

Cambridge Opera Journal

"...stimulating and entertaining."

Times Higher Education Supplement

Edited by Roger Parker & Arthur Groos
Cornell University

The first interdisciplinary journal devoted to opera, Cambridge Opera Journal has something for every serious opera-lover. It includes topics such as 'Methods and Meaning in Britten's Billy Budd', 'Fidelio and the French Revolution', 'Madame Butterfly: The Story', 'Aria as drama' and much more.

The journal provides a forum for the exchange of ideas from a variety of disciplines including musicology, literature, theatre and history.

Just see what the reviewers say...

"A welcome addition to the growing number of first rate musicological journals, it promises to stimulate scholars and serious opera-lovers alike."

Notes – The Quarterly Journal of the Music Library Association

"Cambridge Opera Journal seems set to carve itself a distinct niche. It is more single-minded than Opera Quarterly, allowing its contributors to focus intently...on a facet of opera that not only appeals to them but...redefines how opera may be viewed."

Times Higher Education Supplement

"All cannons fired for the first number. The effect is splendid."

XXIII

The RILM Commission Mixte and the staff of the International Center in New York congratulate the 47 national committees, 120 abstractors, and 10672 authors whose work made vol. XXIII the largest volume of RILM Abstracts to date.

The last three volumes of RILM Abstracts have each set records for the number of publications cited and abstracted. At the same time, production has accelerated dramatically.

XXIV will be the most efficiently produced volume in the history of the publication. For vol. XXV, we are adding six new national committees to our roster, in Europe, South America, and Asia.

It's time you took a new look at RILM.
