

People in Political Science

Eastern European countries.

Paula Kilcoyne, visiting assistant professor, department of political science, The College of Wooster.

Leonard Weinberg, professor, University of Nevada, Reno, was a visiting professor at the Università Degli Studi Di Firenze in Firenze, Italy for the spring 1992 semester.

Herbert F. Weisberg, visiting professor of political science, Rice University, winter term 1992.

Correction

Carole Pateman, University of California, Los Angeles, was incorrectly identified as being at the University of Southern California.

Award Recipients

Award of SSRC-MacArthur Foundation Fellowships on Peace and Security in a Changing World

The Social Science Research Council Committee on International Peace and Security is pleased to announce the award of 1991-92 Fellowships on Peace and Security in a Changing World. These fellowships are funded by the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation. They support innovative and multidisciplinary research on the security implications of worldwide cultural, military, social, economic, environmental, and political changes.

The following political scientists received dissertation fellowships:

Clement Emenike Adibe (Nigeria), political science, Queen's University, "Hegemony, Cooperation and Sub-Regional Security in a Changing World: Ghana, Nigeria and ECOWAS Integration."

Lars-Erik Cederman (Sweden), political science, University of Michigan, "The Propagation of Peaceful Islands: Peace and Democracy and Emergent Properties of Complex Adaptive Systems."

Marzenna A. Kowalik (Poland), political science, Princeton, "National Power and Trade Relations Between Germany and Eastern Europe: Impact on Security."

Christian G. Reus-Smit (Australia), political science, Cornell University, "Environmental Protection and International Justice: Ethical Claims, Political Conflicts, and the Evolution of Global Environmental Regimes."

Janet L. Roitman (U.S.), political science, University of Pennsylvania, "The Logics and Legitimacy of Exchange: Cattle, Cotton and Millet in Northern Cameroon."

Additionally, postdoctoral fellowships were awarded to:

Suba Bolukbasi (Turkey), international relations, Middle East Technical University, "Peace and Security in Soviet Asia."

Ashutosh Varshney (India), political science, Harvard University, "Religion, Nationalism and Insecurity: Islam in India's Political Process."

For additional information on this program, or to request application materials for the 1992-93 competition, please contact: Social Science Research Council, Committee on International Peace and Security, 605 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10158; (212) 661-0280; Fax: (212) 370-7896.

American Academy of Arts and Sciences

The American Academy of Arts and Sciences announced the election of 205 new fellows, in recognition of their distinguished contributions to science, scholarship, public affairs, and the arts. Following is a list of the fellows elected from the field of political science.

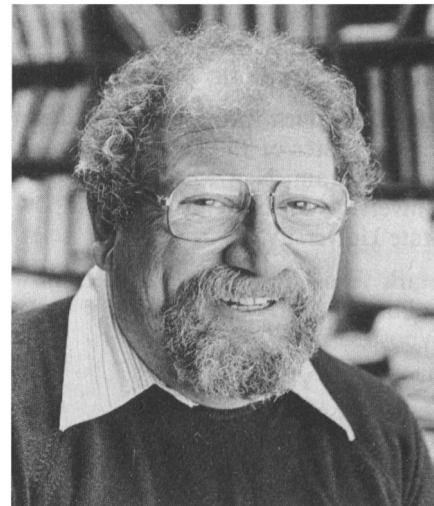

Richard Alan Brody, Stanford University.

Bruce Bueno de Mesquita, Hoover Institution and University of Rochester

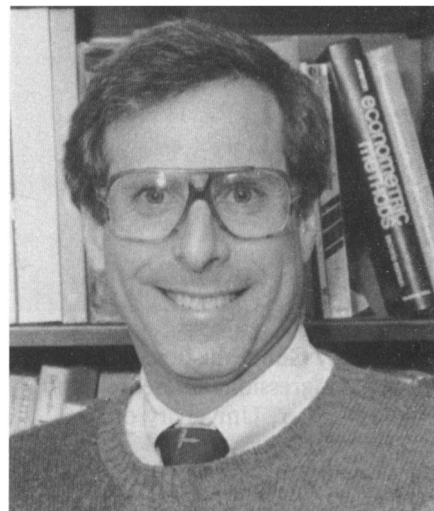

Steven Holmes, University of Chicago.

