WHOLE-TIME COURSES FOR POSTGRADUATE STUDENTS

February 17th-May 22nd, 1964 and August 10th-November 13th, 1964.

Basic Sciences Class for Part I D.L.O. students.

This consists of approximately 50 lecture/demonstrations on the anatomy of the head, neck, thorax and brain; 20 lectures covering the physiological aspects; 6 on applied pharmacology; and 8 on histological and pathological and bacteriological subjects. Facilities are also available for dissection of the relevant parts, and this occupies about 120 hours.

January 6th-February 15th, 1964 and June 29th-August 8th, 1964.

Intensive Clinical Lecture Period for Part II D.L.O. and other students.

These periods are primarily designed to give a clinical survey of the whole field of the Specialty as a preliminary to practical clinical training. At the completion of the Intensive Lecture Period, selected students may be given the opportunity to serve as house surgeons in the associated hospitals.

June 1st-13th, 1964 and November 11th-24th, 1964

Practical Revision Class for Part II D.L.O. students.

This is intended for those students who are well advanced in preparation for the examination and need only the opportunity for a final review. The class includes demonstrations of selected clinical cases and viva voce examinations.

April 6th-18th, 1964 and October 12th-24th, 1964.

Advanced Revision Course for students taking higher surgical examinations.

This is limited to senior students who are about to take the Final examination. In addition to a series of lecture/discussions at the appropriate level in the Specialty and in related branches of general surgery, there are a number of clinical and viva voce sessions and arrangements for the setting and correction of test papers.

NOTICE

Copies of New Aspects in the Biology and Pathology of the Inner Ear by Dr. K. H. Vosteen, in an English language translation, are available from the Beltone Institute for Hearing Research.

The 112-page Vosteen work, first presented at the annual meeting of the German Otolaryngological Society in 1961, but not previously available in English, represents the first attempt to sum up the present state of knowledge of biochemical aspects of the auditory process. It is the sixteenth in the Translation series sponsored by the Institute.

The Institute, financed by Beltone Electronics Corporation, is an independent, not-for-profit trust organization which supports research in hearing and other related fields. Trustees are S. F. Posen, chairman; Raymond T. Carhart, Ph.D.; Joseph E. Hind, Jr., Ph.D.; John R. Lindsay, M.D.; and S. Richard Silverman, Ph.D. Juergen Tonndorf, M.D., is editor of the Translations.

Translations may be secured at no charge by writing to the Beltone Institute for Hearing Research, 4201 W. Victoria Street, Chicago.

HISTORICAL AND EDUCATIONAL COLLECTION OF SURGICAL INSTRUMENTS AND OTHER OBJECTS OF OTOLARYNGOLOGICAL INTEREST

October 31st, 1963

Dear Sir,

The Institute of Laryngology and Otology and the Royal National Throat, Nose and Ear Hospital have, during the past fifteen years, collected a considerable number of surgical instruments which had been devised and used during the period of development of Otolaryngology. Many of these were already in the Golden Square and Gray's Inn Road Hospitals, others have been generously presented by colleagues from their own or from their hospital's collections. They also possess a number of the older books on the specialty, of programmes of meetings, congresses and other special occasions and of medallions and certificates presented for various services to members of the specialty at home and abroad. These collections have been put together as a permanent historical and educational exhibition depicting the growth and progress of our special branch of medicine and surgery, and are being housed in a room set apart for the purpose in the Institute.

There are, quite naturally, many gaps in the collection as yet, and it is felt that examples of some of the instruments and other objects that are wanted may be in the possession of readers of the Journal who may be disposed to offer them to the Institute to fill some of the gaps and thus to enhance the educational value of the collection. Any such offers would be gratefully received and the instruments or other objects could be sent to me or to Mr. G. A. Miles the Secretary/Administrator at the Institute.

Yours sincerely,

F. C. Ormerod.
