
People in Political Science

Activities

Charles Beitz, Swarthmore College, has accepted an ACE fellowship for a year as assistant to the President of Brown University.

Eloise Buker, Gonzaga University, was elected to serve as President of Women's Caucus of the Western Political Science Association, for the year 1989-90 at the annual meeting in March 1989.

Stephen P. Cohen, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, will spend the spring semester of academic year 1989-90 as an Associate in the Center for Advanced Study at UIUC.

Charles W. Dunn, Vice Chairman of the U.S. Board of Foreign Scholarships which governs the Fulbright Program worldwide, will lecture at Moscow State University on "Reagan, Bush and the Future of the American Presidency" and "The Religious Foundations of Democracy" as part of the initial effort to establish an American University in Moscow.

Marianne Githens has been named director of the Goucher College Junior Year Program at the University of Exeter and will be teaching there in the department of politics during the 1989-90 academic year.

Kathie Stromile Golden, Ph.D., University of Kentucky, 1987, has had her Chancellor's Minority Postdoctoral Fellowship in the Department of Political Science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign renewed for academic year 1989-90.

Ted Robert Gurr, University of Maryland, College Park, was appointed in June to the National Research Council's new Panel on the Understanding and Control of Violent Behavior. He has also been awarded a grant of $35,000 from the U.S. Institute of Peace for a two-year study of "Intervention, Mediation, and Outcomes of Civil Wars Since 1945."

Nancy Hirschmann, Swarthmore College, has been appointed to a new term of three years as assistant professor.

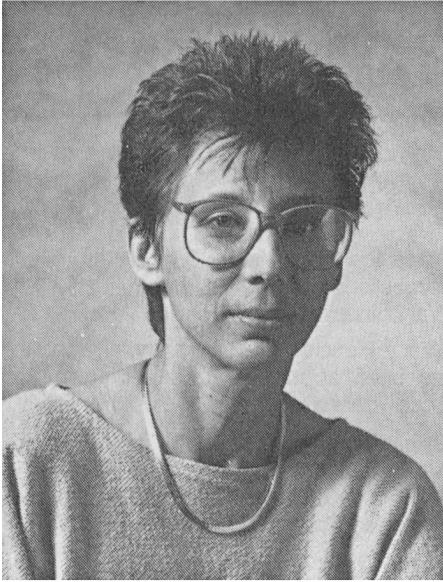

Elaine Johansen, University of Connecticut, will be the editor of the Quarterly Newsletter of the Women's Caucus of the American Political Science Association.

Eileen Kirley-Tallon, Frances Marion College, is the president of the South Carolina Political Science Association for 1989-90.

James Kurth, Swarthmore College, is on sabbatical leave in 1989-90 completing work on his research on U.S. defense strategy.

CHARLES W. DUNN

CHRISTINE SYLVESTER

Larry Longley, former APSA Congressional Fellow, was elected to the Democratic National Committee from Wisconsin.

Gerhard Loewenberg, University of Iowa, has been invited to present a paper on "The Bundestag After 40 Years: A Balance Sheet" in Bonn, Germany.

Robert M. Orr, Jr., assistant professor at Temple University's Japan campus, was appointed as a Visiting Fellow on the Budget Committee of the House of Councillors in the Japanese Diet in June 1989. He is the first non-Japanese to be appointed to a committee in the Diet.

James G. Richter, Bates College, post-doctoral fellowship at the Harriman Institute at Columbia University.

Richard Rose of the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow, has been named a guest professor at the Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin.

Richard Rubin, Swarthmore College, is on sabbatical leave in 1989-90 continuing work on his study of Jewish culture and American politics.

Kenneth Sharpe, Swarthmore College, is on sabbatical leave in 1989-90 supported by a Lang Faculty Fellowship, continuing his work on Central America and U.S. foreign policy.

Jerome Slater, professor of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo was a Fulbright scholar at the University of Haifa, Israel, during the spring 1989 semester. While in Israel, he gave public lectures at Hebrew, Tel Aviv, and Haifa Universities.