Richard Drummond McKelvey, California Institute of Technology.

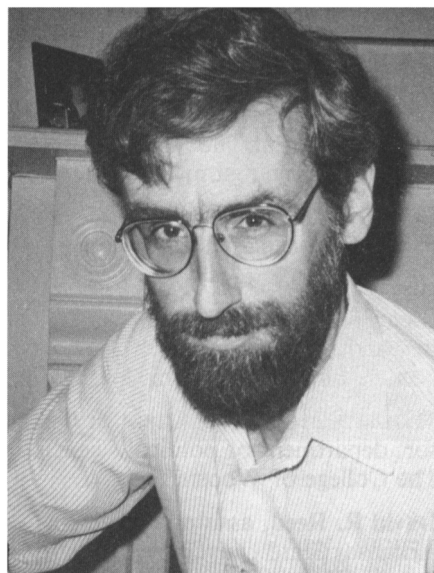

Peter Carl Ordeshook, California

Richard A. Brody

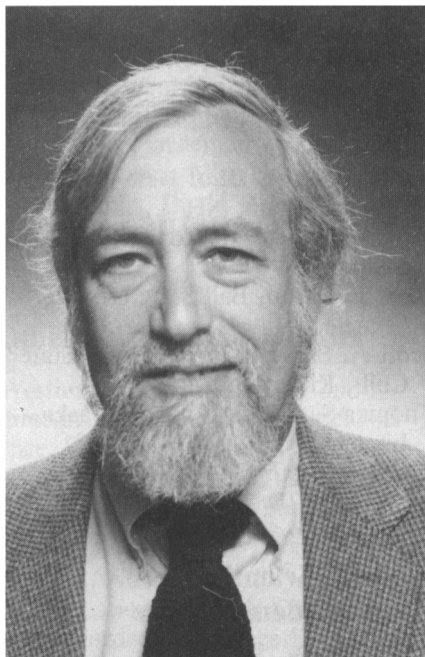

Bruce Bueno de Mesquita

Steven Holmes

Institute of Technology.

Howard Lewis Rosenthal, Carnegie-Mellon University.

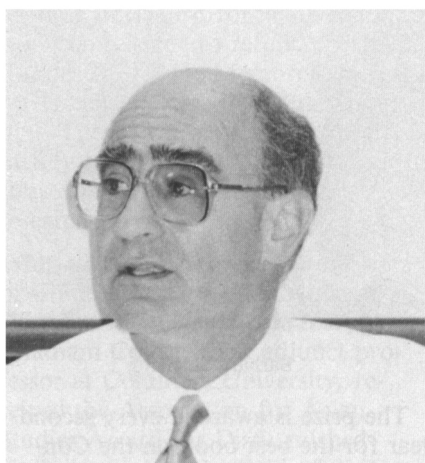

Howard Rosenthal

James Scott, Yale University.

Barbara Deckhard Sinclair, University of California, Riverside.

Sidney G. Tarrow, Cornell University.

Sidney G. Tarrow

Richard Tuck, Cambridge University, Cambridge, England.

The Pew Faculty Fellowship in International Affairs: 1992-93

The following political scientists have been awarded Pew Faculty Fellowships:

Mark A. Boyer, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Connecticut.

Martha Crenshaw, professor, department of government, Wesleyan University.

Robert A. Denemark, assistant professor, department of political science and international relations, University of Delaware.

David Dessler, associate professor, department of government, College of William & Mary.

Thomas A. Drohan, associate professor, division of comparative politics and area studies, United States Air Force Academy.

Kenoye K. Eke, associate professor, department of political science, Savannah State College.

Vicki L. Golich, assistant professor, department of political science, The Pennsylvania State University.

P. Terrence Hopmann, professor, department of political science, Brown University.

Charles W. Kegley, Jr., Pearce Professor of International Relations, department of government, University of South Carolina.

Ann Mosely Lesch, associate professor, department of political science, Villanova University.

