, assistant professor, Dartmouth College.

Michael Mastanduno, assistant professor, Dartmouth College.

Margaret Pearson, assistant professor, Dartmouth College.

Richard Sobel, assistant professor of political science and research associate at the Roper Center for Public Opinion Research at the University of Connecticut, Storrs.

Paul F. Whiteley, professor of political science, University of Arizona; formerly at the University of Bristol in England.

Retirement

Richard Sterling, professor, Dartmouth College, as of June 30, 1987.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

David Clinton, visiting assistant professor of political science, Union College; formerly of Hamilton College.

Judith Garber, visiting instructor of political science, Union College; formerly of University of Maryland.

Thomas Holbrook-Provow, visiting instructor of political science, Union College; formerly of University of Iowa.

Pippa Norris, visiting scholar at Columbia University for the spring semester 1988, during a period of sabbatical leave from Newcastle Polytechnic, England.

Donald Rosdil, visiting assistant professor, Dartmouth College, 1987-88.

Award Recipients

Dirksen Congressional Center

Correction: In our winter 1988 issue of PS, we indicated that the Dirksen Center gave grants ranging from $20,000 to $25,000 to award recipients. The correct amounts for individual awardees range from $300 to $3,500.

Tinker Foundation

The following political scientists are recipients of Tinker Field Research Grants for 1987-88. Listed under their institution of affiliation, the names are followed by project titles and country destinations.

Council on Latin American Studies, Duke University

Arturo Borja. The State, Transnational Corporations, and the Computer Industry in Mexico, Argentina and Brazil. (Argentina, Brazil)

Cynthia Irvin. Revolutionary Nationalism in Post-Franco Spain. (Spain)

*Center for Latin American Studies,
Stanford University*

Alison Brysk. Resistance to State Terror: Argentina's Mothers of the Disappeared. (Argentina)

Shelley McConnell. Democracy in Socialist Nicaragua. (Nicaragua)

Kenneth Roberts. Political Conflict and Redemocratization in Latin America. (Chile)

Kurt Weyland. Brazil's Transition from Authoritarianism: Its Impact on the System of Interest Representation. (Brazil)

*Ralph Thayer Stone Center for Latin American Studies,
Tulane University*

Roland Ebel. The Political Career of Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes. (Guatemala)

Elba Gonzalez de Lugo. Brazilian, Mexican and Venezuelan Energy Politics: A Comparative Analysis. (Mexico)

Kenneth Johnson. Parties, Unions and Revolution in Central America: A Comparison of Guatemala, Nicaragua and El Salvador. (Guatemala, Nicaragua, El Salvador)

Neville Marshall, Jr. Export Production and Land Availability in Guatemala, 1900-1944. (Guatemala)

Latin American Area Center, University of Arizona

Sylvia Pinal-Calvillo. The Role of Coffee Marketing Boards in Redistributive Policy in Brazil and Mexico. (Brazil, Mexico)

*Center for Latin American Studies,
University of California*

Leslie Armijo. Bankers and Technocrats: The Political Economy of Brazilian Finance, 1960-1987. (Brazil)

Wendy A. Hunter. Parties and Unions in Brazil: Political Polarization or Democratic Consolidation? (Brazil)

James E. Mahon, Jr. Political Context and