U.S. Foreign Policy . . . Important Prospects from LITTLE, BROWN

THE EMERGING NATIONS:

Their Growth and United States Policy

Edited by Max F. Millikan, Director, and Donald L. M. Blackmer, Assistant Director, Center for International Studies, M.I.T. Contributing Authors: Everett E. Hagen, Daniel Lerner, Ithiel de Sola Pool, Lucian W. Pye, Paul N. Rosenstein-Rodan, Walt Whitman Rostow, Francis M. Bator, Richard S. Eckaus. A description and analysis of the economic, political and social changes now going on in the underdeveloped countries and their implications for American policy. Based on material originated for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and prepared especially for college use. In paper: Spring 1961. 5 x 8; 192 pages; $2.50

THE UNITED NATIONS AND U.S. FOREIGN POLICY

By Lincoln P. Bloomfield. A new and important look at the ways in which the U.N.'s international machinery and United States long-range interest mesh or conflict. The author, recently the State Department planner on United Nations problems, is now Director of the United Nations Project at M.I.T.'s Center for International Studies. "His findings may come as a shock to those who conceived of the United Nations as something that would do away with power politics."—N.Y. Times Book Review. In paper: 5 x 8; 276 pages; $2.50