Kathryn A. Manzo, assistant professor, department of political science, Williams College.

David R. Mares, associate professor, department of political science, University of California, San Diego.

Michael Mastanduno, assistant professor, department of government, Dartmouth College.

Karen A. Mingst, professor, department of political science, University of Kentucky.

Dario V. Moreno, assistant professor, department of political science, Florida International University.

D. Michael Shafer, associate professor, department of political science, Rutgers University.

David Wilsford, assistant professor, School of International Affairs, Georgia Institute of Technology.

Woodrow Wilson International Center

The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars has announced the appointment of 34 fellows for the academic year 1992-93. Chosen from 773 applicants from 67 countries, they will come to the Center from 10 states and the District of Columbia and 12 nations other than the United States.

Following are the political science fellows, their institutional affiliations, and the topics of their research.

Charles E. Butterworth, professor of political science, University of Maryland, College Park. "Revelation and Political Philosophy."

Robert Hutchings, Director for European Affairs, National Security Council, The White House. "End of the Cold War: American Diplomacy and Europe's Revolutions of 1989-91."

Joseph S. Nye, Jr., professor of international affairs, Harvard University. "American Interest in a New World Order."

Gerald R. Ford Foundation Grants Awarded

The spring 1992 political science recipients of Gerald R. Ford Foundation grants for research at the Ford Library include:

Polly J. Diven, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, "The Domestic Politics of U.S. Foreign Economic Assistance."

Robert M. Eisinger, University of Chicago, "Presidents, Policy, and Public Opinion."

Anne M. Khademian, University of Wisconsin at Madison, "The FDIC, the Federal Reserve Board, the OCC, and Banking Supervision: Institutional Design and Regulatory Politics."

People in Political Science

Frank Laird, University of Denver, "Solar Energy Policy in the U.S. Since World War Two."

Elena Vorobiova, Moscow (CIS) State University, "The Development of the Republican Party in the South, 1960s-1970s."

Fondation Nationale des Sciences Politiques

Theodore J. Lowi, John L. Senior Professor of American Institutions at Cornell University, has been selected to receive an honorary doctorate degree from the Fondation Nationale des Sciences Politiques of Paris. United Nations Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali will be awarded an honorary doctorate degree at the same time.

James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation

The James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation of Washington, D.C., announced that it has selected its first group of James Madison Fellows. Named in honor of the fourth president of the United States and acknowledged "Father of the Constitution," a fellowship will fund, up to $24,000, each fellow's course of study toward a master's degree. That program must include a concentration of courses on the history and principles of the United States Constitution.

The 1992 James Madison Fellows are as follows:

Current School Teachers

David T. Bennett, Barnstable H.S., Hyannis, MA
Karen P. Coston, Blacksburg H.S., Blacksburg, VA
Philip J. Donohue, John Bartram H.S., Philadelphia, PA
AnnElise B. Edeburn, Minnetonka Jr. H.S., Minnetonka, MN
Rise N. Ferdman, Saint John's School, San Juan, PR
Barbara L. Finch, Duchesne Academy of the Sacred Heart, Houston, TX
Albert W. Fitzpatrick, Newport H.S., Newport, OR Diane Gleason, Dardanelle H.S., Dardanelle, AR

Claire M. Griffin, Sacred Hearts Academy, Honolulu, HI
Jack C. Guy, Columbus School for Girls, Columbus, OH
Patricia A. Hatchett, Athens H.S., Athens, AL
Terry M. Jellison, Fargo North H.S., Fargo, ND
Walter C. K. Keller, II, Kepner Middle School, Denver, CO
Audrey R. Micaletti, Shenango Jr.-Sr. H.S., New Castle, PA
Richard L. Mittelstedt, Watertown Jr. H.S., Watertown, SD
Wayne E. Mraz, Amos Alonzo Stagg H.S., Palos Hills, IL
Kathleen C. Mullan, Windsor H.S., Windsor, CT
Kevin J. Neal, Jefferson-Scranton Community H.S., Scranton, IA
Beth A. Onusko, Garber H.S., Essexville, MI
Charles A. Palmer, Douglas County Comprehensive H.S., Douglasville, GA
Edmundo M. Rodriguez, Theodore Roosevelt H.S., Los Angeles, CA
David M. Seiter, Davis H.S., Kaysville, UT
Eileen Sheehy, Billings West H.S., Billings, MT
Stacy S. Simpson, Manual H.S., Albuquerque, NM
Leslie W. Skinner, Richland Northeast H.S., Columbia, SC
Crystal M. Soltero, Amphitheater H.S., Tucson, AZ
Stephen G. Stevens, Latta H.S., Ada, OK
Douglas L. Tieszen, Encampment School, Encampment, WY
Allyson J. Weseley, Roslyn H.S., Roslyn, NY

