POETRY AS EXPERIENCE

Norman C. Stageberg and Wallace L. Anderson, Iowa State Teachers College

"It provides a genuinely fresh approach to poetry, which shows awareness of modern critical trends but which keeps the low threshold of the beginner clearly in mind."—Francis Lee Utley, Ohio State University

SHORT STORIES IN CONTEXT

Edited by Woodburn O. Ross and A. Dayle Wallace, Wayne University

"Of the many short story texts, this is, to me, unquestionably the best—both in the stories selected, and in the superior critical material supplied. . . ."—Reverend Daniel N. Dwyer, S.J., Boston College

SEVEN PLAYS OF THE MODERN THEATER

Ibsen, Chekhov, Maugham, Coward, O'Neill, Anderson, Williams

Edited by Vincent Wall and James Patton McCormick, Wayne University

"This is an excellent collection, ably accompanied by well-organized biographical sketches of the playwrights concerned. Its plays are well-chosen as representative types."—Harry E. Davis, University of North Carolina

A BRIEF ANTHOLOGY OF POETRY

Stephen F. Fogle, University of Florida

"The Fogle anthology has a very intelligent introduction and a sound set of poems."—W. B. Rideout, Northwestern University

COLLEGE DIVISION
55 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK 3, N.Y.

Edited by Ernest J. Simmons, THROUGH THE GLASS OF SOVIET LITERATURE: Views of Russian Society, contains six studies of Soviet literature that present a fresh picture of what is actually happening to Soviet society. The studies cover controls over literature, has chapters on the Marxian woman, Jews, children's drama, Soviet satirists, and postwar literary scholarship. $4.50

A HISTORY OF RUSSIAN PHILOSOPHY, by V. V. Zenkovsky, Translated by George L. Kline, is the first complete history of Russian philosophy in any language (it contains material not in the Russian original as published). Widely acclaimed as the most readable and reliable, it is written in a clear, direct style and includes the author's latest revisions.

"The second volume fully justifies the expectations aroused in the reader by the first. . . . The book as a whole must be regarded as an outstanding phenomenon."—D. I. Chizhevski in Novy Zhurnal two volumes, $15.00

Edward J. Brown's THE PROLETARIAN EPISODE IN RUSSIAN LITERATURE 1928-1932 examines the proletarian literary movement in Russia—particularly the Russian Association of Proletarian Writers. He discusses the group's literary theory, the kind of literature it produced, and the reasons it was liquidated. $4.50

BEOWULF AND JUDITH, edited by Elliot V. K. Dobbie, contains the two poems of the Beowulf manuscript, completing Columbia's definitive six-volume edition of the Anglo-Saxon Poetic Records. Critical notes record all textual comment that is still of value. November, $6.00

SCIENCE AND AESTHETIC JUDGMENT: A Study in Taine's Critical Method, by Sholom J. Kahn, is the first book-length critical study of Hippolyte Taine in English. Dr. Kahn discusses Taine's theories and establishes here a critique of the heritage Taine has left—where, for example, the New Criticism stands in relation to that heritage. $4.00

OXFORD BOOKS

JULES LAFORGUE and the Ironic Inheritance

Winner of the MLA-Oxford Award

By WARREN RAMSEY. The first book in English about the late-19th-century French writer, who, perhaps more than any of his contemporaries, determined the course of modern poetry, including that of Eliot, Pound, and Crane. Mr. Ramsey discusses his life and his important works, and shows how the 'ironic inheritance' Laforgue left continues as a vital force in the literature of today. Illustrated. $5.00

The Mirror and the Lamp

Romantic Theory and the Critical Tradition

By M. H. ABRAMS. An analysis of the various trends in English literary criticism at the beginning of the 19th century, viewed against the broad background of critical writing from Aristotle to the present day. It includes not only such giants as Wordsworth, Coleridge, and Hazlitt, but also many lesser known, though boldly original thinkers who anticipated basic ideas of Freud and I. A. Richards. Especially rewarding is the author's attention to the various metaphors critics have used to define art. $7.50

DRAMA: from Ibsen to Eliot

By RAYMOND WILLIAMS, author of Reading and Criticism. An unusual approach to drama whose purpose is to advance the creation of new works. Mr. Williams believes this can best be done by practical analysis rather than theory, and he has provided fresh interpretations of the most significant modern plays. His study of T. S. Eliot is the first critique of all of Eliot's plays in relation to his own dramatic criticism. $3.75

