

CPD Online

287 New from CPD Online

Cochrane corner

288 Cholinergic medication for antipsychotic-induced tardive dyskinesia
Irina Tammenmaa-Aho, Rosie Asher, Karla Soares-Weiser & Hanna Bergman

Round the corner

289 What is the evidence on cholinergic medication for tardive dyskinesia?
Vishal Bhavsar

Article

295 Deprescribing antipsychotics: a guide for clinicians
Swapnil Gupta, John Daniel Cahill & Rebecca Miller

Commentary

303 'Deprescribing' antipsychotics in schizophrenia: witless and dangerous?
Ann Mortimer

Article

305 Current understanding of narcissism and narcissistic personality disorder
Jessica Yakeley

Clinical reflection

316 Confessions of a liar-detector: I can tell if you're malingering, but I can't tell why
Derek K. Tracy

Articles

319 A paradigm shift: relationships in trauma-informed mental health services
Angela Sweeney, Beth Filson, Angela Kennedy, Lucie Collinson & Steve Gillard

334 Sexual rights, mental disorder and intellectual disability: principles and law
Isabelle Le Gallez, Keith J. B. Rix, Kartina A. Choong & Helen Dewson

346 Rapid tranquillisation: the science and advice
John Cookson

Cover image

In this issue (305–315), author Jessica Yakeley reviews historical contributions to the conceptualisation of narcissism and narcissistic personality disorder (NPD), including its evolution as a clinical diagnosis within the DSM classification of mental disorders. The challenges of managing patients with prominent narcissistic traits are presented, and the psychological therapies specifically designed for the treatment of patients with NPD are summarised.
Cover image: © iStockphoto/ajr_images