Christine Sylvester, associate professor of political science at Northern Arizona University, has been elected a Senior Associate Member of St. Antony's College, Oxford University, for the spring and summer terms of 1990. While in residence there, she will write a book-length manuscript entitled Women, Production, and Power in Two Provinces of Zimbabwe—With Lessons For Western Feminism.

Zoltan Tarr, Rutgers University, on a recent trip to Europe to conduct research, presented papers, "Higher Education in America Today," "Socialism, Revolution and Ethics," and "The Jewish Element in the Teachings of the Frankfurt School" at the universities of Genova, Bergamo, Utrecht, and Frankfurt am Main, Kassel and Paderborn.

Richard Tobin, associate professor of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo spent three months at the International Center for Living Aquatic Resources Management in Manila, the Philippines.

Michael L. Vasu, North Carolina State University, has been elected president of APSA's organized section on Computer Users. He is also serving as a consultant to the president of the North Carolina Community College System's MSS task force.

Yung Wei, National Taiwan University, was elected President of the Chinese Association of Political Science in February 1989.

Marvin G. Weinbaum, of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, will spend the spring semester of academic year 1989-90 as a Fulbright Fellow studying the politics of reconstruction in Afghanistan.

Martin E. Weinstein, of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, has returned to the University of Illinois following his two-year appointment as the Japan Chair at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, Washington, D.C.

Geoffrey R. Weller, Vice-President (Academic), Lakehead University, Thunder Bay, Ontario, Canada, has been reappointed for a five-year term.

Tyrene White, Swarthmore College, is on extended sabbatical leave for three semesters in the fall of 1989 and all of 1990 working at Harvard University and continuing her research on population policy in China.

Administrative Appointments

Myron Aronoff, chairman, department of political science, Rutgers University.

Dennis Bathory, vice chair, graduate studies, department of political science, Rutgers University.

Peter R. Beckman, chair, political science department, Hobart and William Smith Colleges.

Larry Berman, chair, department of political science, University of California, Davis.

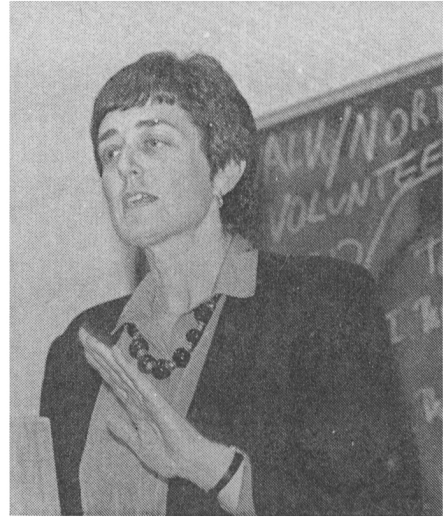

Melvin Croan is the new chair of University of Wisconsin-Madison's Soviet and East European Studies Program. He has also been reappointed for a two-year term to the Editorial Board of Eastern European Politics and Societies.

Stephen A. Douglas, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, has been appointed director of undergraduate studies for the department of political science.

James D. Fairbanks, executive director of institutional research and planning, University of Houston-Downtown.

Louis C. Gawthrop, director of the Hoffberger Center for Professional Ethics at the University of Baltimore.

Eddie Goldenberg, former director and re search scientist, Institute of Public Policy Studies and professor of political science and public policy, University of Michigan, has been named dean of the College of Literature, Science and the Arts, University of Michigan.

EDIE GOLDENBERG
Photo by Bob Kalmbach

Paul L. Hain, dean of arts and humanities, Corpus Christi State University; formerly University of New Mexico.

Ronald D. Hedlund, currently associate dean for research and sponsored programs at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Graduate School, has been appointed the first vice provost for research at the University of Rhode Island.

Dennis R. Judd, chair, department of political science, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Dorothy B. James, provost, Connecticut College.

Sidney L. Jones, assistant secretary of the Treasury for Economic Policy; currently Brookings Institution and Georgetown University.

Lance T. LeLoup, director of the Center for Metropolitan Studies and the James T. Bush Center for Law, Social Change, and

People in Political Science

SIDNEY L. JONES

Conflict Resolution, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Thomas J. Maloney, S.J., chair, department of political science, Loyola Marymount University.

