CORRUPTION AND THE DECLINE OF ROME

Ramsay MacMullen

Prominent historian Ramsay MacMullen offers a new perspective on the decline and fall of Rome. MacMullen argues that a key factor in Rome's fall was the steady loss of focus and control over government as its aims were thwarted for private gain by high-ranking bureaucrats and military leaders. Written in an informal and lively style, his book — the culmination of years of research and thoughtful analysis — provides a fascinating, fresh line of investigation, and shows convincingly that the decline of Rome was a gradual, insidious process rather than a climactic event. 332pp. 17 illus. £18.95

OVID

Sara Mack

Ovid is probably the most accessible of the poets of ancient Rome. This book, introducing Ovid to the general reader and the student, considers his modernity, his wit, his narrative techniques, his views on the relations between the sexes, his enduring popularity, and his influence on centuries of literature and art.

192pp. Cloth £20.00 Paper £6.95

MIND AND IMAGINATION IN ARISTOTLE

Michael V. Wedin

An overview of Aristotle's psychology. Focusing on the relationship between mind and the imagination, Wedin puts the philosopher's scattered remarks on this relationship into a coherent whole. 320pp. £22.50

SELF KNOWLEDGE IN PLATO'S PHAEDRUS

Charles L. Griswold, Jr.

"This is the most thorough and imaginative study of Plato's Phaedrus that I have seen. It is unusually stimulating and will be valuable to classicists, philosophers, and specialists in comparative literature." — Stanley Rosen

327pp. Now in paper, £10.95

THE MUSE LEARNS TO WRITE

Reflections on Orality and Literacy from Antiquity to the Present · Eric A. Havelock

In this book, one of the most original and penetrating thinkers in Greek studies describes the transformation from orality to literacy in classical times and reflects upon its continued meaning for us today. 150pp. Now in paper, £5.95

THE ARCHITECTURE OF THE ROMAN EMPIRE

Volume II: An Urban Appraisal

William L. MacDonald

"Simply the best book on Roman urbanism [that] I know ... A formidable breakthrough." — Architects' Journal

Disguise and Recognition in the Odyssey Sheila Murnaghan

The motifs of disguise and recognition of identity are commonly recognized as traditional features of the Odyssey's plot. Now this distinctive reading shows how those motifs are used not only to tell the story of Odysseus' return but also to explore the central values of Homeric society. In a world where identity is largely defined through the esteem of others, the recognition of identity represents the acknowledgement of heroic prestige.
Cloth: $28.00 ISBN 0-691-06716-3

Horace's Poetic Journey A Reading of Odes 1–3 David H. Porter

"This is a bold and exacting piece of literary criticism that will offer a fresh measure by which to approach one of the great lyricists. Furthermore, it is one of the most convincing arguments for an ancient poet's arrangement of his own poetry into books and groups of books that I have seen."
—Charles L. Babcock, The Ohio State University
Cloth: $35.00 ISBN 0-691-06702-3

Hadrian and the City of Rome Mary Taliaferro Boatwright

The Pantheon, the Temple of Venus and Roma, Hadrian's Mausoleum transformed into Castel Sant' Angelo, and his villa at Tivoli epitomize for many the power and resources of Rome at its zenith. Mary T. Boatwright compiles and assesses the varied evidence for Hadrian's buildings and for his administrative changes and evaluates his effect on the capital city in a topographical and historical context. A comprehensive catalogue follows the illustrated text.
Cloth: $42.50 ISBN 0-691-03588-1

The Early Greek Concept of the Soul Jan Bremmer

By confronting the Greek material with findings from social anthropology and folklore, Jan Bremmer achieves new insight into the early Greek concept of the soul and illuminates an important stage in the genesis of the Greek mind.
Paper: $10.95 ISBN 0-691-10190-6
Cloth: $24.50 ISBN 0-691-03131-2

Socrates on Trial

Thomas C. Brickhouse and Nicholas D. Smith

Thomas Brickhouse and Nicholas Smith offer a comprehensive historical and philosophical interpretation of, and commentary on, one of Plato's most widely read works, the Apology of Socrates. Virtually every modern interpretation characterizes some part of what Socrates says in the Apology as purposefully irrelevant or even antithetical to convincing the jury to acquit him at his trial. This book, by contrast, argues persuasively that Socrates offers a sincere and well-reasoned defense against the charges he faces.

Plautus in Performance

The Theatre of the Mind

Niall W. Slater

This book revises and applies the techniques of performance criticism, as developed in studies of Shakespeare and modern drama, to the work of the Roman playwright Plautus, and it provides a new interpretation of comic heroism in Plautus. In addition, it concentrates on the phenomenon of metatheatricality: Plautus' theatrically self-conscious use of both conventions and characters to comment on their own theatricality.

Paper: $14.95 ISBN 0-691-10178-7

Cloth: $25.00 ISBN 0-691-06624-8

Tragedy and Theory

The Problem of Conflict since Aristotle

Michelle Gellrich

Michelle Gellrich engages current debates about the relationship between literature and theory by analyzing responses of theorists in the Western tradition to tragic conflict. Isolating the centrality of conflict in twentieth-century definitions of tragedy, Professor Gellrich discusses the efforts of modern critics to locate in Aristotle's Poetics the origins of this focus on agon. The agonistic element, the book argues, first emerges in dramatic criticism in nineteenth-century Romantic theories of the sublime and, more influentially, in Hegel's lectures on drama and history.
