Work and Politics

The Division of Labor in Industry

CHARLES F. SABEL

'In a short review like this it is impossible to do justice either to the sweep or the detail of this excellent book. But its main originality cannot be too strongly emphasised. It lies in the author's attempt to see the working lives of the shop floor workers through their own eyes and values.'

Durkheim and Modern Sociology

STEVE FENTON

with the collaboration of ROBERT REINER
and IAN HAMNETT

This introduction to the work of one of sociology's founding fathers fulfils three aims. It provides, first, a clearly written introduction to Durkheim's major works. Secondly, it examines the continuing relevance of Durkheim's work to issues of current concern. Thirdly, it assesses the recent interpretations of Durkheim as a 'radical' thinker in contrast to the view of him as fundamentally conservative.

Critical Hermeneutics

A Study in the Thought of Paul Ricoeur and Jürgen Habermas

JOHN B. THOMPSON

'Placing Ricoeur in context with the more familiar ordinary language philosophy, and critical theory of Habermas allows Thompson both to make Ricoeur's work more accessible, and to outline a general problematic for social science, within which to establish his own 'critical hermeneutics' ... an exciting programme.'

Identity and Stability in Marriage

JANET ASKHAM

Based on a detailed examination, by interview, of the joint lives of a small sample of married couples, this book presents a new way of looking at and understanding marriage behaviour. It examines both the search for a sense of personal identity and that for a sense of stability or security within marriage, and asks whether these aims are reconcilable.