W. Wesley McDonald, acting chair, department of political science, Elizabethtown College.

Frank McKenna Jr., director, Center for Governmental Research and Public Service, Bowling Green State University. He is also an associate professor in the department of political science, the recent director of the department's graduate program in public administration, and a new member of the National Council of the American Society for Public Administration.

John McClusky, vice president for Academic Programs, The Washington Center; formerly vice chancellor for External Affairs, University of Missouri, St. Louis.

W. Carey McWilliams, vice chair, undergraduate studies, department of political science, Rutgers University.

John J. Mearsheimer, chair, department of political science, University of Chicago.

Thomas P. Melady, president of the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council in Hartford, has been nominated by President Bush as U.S. ambassador to the Vatican.

Orville D. Menard, chair, department of political science, University of Nebraska at Omaha.

John S. Odell, director, Center for International Studies, University of Southern California.

John G. Peters, dean, college of arts and sciences, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Dianne M. Pinderhughes' appointment as acting director of the Afro-American Studies and Research Program in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign has been extended through academic year 1989-90.

Michael B. Preston, chair, department of political science, University of Southern California.

Karen L. Remmer, chair, department of political science, University of New Mexico.

NANCY L. ROSENBLUM

Nathaniel Richmond, director of International Programs, 1989-90, at Utica College of Syracuse University.

Nancy L. Rosenblum, chair, department of political science, Brown University.

John Gerard Ruggie, director, University of California Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation, University of California, San Diego.

Anne L. Schneider, dean, College of Public Programs, Arizona State University.

Robert O. Schneider, chair, political science department, Pembroke State University.

Joan Edelman Spero, senior vice president and treasurer, American Express Company.

James L. Waite, chair, department of political science and geography, Central Missouri State University; Waite also served as director of the Missouri London Study Program for spring term 1989.

James F. Willis, chair, department of history, political science, and geography, Southern Arkansas University.

New Appointments

Felipe Aguero, assistant professor of political science, Ohio State University; formerly Duke University.

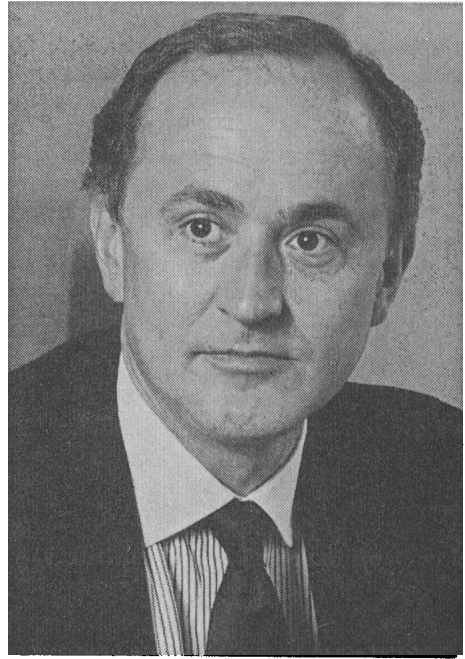

Tsuneo Akaha, associate professor of international policy studies, Monterey Institute of International Studies; formerly Bowling Green State University.

Nicholas O. Alozie, assistant professor of political science, Iowa State University; formerly University of Texas at Dallas.

Samuel Assefa, assistant professor, department of political science, Rutgers University.

Donna Bahry, professor, department of political science, University of California, Davis; formerly New York University.

Lee Ann Banaszak, assistant professor of political science, Iowa State University; formerly Washington University, St. Louis.

JOHN GERARD RUGGIE

Edith Juanita Barrett, assistant professor, department of political science, Brown University.

Peter Benda, instructor of political science, Swarthmore College; formerly University of Virginia.

Timothy Bledsoe, associate professor, department of political science, Wayne State University; formerly University of South Carolina.