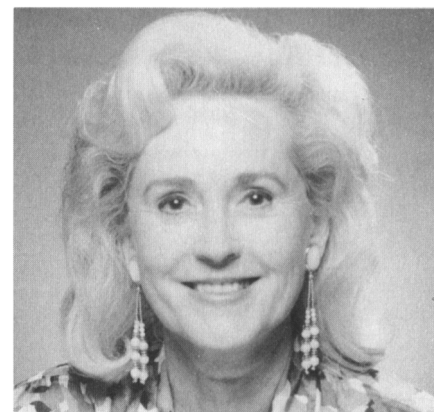

College Seniors and Recent College Graduates

Cynthia A. Bell, Georgetown College, Georgetown, KY
Kristen A. Bjornberg, Ithaca College, Ithaca, NY
Bruce R. Durbin, West Virginia U., Morgantown, WV
Mary F. Ehrlander, U. of Alaska, Fairbanks, AK
Allen C. Enger, U. of New Orleans, New Orleans, LA
Kara L. Grice, Duke U., Durham, NC
Carolyn M. Holt, Evergreen State Coll., Olympia, WA
Sonia E. Ingles, U. of the South, Sewanee, TN

Aubrey W. Jewett, U. of North Florida, South Jacksonville, FL
Jada L. Kohlmeier, Kansas State U., Manhattan, KS
Monica L. Kotelanski, Duke U., Durham, NC
Heather V. Latham, U. of Florida, Gainesville, FL
Stacy R. Leggett, Mississippi Coll., Clinton, MS
Daniel B. Pare, U. of New Hampshire, Durham, NH
James A. Pingel II, Concordia U., Mequon, WI
Scott J. Shoup, Ball State U., Muncie, IN
Scott A. Szevery, NE Missouri State Coll., Kirksville, MO
Thomas S. Vontz, U. of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE
Karen A. Young, U. of Idaho, Moscow, ID

Political Scientist Wins Hardeman Prize

Barbara Sinclair, professor of political science at the University of California, Riverside, has been selected the winner of the L.B.J. Library's seventh D. B. Hardeman prize for her book, Transformation of the U.S. Senate, published by the Johns Hopkins University Press.

Barbara Sinclair

The prize is awarded every second year for the best book on the Congress published during that period.

It is named for the late aide to Speaker Sam Rayburn. Hardeman left his extensive collection of books on the Congress to the Library, along with a financial bequest to be used to promote a study of the Congress.

The prize winner is selected by a committee, acting on the Library's behalf, consisting of Barbara Jordan, LBJ School of Public Affairs; Melissa Collie, Government Department, University of Texas at Austin; and Bruce Buchanan, chairman of that department. Sinclair will speak at the Library in the fall.

Previous Hardeman winners were: Richard Fenno, Allen Schick, James L. Sundquist, David Oshinsky, Paul Light, and Christopher H. Foreman, Jr.

Other Awards and Honors

Weston H. Agor, professor and director, department of political science, University of Texas at El Paso, has received a renewal grant from the Charlson Research Foundation to expand his Global Intuition Network.

Bruce E. Altschuler, professor of political science, SUNY Oswego, has been awarded the college President's Award for creative and scholarly activity or research "in recognition of outstanding scholarship."

Sammy Basu and Judith L. Failer, both of Princeton University, have been named Charlotte W. Newcombe Dissertation Fellows. The Newcombe Fellowships are designed to encourage original and significant study of ethical or religious values in all fields.

