The Oxford History of Hungarian Literature from the Earliest Times to the Present

LÓRÁNT CZIGÁNY

Previously announced at $60.00, Oxford now offers this literary treasure at $39.95. The first comprehensive survey of Hungarian literature written in English in more than seventy-five years, this is a scholarly guide to eight centuries of Hungarian prose and poetry illustrated with excerpts in translation. A glossary of Hungarian names and a lengthy bibliography enhance the book.

The Collected Letters of John Millington Synge Volume One: 1871-1907

Edited by ANN SADDLEMYER, University of Toronto

Although when he died at the age of thirty-seven, J. M. Synge had written six plays—among them the theatrical classics Riders to the Sun and The Playboy of the Western World—little is known of his unhappy life. This definitive edition of Synge's letters sheds light on his early years of "exile" in Europe, the visits he made to the Aran Islands and the west of Ireland that supplied him with the subjects for his later plays, and his years as co-director of the Abbey Theater.

The Life and Opinions of Tristram Shandy, Gentleman

LAURENCE STERNE; edited by IAN CAMPBELL ROSS, Trinity College, Dublin

This scholarly edition of Tristram Shandy is the first in a single volume to use the "York Edition" as copy text for Volumes I and II since their predating of the "London Edition" was established. Since Sterne placed great importance on the typographical presentation of his work, the spelling and punctuation of the first edition have been reproduced in an unmodernized and unregularized form. Extensive explanatory notes, a new introduction, a chronology of Sterne's life, and a select bibliography are included.

Roy Campbell A Critical Biography

PETER ALEXANDER, University of New South Wales

Roy Campbell's name is surrounded with legends, some true, some false, many invented by the man himself. In this first biography of the poet, Alexander traces Campbell's life from his birth in 1901 to his sudden death in an automobile accident in 1957: his childhood in South Africa, his student days at Oxford, the start of his poetic career, his marriage, and his turbulent involvement in the fashionable literary scene of the 1920s.

John Clare's Autobiographical Writings

Edited by ERIC ROBINSON, University of Massachusetts

John Clare's life has never been told more vividly or with greater poignancy than by John Clare himself. In fragments written for an autobiography he never completed, Clare tells of his childhood, his various jobs, his loves, his impressions of London—where he moved in the society of such authors as Hazlitt, Lamb, and Coleridge—and his escape from the asylum where he had been confined for four years.

"I hold to the belief that I am one of Africa's favorite children. A great world of poetry has revealed itself to me and taken me to itself here."
— Isak Dinesen

LETTERS FROM AFRICA, 1914-1931 Isak Dinesen

Edited for the Rungstedlund Foundation by Frans Lasson

Translated by Ann Born

This book brings together the letters Isak Dinesen wrote home during the seventeen years she spent in Africa. They provide a personal record of the experiences that she many years later transformed into the brilliant and romantic stories for which she is famous. "These letters . . . will direct readers back to her unforgettable Out of Africa, to which they constitute an instructive and painful subtext. They are also . . . 'messages of hope' — particularly for women, but for all lonely freethinkers."

— Victoria Glendinning, Washington Post Book World

DAGUERREOTYPES And Other Essays Isak Dinesen

With a Foreword by Hannah Arendt

"Isak Dinesen . . . had an original approach to life that permeated all her work. She loved storytelling, with the result that most of her essays are quasi-narratives. . . . Her work is a delight." — The New Yorker

NEW FROM CORNELL . . .

THOMAS CARLYLE

A Biography

By FRED KAPLAN. "This biography is the modern interpretation of Carlyle's life that scholars have long been waiting for. Kaplan deals with a vast body of materials, published and unpublished, and out of them shapes a comprehensive and credible study of Carlyle the man. His will be the most important biography of Carlyle since Froude's in the 1880s."—John Clubbe, University of Kentucky. With 49 photos. $35.00

IMAGINATION IN CONFINEMENT

Women's Writings from French Prisons

By ELISSA D. GELFAND. "Gelfand's book is engaging and readable. She cuts across disciplines, addressing important questions about female authorship. The book is an important contribution to the growing literature on female autobiography."—Elizabeth Fox-Genovese, State University of New York, Binghamton. $19.95

THE FORMS OF HISTORICAL FICTION

Sir Walter Scott and His Successors

By HARRY E. SHAW. "This book makes extremely significant and timely points about historical representation in fiction. Shaw's discussions of Scott's novels are splendid—of considerable interest to students of both Scott and the nineteenth-century European novel."—Donald Marshall, University of Iowa. $25.00

RETHINKING INTELLECTUAL HISTORY

Texts, Contexts, Language

By DOMINICK LACAPRA. "This collection makes available the scattered work of one of the most imaginative and penetrating intellectual historians of our day. Although devoted to an impressively wide range of topics, the essays are the product of a unified vision. They are written with force and lucidity, even when they treat extremely abstruse issues. . . . My enthusiasm is unrestrained."—Martin Jay, University of California, Berkeley.