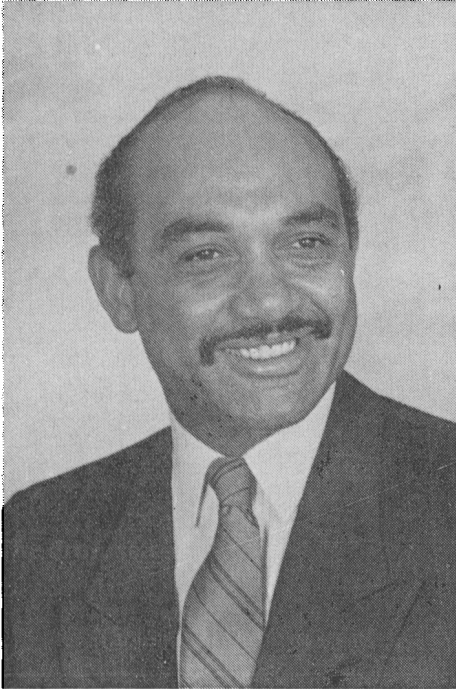

David Camacho, assistant professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University; formerly Seattle University.

David Campbell, instructor of political science, School of Arts and Sciences, The Johns Hopkins University.

Andrea Chipman, program assistant, education and studies program, Carnegie Council on Ethics and International Affairs.

Geeta Chowdhry, assistant professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University; formerly Mount Holyoke College.

People in Political Science

LENNEAL HENDERSON

Patrick L. Clawson has been appointed a Resident Scholar at the Foreign Policy Research Institute.

David H. Davis, associate professor, department of political science and public administration, The University of Toledo; formerly University of Wyoming and Editor of the Social Science Journal.

Mark E. Denham, assistant professor, department of political science and public administration, The University of Toledo; formerly Mershon Center, The Ohio State University.

Paul F. Diehl, associate professor of political science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; formerly University of Georgia.

Donald Munroe Eagles, assistant professor, department of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo; formerly St. Mary's University, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Michael V. Esler, instructor in political science, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly The Ohio State University.

Larry George, assistant professor, department of political science, California State University, Long Beach; formerly University of New Mexico.

Emily Goldman, assistant professor, department of political science, University of California, Davis; formerly Stanford University.

Robert E. Goodin, formerly Reader in Government at the University of Essex, is now Professorial Fellow in Philosophy at the Australian National University's Institute for Advanced Studies.

Jeffrey R. Goodwin, assistant professor, Northwestern University; formerly Harvard University.

Paul Gottfried, professor of humanities, to teach courses in political philosophy, Elizabethtown College; formerly senior editor at The World & I.

Ted Robert Gurr, professor of government and politics at the University of Maryland, College Park, and Distinguished Scholar at the University's Center for International Development and Conflict Management. Formerly at the University of Colorado, Boulder, and a Jennings Randolph Fellow (1988-89) at the U.S. Institute of Peace.

John A. Hammon, assistant professor of political science, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly University of Illinois.

Lenneal Henderson, formerly of the University of Tennessee and the Federal Executive Institute, has been appointed Distinguished Professor, department of government & public administration; Senior Fellow, William Donald Schaefer Center for Public Policy; and Henry C. Welcome Fellow at the University of Baltimore.

Richard Herrera, assistant professor of political science, Arizona State University; formerly University of California, Santa Barbara.

Christopher Holoman, assistant professor, department of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Mary Jackman, professor, department of political science and sociology, University of California, Davis; formerly University of Michigan.

Robert Jackman, professor, department of political science, University of California, Davis; formerly Michigan State University.

James D. Johnson, assistant professor, Northwestern University; formerly University of Chicago.

Kim Fridkin Kahn, assistant professor of political science, Arizona State University; formerly University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Kaled M. Kayali, associate professor of government, Suffolk University, after two years as visiting associate professor; formerly of the United Arab Emirates University.

Mark Kessler, assistant professor of political science, Bates College; formerly University of Kentucky.

Donald F. Kettl, associate professor, Vanderbilt University.

John Christian Laursen, assistant professor, Union College; formerly Wake Forest University.