Frances Burke, Suffolk University, has been selected to receive the 1992 Charles H. Levine Memorial Award for Excellence in Public Administration. The award is presented to a faculty member who has demonstrated excellence in teaching, research and service.

Wing-tsit Chan, emeritus professor of Chinese culture and philosophy at Dartmouth College, of philosophy at Chatham College, and adjunct professor at Columbia University, received the Association for Asian Studies Award for Distinguished Contributions to the field of Asian Studies.

John G. Gunnell, State University of New York at Albany, has been named a recipient of the National Endowment for the Humanities University Fellowship, July-December 1992. He will be a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Copenhagen during the spring 1993.

The German Marshall Fund has awarded Peter M. Haas, assistant professor of political science at the University of Massachusetts, a research fellowship to study international efforts to control acid rain.

Christine Margerum, Northwestern University, has been awarded a Fulbright grant to conduct doctoral research in Germany.

Joshua I. Miller, assistant professor of government and law, Lafayette College, was named Thomas Roy and Lura Forrest Jones Faculty Lecturer.

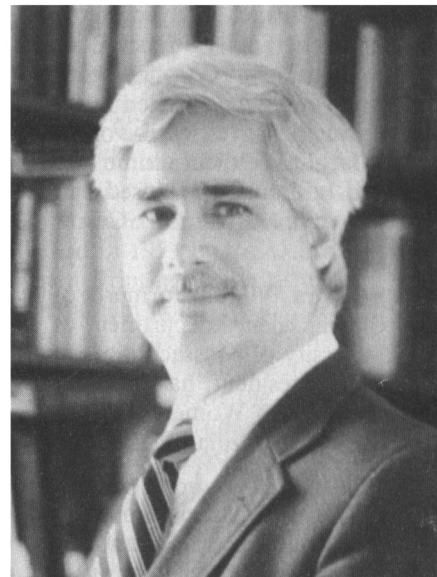

Steffen Schmidt, professor of political science at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, has received the university's Amoco Award for Career Achievement in Undergraduate Teaching.

Steffen Schmidt

Garrett Ward Sheldon, associate professor and chair, Clinch Valley College of the University of Virginia, has received a Commonwealth's Outstanding Faculty Award from the State Council of Higher Education in Virginia.

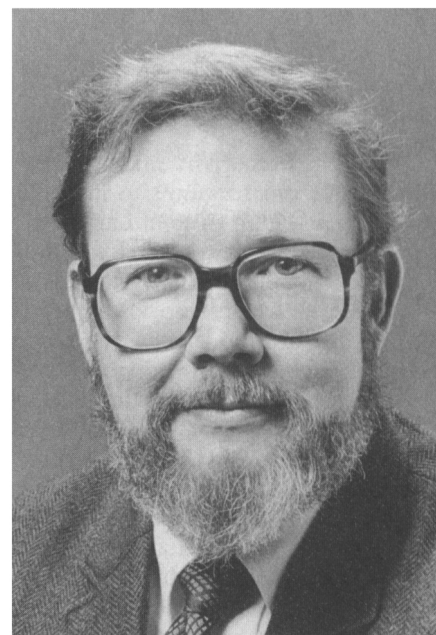

Stephen J. Silvia, American University, has received a Fulbright Junior Researcher award, which will fund ten months of research in Germany during the 1992-93 academic year.

Garrett Ward Sheldon

The title of his research project is, "The Changing Place of Labor in European Society: Germany." He will be based at the Zentralinstitut für sozialwissenschaftliche Forschung at the Freie Universität Berlin.

Larry D. Spence, Pennsylvania State University, was named the 1992 Penn State Teaching Fellow.

