The African Studies Review is edited by Eastern African Studies, Syracuse University. All editorial correspondence and manuscripts (with the exception of review essays) should be sent to: The Editor, African Studies Review, Eastern African Studies, Syracuse University, 119 College Place, Syracuse, New York 13210, U.S.A. Correspondence concerning review essays should be sent to: Hans E. Panofsky, M. J. Herskovits Library of African Studies, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois 60201, U.S.A.

All manuscripts should be submitted in duplicate. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced (notes, excerpts, and references should also be double-spaced) and should be clear and dark. Please do not use erasable or onionskin paper. Maps, tables, charts, graphs, and other illustrations must be camera-ready. Manuscripts should conform to the recommendations of the latest edition of A Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press); a Review style sheet may be secured from the editors. Footnotes and references should appear at the end of the manuscript. Manuscripts will be submitted without the name of the author to outside readers; please include a removable cover page giving title, authorship, affiliation, and address—the article itself should carry only the title. The Review will only consider manuscripts that have not been published elsewhere and are not being considered by other journals.

CONTRIBUTORS

J. BARRON BOYD, Jr. is an Associate Professor of Political Science at Le Moyne College. His major research interests include comparative studies of African foreign policy and human rights.

GALEN SPENCER HULL holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from Northwestern University. He has lived and taught in Africa for seven years. He is associate editor of Zaire: The Political Economy of Underdevelopment, published in November 1979 in its Special Studies Series.

RICHARD A. LOBBAN, Jr. is an Associate Professor of Anthropology and African Studies. He specializes in the study of African urbanization, modernization, and culture change. At present he is on sabbatical leave completing a ten-year study of Sudanese urban communities. His most recent publication is An Historical Dictionary of Guinea-Bissau and Cape Verde (Scarecrow, 1979).

JAMES A. McCAIN is an Associate Professor of African and Afro-American Studies at the State University of New York, Brockport. As a specialist in African politics, he is a frequent contributor to journals and anthologies. His most recent publication is "Ideology and Leadership in Post-Nkrumah Ghana," in Socialism in Sub-Saharan Africa: A New Assessment, edited by Carl G. Rosberg and Thomas M. Callaghy (Berkeley, 1979).

AMOS O. ODENYO is an Associate Professor of Sociology at The City University of New York/York College. His current interest is in the sociology of occupations and professions in Africa. He has published articles in a number of journals; his most recent is "The Luo Way of Dying: Rendezvous with Rebellion," Studia Africana: An International Journal of African Studies (vol. I, no. 2, Spring 1978).

DONATUS C. I. OKPALA is a Research Fellow at the Nigerian Institute of Social and Economic Research (NISER), University of Ibadan, Nigeria. A specialist in City and Regional Planning, he is the current chairman of the Education Committee of the Nigerian Institute of Town Planners, and a member of the American Institute of Planners (AIP). He has researched and written on urban land policies, housing, urban transportation, urban planning, and management in general.

PAUL S. ZUCKERMAN received his doctorate in agricultural economics from the University of Reading in 1974. A former associate specialist of the International Institute of Tropical Agriculture in Nigeria, he is now with the World Bank's Western Africa Region and has published several articles on farming systems in western Nigeria.