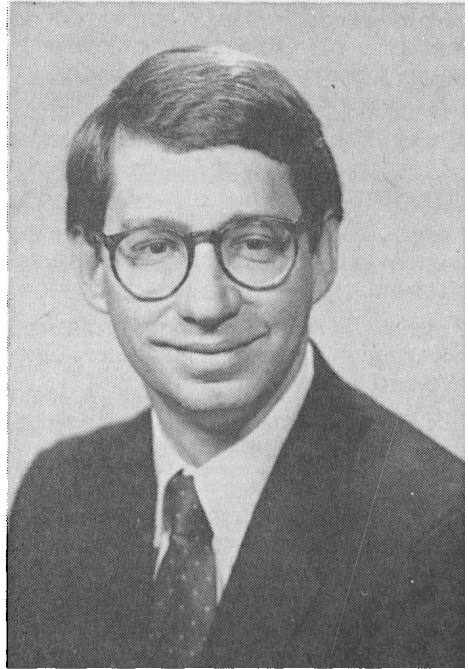

Aie-Rie Lee, assistant professor, department of political science, Texas Tech University; formerly Florida State.

Sung-Chull Lee, assistant professor of political science, University of California, Irvine.

Jack Levy, professor, department of political science, Rutgers University.

Richard A. Loverd, assistant professor of political science, formerly Villanova University.

Michael J. Malbin moved in April 1989 from the position of Associate Director, Office of the House Republican Whip, to that of Speechwriter to the Secretary and Deputy Secretary of Defense.

DONALD F. KETTL

Larry Martinez, assistant professor, department of political science, California State University, Long Beach; formerly at U.S. Department of Commerce.

Kirstie M. McClure, assistant professor of political science, Arizona State University; formerly Princeton University.

David Menefee-Libey, assistant professor of Government, Pomona College, formerly RAND Corporation, Washington Research Division.

Mary C. Meyer, instructor in international politics and Latin American politics, department of political science, Eckerd College.

Manus Midlarsky, Back Professor of International Peace and Conflict Resolution, department of political science, Rutgers University.

Stephen Morris, assistant professor and director of International Studies, University of South Alabama; formerly Colorado College.

People in Political Science

Miroslav Nincic, professor, department of political science and director, international relations program, University of California, Davis; formerly New York University.

Kenneth Oye, assistant professor of political science, Swarthmore College; formerly Princeton University.

Rodger Payne, visiting lecturer, Northwestern University; formerly University of Maryland.

Rosanna Perotti, assistant professor, department of political science, Case Western Reserve University.

Eric Plutzer, assistant professor of political science, Iowa State University; formerly Indiana University.

Hillard Pouncy, associate professor of political science, Swarthmore College; formerly Brandeis University.

Wendy M. Rahn, assistant professor of political science, Ohio State University; formerly University of Minnesota.

Gary Remer, lecturer, department of political science, California State University, Long Beach.

Gerry Riposa, assistant professor, department of political science, California State University, Long Beach; formerly Texas Tech University.

Andrew Marchant Shapiro, visiting instructor of political science and sociology, Union College; formerly University of Chicago.

Theresa Marchant Shapiro, instructor of political science, Union College; formerly University of Chicago.

Grace Simmons, assistant professor, department of political science, Texas Tech University; formerly of Iowa.

Andrew Skalaban, assistant professor, department of political science, University of California, Davis; formerly University of Iowa.

Zachary Smith, associate professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University; formerly University of Hawaii at Hilo.

Etel Solingen, assistant professor of political science, University of California, Irvine.

Mary Ann Steger, associate professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University; formerly Washington State University.

William R. Stevenson, Jr., associate professor of political science, Calvin College; formerly North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation.

Jerry D. Stubben, assistant professor of political science, Iowa State University; formerly University of Nebraska.

Leslie Thiele, assistant professor of political science, Swarthmore College; 1989 Ph.D., Princeton University.

Sue Thomas, assistant professor, department of government, Georgetown University.

Michael C. Tolley, assistant professor of political science, Northeastern University.

Daniel Unger, assistant professor of government, Georgetown University; Ph.D. candidate, U.C.-Berkeley.

Mark Warren, assistant professor, department of government, Georgetown University.

Stephen Wayne, professor of government, Georgetown University; formerly The George Washington University.

Thomas J. Weko, assistant professor, department of political science and public administration, The University of Toledo; formerly American University, Washington, D.C.

