

Literary Excavations

THE FICTIVE AND THE IMAGINARY

Charting Literary Anthropology
Wolfgang Iser

"A new book by Wolfgang Iser is an important event in the critical world. This one, with its wide-ranging and ambitious argument, will require the attention of everyone who thinks seriously and at all philosophically about literary culture and what it has to tell us about being human."—Ross Chambers, University of Michigan

"The thorough arguments and many arresting formulations that prepare for Iser's concluding position insure that it will be heeded and debated by anyone seriously concerned with the character of literature and its place in culture."—John Paul Riquelme, Boston University

$15.95 paperback $55.00 hardcover

Now in paperback

PROSPECTING

From Reader Response to Literary Anthropology
Wolfgang Iser

"An important transitional book, usefully summarizing the past and thoughtfully mapping out the future of a significant critic's theoretical project."—Modern Philology

"Prospecting contains fine examples of Iser's ability to relate theoretical issues to analyses of individual works. It will deservedly enhance his reputation as a critic and theorist who writes with equal skill and learning about Renaissance, Neoclassic, and modernist texts."—Ralph Cohen, University of Virginia

$14.95 paperback

THE ADVENTURE OF DIFFERENCE

Philosophy after Nietzsche and Heidegger
Gianni Vattimo

translated by Cyprian Blamires, with the assistance of Thomas Harrison

Gianni Vattimo examines the notion of "difference" in scientific knowledge and contemporary mass society and illustrates the importance of Nietzsche and Heidegger in both formulating the concept and exploring its implications for current debates on the nature of modernity.

Parallax: Re-visions of Culture and Society
Stephen G. Nichols, Gerald Prince, and Wendy Steiner,
Series Editors

$29.95 hardcover

THE OFFICE OF THE SCARLET LETTER

Sacvan Bercovitch

Recipient of the Modern Language Association's James Russell Lowell Prize

"Goes a long way to proving that any literary masterpiece, read with sympathy and intelligence, works to re-establish the connections between the work of art and the life and thought of its time."—James R. Mellow, Times Literary Supplement

Parallax: Re-visions of Culture and Society
Stephen G. Nichols, Gerald Prince, and Wendy Steiner,
Series Editors

$12.95 paperback

PRINCES TO ACT

Royal Audience and Royal Performance,
1578-1792

Matthew H. Wikander

Matthew Wikander describes how theater and monarchy in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries existed in mutual dependency and mutual mistrust, leading to performances that both affirmed and challenged the social boundaries between monarch and actor, audience and performer. He explores plays by Shakespeare, Davenant, Corneille, Moliere, Racine, Voltaire, and others.

$48.95 hardcover

JOHNS HOPKINS

The Johns Hopkins University Press
701 West 40th Street, Suite 275, Baltimore, Maryland 21211
To order, call 1-800-537-5487.

Serenity in Crisis

A Preface to Paul de Man,
1939–1960

Ortwin de Graef

“The debates about deconstruction may now be waning, but the historical and cultural analysis of the phenomenon is just beginning. De Graef’s book will be the beginning of a serious study of this movement as an intellectual force.”—Sander Gilman, author of Inscribing the Other.

$35.00 cloth

The Mirror and the Word

Modernism, Literary Theory, and Georg Trakl
Eric B. Williams

“Williams has found an ingeniously indirect method for dealing with powerful and conservative voices in Trakl criticism, a method that unburdens the debate of its weighty pomposity and elicits delight from readers familiar with the critical context.”—

Francis Michael Sharp, author of The Poet’s Madness: A Reading of Georg Trakl.

$40.00 cloth

Reading the Classics and Paradise Lost

William M. Porter

In the twentieth century the classics have become mere “background.” As a consequence, William M. Porter argues, not only is the foundational dimension of Milton’s poetry now hardly visible, even to scholars, but the potential of Milton’s poetry to revitalize the reading of the classics has been diminished. Porter demonstrates that Milton’s genuine allusions to the classics, while fewer than has been supposed, are rich with wit, irony, and thought that can be grasped only by a reader with a double perspective. $30.00 cloth

“N”

University of Nebraska Press 901 North 17th St. • Lincoln, NE 68588-0520 • 800-755-1105