RETHINKING HUMANITARIAN INTERVENTION

A FRESH LEGAL APPROACH BASED ON FUNDAMENTAL ETHICAL PRINCIPLES IN INTERNATIONAL LAW AND WORLD RELIGIONS

Brian D. Lepard

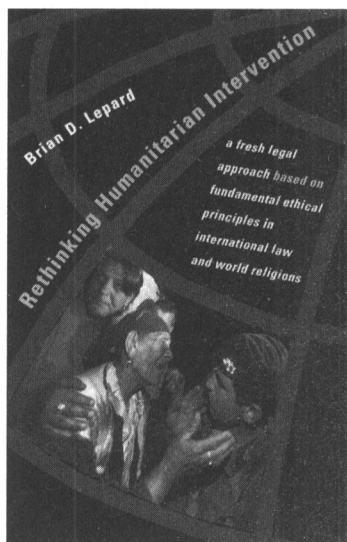

"To stop history from repeating itself, Brian Lepard's guide offers a clear legal road map for humanitarian intervention. He draws principles from international law and religious texts to help interveners solve ethical conflicts between human rights and national sovereignty, the use of force and peaceful conflict resolution, or effective intervention and remaining impartial."

—The Economist

"A monumental accomplishment. . . . The strength of the book . . . is Lepard's analysis of ethical and religious traditions, and his meticulous connection of these traditions' imperatives to key provisions in the UN Charter."

The African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights

A Comprehensive Agenda for Human Dignity and Sustainable Democracy in Africa

BY FATSAH OUGUERGOUZ

This work, an extended and updated version of the original French edition, reveals the true dimension of the African Charter through a systematic analysis of its real or apparent innovations and a detailed assessment of the commitments of the States parties. It also analyzes the effectiveness of the mechanism put in place to monitor compliance with those commitments, examining the practice of the African Commission on Human and Peoples' Rights from its establishment in 1987.

Group Rights and Discrimination in International Law

Second Edition

BY NATAN LERNER

Group hatred, disregard for the collective aspirations of religious, ethnic or cultural minorities, genocide, ethnic cleansing, apartheid, and anti-Semitism have been at the roots of the greatest tragedies of our time and are a source of internal and international conflict. Group Rights and Discrimination in International Law studies this wide range of problems from the perspective of modern human rights law, with special emphasis on racism and religious intolerance.

February 2003, ISBN 90 411 1982 5, hardback (224 pp.), List price EUR 80.- / US$ 80.-

Methods of Resolving Conflicts between Treaties

BY SEYED-ALI SADAT-AKHAVI

Despite the theoretical and practical importance of the question of conflict between treaties, little has been written on the subject. This monograph fills this gap by providing a detailed analysis of the main issues. The first deals with the definition of conflict, causes of conflict, and different types of conflict. The second examines different sources of international law in order to identify rules of international law relating to the resolution of conflicts. The third addresses the actual process of resolving conflicts between treaties.

Fifty Years of the Law of the Sea

With a special Section on the International Courts of Justice

BY SHIGERU ODA

This book is a collection of articles, primarily on the law of the sea, by Judge Shigeru Oda, who has served three successive terms of office on the Bench of the International Court of Justice, for an unprecedented 27-year tenure as Judge. A pioneer in the field of the law of the sea in the early post-war period, Judge Oda has maintained an interest in his chosen field and this collection of his works sheds light on the rapid development of the law of the sea during this period. This book also contains a special section of Judge Oda's writings on the International Court of Justice.

Sign up today!

The American Society of International Law can keep you up to date on the latest developments in international law. Subscribe for free to receive ASIL Insights and International Law In Brief (ILIB) by email and the world will be a click away. You can also have free access to ASILforum, where issues in the field are debated and discussed.

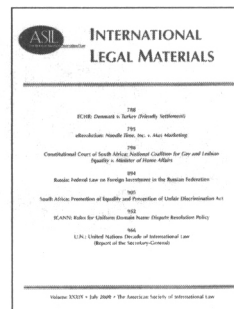

ASIL Insights: Timely and balanced accounts of the international legal issues related to current events throughout the world. Recent articles discuss legal issues related to the terrorist attacks on the United States and the World Court's ruling concerning the execution by the U.S. of foreign nationals who were not informed of their right to consular access. ASIL Insights are emailed as events happen (approximately 25 times per year).

International Law In Brief: Abstracts of recently published documents in international law, including treaties and judicial decisions in areas such as international trade, human rights, and international criminal law. Recent abstracts summarize the first genocide conviction by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia and new rules for the arbitration of environmental disputes from the Permanent Court of Arbitration. ILIB is emailed bi-weekly.

ASILforum discussion group: An email-based list service for the collegial exchange of views and information related to issues discussed in ASIL Insights, International Law In Brief, and the American Journal of International Law, as well as other topics of interest related to international law.

New from OXFORD

International Criminal Law

ANTONIO CASSESE

This new book by Cassese provides a clear and concise account of the principles governing international crimes and an outline of international criminal trials. Adopting a combination of the classic common law and more theoretical approaches to the subject, it expounds the fundamentals of both substantive and procedural international criminal law, providing a theoretical framework to all the rules, principles, concepts, and legal constructs key to the subject.

Cases and Materials on International Law

Fourth Edition

MARTIN DIXON and ROBERT MCCORQUODALE

This is a fully revised edition that includes recent materials on: international economic law, such as the responses to the "anti-globalization" protests, the regulation of the use of force, the territorial administrations by the UN, the increasing developments in international human rights law, the clear obligations on States under international environmental law, and the role of non-state actors in the international community.

International Law

Edited by MALCOLM D. EVANS

This new text reflects the breadth and diversity of contemporary public international law, offering original commentaries from key authorities actively involved in the current practice and teaching of the discipline. Coverage closely follows the scope of current courses, opening with introductory contributions from representatives of institutions such as the International Civil Service and the International Court.

The Responsibility of States for International Crimes

NINA H. B. JØRGENSEN

This book focuses on the concept of state responsibility for international crimes, which gained support following the First World War, but was pushed into the background by the development of the principle of individual criminal responsibility under international law after the Second World War. Jørgensen considers the history and merits of a concept that, it is argued, is currently on the threshold between lex ferenda and lex lata.

The Law of International Watercourses

STEPHEN C. MCCAFFREY

"A very valuable source of knowledge relating to the contemporary law of international watercourses. It is very sound from the scholarly point of view, but at the same time, the author exhibits a realistic approach to the difficult problem of the management of shared freshwater sources. Well structured and very accessible in [its] presentation of issues." — International and Comparative Law Quarterly

Towards an International Criminal Procedure

CHRISTOPH J. M. SAFFERLING

"Safferling lays the groundwork for a detailed comparative analysis of the major issues of procedure raised by the Rome Statute. Throughout the book, the reader can perceive his genuine commitment to international human rights law as well as to practical scholarship focused on problem-solving." — Columbia Journal of Transnational Law