A. Kevin Williams, assistant professor, department of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Jung-Eun Woo, assistant professor, Northwestern University; formerly Colgate University.

Stephen Wright, associate professor, department of political science, Northern Arizona University.

Promotions

John J. Bailey, professor and chair, department of government, Georgetown University.

David B. Broyles, professor, Wake Forest University.

Susan E. Clarke, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Colorado at Boulder.

William S. Corlett, Jr., associate professor of political science with tenure, Bates College.

Nelson Dometrius, professor, department of political science, Texas Tech University.

Susan Fino, associate professor, department of political science, Wayne State University.

James C. Foster, associate professor, Oregon State University.

Richard P. Gunther, professor of political science, Ohio State University.

Stuart Hill, associate professor of political science, University of California, Davis.

Bruce Jentleson, associate professor of political science, University of California, Davis.

W. Lee Johnston, professor, University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

Paul Kantor, chair, department of political science, Fordham University, was promoted to professor.

Robert Kaufman, professor, department of political science, Rutgers University.

Charles H. Kennedy, associate professor, Wake Forest University.

Roy Licklider, professor, department of political science, Rutgers University.

Roger C. Lowery, professor, University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

William M. Lunch, associate professor, Oregon State University.

Calvin J. Mouw, assistant professor, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Don T. Nakanishi, assistant professor with tenure, University of California, Los Angeles.

Barbara K. Norrander, associate professor of political science, San Jose State University.

Richard S. Olson, Director of International Programs, Arizona State University, to associate professor of political science.

Clifford Orwin, professor, department of political science, University of Toronto.

William D. Pederson, professor of political science, Louisiana State University at Shreveport.

James Schall, S. J., professor, department of government, Georgetown University.

Steven A. Shull, research professor, University of New Orleans.

Peverill Squire, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Iowa.

John D. Stephens, professor, Northwestern University.

Richard T. Sylves, professor, University of Delaware.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Kimberly Bernaski, visiting assistant professor, department of political science, Texas Tech University; formerly University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Phyllis Berry, visiting professor, 1988-89, Georgetown University.

Martin Bull, University of Salford, England, will be a visiting professor at Wayne State University, 1989-90.

Berenice A. Carroll, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, has been selected for an endowed visiting professorship in the Women's Studies Program at the University of Cincinnati for the winter quarter 1990.

Peter Chen, University of Hong Kong, will be a visiting professor at Wayne State University, 1989-90.

William Dorch, visiting assistant professor, 1988-89, Georgetown University.

Yomi Durotoye, visiting assistant professor, department of politics, Wake Forest University; currently lecturer at the University of Ife, Nigeria.

People in Political Science

Jose Garriga-Pico, visiting associate professor, 1989-90, Northeastern University.

Leslie Hill, instructor, Bates College, Minority Scholar-in-Residence Program sponsored by an eleven-college Consortium for a Strong Minority Presence at Liberal Arts Colleges, 1989-90.

Gerald L. Houseman, Indiana University at Fort Wayne, is spending the 1989-90 academic year at the ITM-MUCIA Malaysian Cooperative Program in Shah Alam (near Kuala Lumpur), Malaysia.

Nuket Kardam, visiting assistant professor of government, Pomono College, formerly of Central Michigan University.

Young Tak Kim, M.A. Seoul National University, of the Korean National Unification Board, will spend the 1989-90 academic year at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign as visiting scholar.

Melanie McCoy, visiting assistant professor, department of political science, Texas Tech University; formerly University of North Texas.

Joseph T. Miller, Ph.D., University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, will be a visiting assistant professor in the department of political science at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign during the fall semester 1989.

James Morone, associate professor of political science, Brown University, will be visiting associate professor of public management, Yale School of Organization and Management, Yale University, spring semester 1989-90, and fall semester 1990-91.

Edward P. Moxon-Browne, Queen's University Belfast, is visiting associate professor at Wesleyan University in the fall semester.

Wolf-Dieter Narr, Ph.D., University of Erlangen/Nurnberg, will be a visiting professor in the department of political science at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign during the spring semester 1990.

Bert A. Rockman is a Senior Fellow in The Government Studies Program of The Brookings Institution beginning January 1990 on leave from The University of Pittsburgh through 1991.

