Asian Yearbook of International Law
Volume III – 1993

edited by Ko Swan Sik, Faculty of Law, Erasmus University, Rotterdam, the Netherlands; M.C.W. Pinto, J.J.G. Syatauw

The Asian Yearbook of International Law is the first publication dedicated primarily to international law as seen from an Asian perspective. It provides a forum for the publication of articles in the field of international law written by experts from the region, and also other articles relating to Asian topics. Its aim is twofold: to promote the dissemination of knowledge of international law in Asia and to provide an insight into Asian views and practices, which will be especially useful to a non-Asian readership.
As a rule, each volume of the Asian Yearbook contains Articles, Notes, State Practice, a Chronicle of Events and Incidents, United Nations Activities with Special Relevance to Asia, a Survey of Activities of the Asian–African Legal Consultative Committee, a Bibliography and a Documents section.

Reservations to UN Human Rights Treaties

Ratify and Ruin?

by Liesbeth Lijnzaad

Reservations to UN Human Rights Treaties concentrates on the concepts and mechanisms in international law that are relevant to reservations. The role of States, and the possibilities afforded supervisory Committees to monitor the impact of reservations, form the other important topic.
Little information exists on the impact of reservations to UN human rights instruments. This study highlights the possibilities States and supervisory organs have to reduce the detrimental impact of reservations within the existing framework, and gives some proposals for a better and tighter provision on reservations.
The UN Human Rights Treaties that are discussed are: the Convention on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination, the Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and the Convention against Torture.
