THE PALACE OF MINOS AT KNOSSOS. By SIR ARTHUR EVANS,
D.Litt., F.R.S., etc. Vol. I.—The Neolithic and Early and Middle Minoan Ages. With 542 Figures in the Text, Plans, Tables, Coloured and Supplementary Plates. Crown 4to.
£6 6s. net.

"To something like Schliemann's sanguine faith and more than his concentration on his quest, Sir Arthur Evans adds the widest range of knowledge possessed by any living archaeologist. . . . His book will remain in use far longer than any one of his predecessors."—The Times.

OUR HELLENIC HERITAGE. By H. R. JAMES, M.A. Vol. I.: Part I., The Great Epics; Part II., The Struggle with Persia. With Illustrations and Maps. Crown 8vo.
6s. net. Also the Separate Parts, 3s. 6d. each.

"The author brings to his task a rare critical acumen combined with deep scholarship, and his book is the outcome of both these gifts. Added to which he possesses a capacity, not unlike Walter Pater, for writing English in such a way as to suggest Greek culture and customs."—Education.

AGRICOLA. A Study of Agriculture and Rustic Life in the Greco-Roman World from the point of view of Labour. By W. E. HEITLAND, M.A., Fellow of St John's College. Royal 8vo. 47s 6d net.

'A volume which everyone who studies the classics on the sound lines recently laid down by the Committee which has been inquiring into their educational value will surely recognise as an indispensable companion to his reading either of the authors themselves or of the history of Greece and Rome. . . . Agricola is more than a mine of priceless material; it is a book, a piece of admirable engineering which it is a pleasure to praise.'—The Westminster Gazette.

THE ORIGIN OF TYRANNY. By P. N. URE, M.A. With 46 illustrations. Demy 8vo. 35s net.

The view that the prevalence of tyranny in the seventh and sixth centuries B.C., one of the most momentous periods in the whole of the world's history, was in some way connected with the invention of coinage has been occasionally expressed. The author is of opinion that the evidence points to conclusions of a more wide-reaching character, and that the seventh and sixth century Greek tyrants were the first men in their various cities to realise the political possibilities of the new conditions created by the introduction of the new coinage, and that to a large extent they owed their position as tyrants to a financial or commercial supremacy which they had already established before they attained to supreme political power in their several states.

EPILOGOMENA TO THE STUDY OF GREEK RELIGION. By JANE ELLEN HARRISON, Hon. D.Litt. (Durham), Hon. LL.D. (Aberdeen), Fellow and Lecturer of Newnham College, Cambridge. Demy 8vo. 3s 6d net.

'In this brochure Miss Jane Harrison sums up the results of her long-continued studies in early Greek religion, and in the last pages she applies those results to the religious movements of to-day. It is written in the pellucid and charming style of all her works. There is no doubt as to the interest and value of the researches here summarised.'—The Manchester Guardian.

ESSAYS ON THE LATIN ORIENT. By WILLIAM MILLER, M.A., Oxon. With 7 plates, 2 illustrations in the text, and a map. Royal 8vo. 40s net.

'One can follow here, under Mr Miller's guidance, the story of Greece itself from the Roman Conquest down to the emancipation from the Turks. . . . An entrancing volume for the lover of history; there is scarcely a paragraph that is not provocative of reverie.'—The Pall Mall and Globe.

HORACE: ODES AND EPODES. A study in poetic word-order. By H. DARNLEY NAYLOR, M.A. Demy 8vo. 20s net.

This book is not a new commentary, but a study in poetic word-order with illustrations from the Odes, Carmen Saeculare, and Epopdes of Horace, intended to be used side by side with any edition of the poet. The author's aim is to show that word-order is no more negligible in poetry than it is in prose, and that the rules laid down by Prof. J. P. Postgate and exemplified by the author in certain Livian studies are observed by the poet no less than by the writer of prose.

THE RENAISSANCE OF ROMAN ARCHITECTURE. Part I, Italy. By SIR THOMAS GRAHAM JACKSON, BART., R.A. With a frontispiece in colour. 47 plates (6 in colour), and 26 illustrations in the text. Crown 4to. 42s net.

'We already owe to the artistic labours of Sir Thomas Jackson two splendid books giving a connected account of the course of Architecture in Europe from the fall of the Roman Empire, through the successive stages of the Byzantine, Romanesque, and Gothic styles, down to the dawn of the Renaissance. He now continues the story into the period of the attempted revival of Roman Architecture. . . . It is a fascinating story, and it is here vividly presented. The volume is profusely and beautifully illustrated.'—The Pall Mall and Globe.