Yaacov Ro'i, visiting Israeli professor, department of government, Georgetown University, for the academic year 1989-90.

Henry Topper, visiting instructor in political science, department of politics and public policy, Goucher College.

Frank Wayman, visiting professor, department of political science, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor, for the fall 1989 semester, on leave from University of Michigan-Dearborn.

David Weinstein, visiting assistant professor, department of politics, Wake Forest University; formerly Fellow, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Jaan Whitehead, visiting assistant professor, 1988-89, Georgetown University.

Pia Christina Wood, instructor, Bates College, 1989-90.

Retirements

Charles E. Gilbert, Swarthmore College, retired at the end of 1988-89 academic year, but continues his interests and work as a political scientist as professor emeritus.

Samuel K. Gove retired as a professor of political science from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in May 1989.

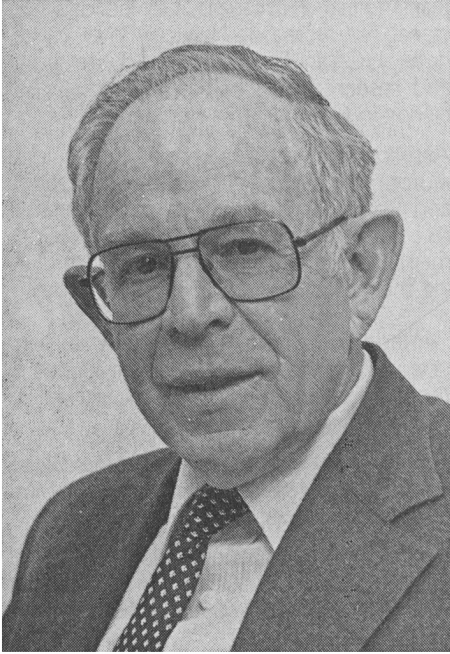

Werner F. Grunbaum, professor emeritus, University of Missouri, St. Louis, effective December 31, 1989.

Heinz R. Hink, professor of constitutional law, now emeritus at Arizona State University.

Bruce B. Mason, professor of American politics and state & local government, now emeritus at Arizona State University.

John H. Vanderzell, professor and chair of the government department, Franklin and Marshall College, as of June 1989.

Sidney Wise, Charles A. Dana Professor of Government, Franklin and Marshall College, as of June 1989.

SIDNEY WISE

Award Recipients

American Council of Learned Societies

The American Council of Learned Societies, located at 228 East 45th Street, New York, NY, 10017-3398, is a private, nonprofit federation of 46 national scholarly associations devoted to the advancement of humanistic studies in all fields of learning. In recent competitions, the following political scientists won fellowships or grants.

Fellowships for Postdoctoral Research in Humanities and Social Sciences

Alan Gilbert, associate professor of political science, University of Denver. Autonomy and democratic institutions.

Helen M. Silverberg, assistant professor of politics, Princeton University. State, party, and the reorganization of literacy in the French Middle Ages.

Grants-in-Aid for Postdoctoral Research in Humanities and Social Sciences

Jane Jenson, professor of political science, Carleton University. Gendering effects: the politics of the women's movement and state policies in France.

Melvin Richter, professor of political science, City University of New York, Graduate Center. Tocqueville, the Two Napoleons, and Bonapartism.

Postdoctoral Fellowships in Chinese Studies

Richard C. Kraus, associate professor of political science, University of Oregon. Brushes with power: modern politics and the Chinese art of calligraphy.

Fellowships for Graduate Students in Chinese Studies

Louise Coan, department of political science, University of Michigan.

Support for Dissertations Relevant to Eastern Europe

David L. Bartlett, political science, University of California, San Diego. The political economy of financial reform in Hungary.

Jeffrey S. Kopstein, political science, University of California, Berkeley. Communism and legality.

Annamaria Seleny, political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The Hungarian second economy and its political significance.

Fellowships for Advanced Graduate Study and Training in Eastern European Studies

Andzrej W. Tymowski, political science, Yale University. A comparison of opposition movements within Poland, Czechoslovakia and the German Democratic Republic.