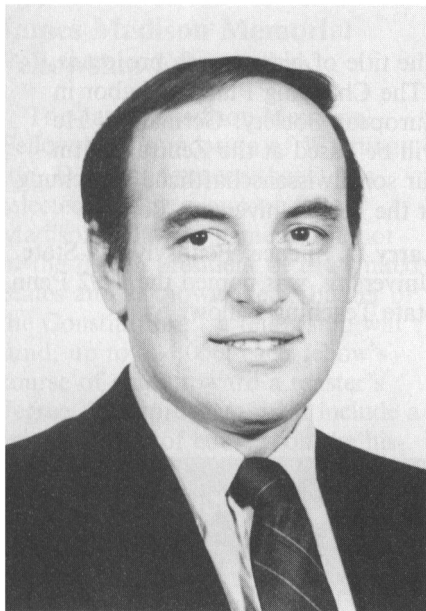

Larry D. Spence

Michael L. Vasu, MPA program and director of the Social Science Computer Lab at North Carolina State University, has been selected as one of the principal investigators on the North Carolina Violent Crime Research Initiative, sponsored by the North Carolina Governor's Crime Commission.

Iêda Siqueira Wiarda, formerly of the political science department of the University of Massachusetts and an Amherst resident, has been named one of the "Ten Women of the Year" by the Brazilian National Council of Women.

Steve Wisensale, associate professor of public policy in the School of Family Studies at the University of Connecticut, was the 1992 recipient of the University's Excellence in Teaching Award.

Steve Wisensale

In Memoriam

Totton James Anderson

Totton James Anderson, professor emeritus of political science at the University of Southern California, died in La Jolla, California, on January 28 at the age of 83. He was born in Beirut, Lebanon on May 26, 1909, and spent his early years in Turkey.

Professor Anderson, a leading scholar in the field of California government and politics, received his A.B. and Master's degrees from the University of California, Berkeley, and his Ph.D. degree from USC. He joined the USC faculty in 1947 and retired in 1975. Following his retirement he taught for a number of years in the Executive Training Program of the USC Graduate School of Business. He also served as a consultant in many successful political campaigns. He lectured widely on the art of practical politics.

At USC he served for six years as chairman of the department of political science and for two years as dean of the division of social sciences and communication of the Colleges of Letters, Arts, and Sciences. He was an exceedingly active and influential faculty member, having served as president of the faculty senate, president of the Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi honorary scholastic societies, and was responsible for the initiation of scholastic honor programs for undergraduate social science students.

His counsel was in much demand and he served as a faculty advisor for numerous undergraduate honorary organizations. He received wide-ranging recognition for his many innovative approaches to congenial relationships between students and faculty.

His large involvement in California government and politics led to appointment to the Executive Committee of the California State Constitutional Revision Commission, 1964-73. Prior to this appointment he had served as an organizing member of the Southern California Political Science Association. He was president of the Western Political Science Association in 1953-53. For many years he served as a member of the board of editors of the Western Political Quarterly. In 1954-55 he received special leave from USC to serve as associate national director of the National Center for Political Education in New York City.

Following his retirement from USC he continued his interest in faculty concerns. As president of the Faculty Retirees he obtained its acceptance as a part of the regular constituency of the faculty senate. Later he was instrumental in the formulation of the Emeriti Center, a recognized administrative unit of the University. This entity has become a model for a large number of American universities and colleges.

Professor Anderson was commissioned in the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1942. He served as a Service Group Commander and Bomb Group Ground Executive Officer with the 3rd Bomb Group Division of the 8th Air Force in England until 1945. At the time of his release from active duty he was a Lieutenant Colonel. He later was promoted to the rank of Colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

Prior to his faculty appointment at USC for eight years he was registrar and dean of Ventura City College.

In 1983 Professor Anderson was honored by USC for his notable contributions to the university, his profession, and the community with its citation as a Distinguished Emeritus Professor. His versatility as scholar, author, teacher, and administrator was widely recognized in scholarly professional organizations.

On August 17, 1934 he married Frances Elizabeth Moore. Her interest in Occidental College, from which she graduated in 1929, led to the establishment in 1974 of the Totton and Frances Anderson Scholarship Fund. Frances Anderson predeceased her husband in 1991.

"Jim" Anderson, as he was called by his many friends, was a talented and dedicated individual. His versatility was reflected in his wide-ranging career. His teaching record, research and writing accomplishments, and service to the students and faculty at the University of Southern California were of the first order of importance.

His sense of personal dignity and respect for the opinion of others, his