Purity of Diction in English Verse

By DONALD DAVIE. A partisan of 18th-century poetry analyzes its virtues of clarity, plainness and economy, and discusses the advantages and limitations of a pure diction. He compares the Augustan idiom with that of the Romantics, in a study which will be of special interest to everyone concerned with the use of words and the nature of poetry. $3.00

A CRITICAL HISTORY OF CHILDREN'S LITERATURE

By CORNELIA MEIGS, ELIZABETH NESBITT,
ANNE EATON, and RUTH HILL VIGUERS

Introduction by HENRY STEELE COMMAGER

Decorations by VERA BOCK

"A monumental piece of work... It is an absolute essential to the understanding and appreciation of all literature. It is a book to use, to own, and above all, to enjoy."
Julia Sauer in HORN BOOK

"A book sure to become integral to any serious study of children's literature."
Virginia Kirkus

"A fresh approach to the whole subject, with a sure sense of values, historical and literary."
Anne Carroll Moore

"A magnificent book. The authors' different styles of writing add vitality to the book."
Bertha Mahony Miller

640 pages 6½ x 9¼ inches $7.50

THE POEMS OF JOHN MILTON

JAMES HOLLY HANFORD

New, 2nd Edition presents all Milton's original English verse in chronological order, together with translations of significant Latin and Italian works. An introductory biography and the headnotes to the individual poems carefully trace Milton's literary growth and achievement, showing the relationship between the man and his work. Includes full explanatory notes for all poems, including each book of Paradise Lost. Comprehensive bibliography; helpful study questions. 615 pp. $3

THE BEST OF WHITMAN

Edited by HAROLD BLODGETT,
Union College

Chronologically arranged, this new book contains the latest revisions of 140 of Whitman's most representative poems and a wide selection from his prose works, including all of Democratic Vistas. The introduction—reflecting the insights and discoveries of recent scholarship—thoughtfully interprets Whitman's life and writings, discusses the various influences that affected him, and examines his concept of art and its function. 478 pp. $2.75

Literature of Western Civilization

Edited by LOUIS G. LOCKE, Mary Baldwin College; JOHN P. KIRBY, Randolph-Macon Woman's College; M. E. PORTER, Indiana University

Organized in seven parts, from Homer to Faulkner, this distinguished anthology is designed for the basic literature or humanities course. Introductions to the parts provide a concise literary history and correlate the selections with other arts and culture. Careful balance recognizes the work of American and modern writers. Translations of highest quality. Biographical notes.

Volume II—Since the Renaissance, 822 pages, 57 ills. $6

Advanced Writing

ROBERT L. ZETLER, Pennsylvania College for Women; W. GEORGE CROUCH, University of Pittsburgh

Presenting examples of good writing—from professional and student sources—this volume encourages students to achieve all-round writing proficiency. Progresses from simple types of exposition through more complicated forms of description and narration to the narrative sketch. Covers all elements of the short story. 270 pp. $3.25

Reading for Writing

Edited by IVAN E. TAYLOR, Howard University; J. SAUNDERS REDDING, Hampton Institute

Integrates the reading and writing phases of freshman English. Throughout the book, self-expression is stimulated by thought-provoking readings which stress contrasting viewpoints and differing opinions. Exercise material gives a basis for the analysis of readings and suggests theme assignments. 421 pp. $3.50

The AATF

THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF TEACHERS OF FRENCH was founded in 1927 to advance the study of French language and literature, and to serve the interests of French teachers in schools and colleges, "especially by publishing The French Review."

Membership is open to teachers of French, to libraries, and to all others, at home or abroad, who are interested in the aims of the Association. The present membership is just over 4,000. There are three classes of memberships: annual, life, and honorary. Annual dues are $3.00 for the United States and Canada, $3.50 for foreign countries.

There are fifty-one active Chapters, in all parts of the country. Each Chapter holds at least one meeting yearly, and the Association has its annual meeting in December, in the same city and at about the same time as the MLA. Recent meetings have been held in Boston, Detroit, New York, San Francisco, Washington, and Chicago.

All members receive The French Review. It contains literary, cultural, and pedagogical articles, reviews of French books, and information concerning French films, realia, etc. The editor is Hélène Harvât of Brooklyn College. The Managing Editor is Eliot G. Fay of Emory University.

The Association operates a Placement Bureau exclusively for its members. There is no commission. The Director is William Marion Miller of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

The National Information Bureau offers at cost maps, pictures, booklets, songs, etc., and distributes to all members a useful Bulletin two or three times annually. Armand Bégué of Brooklyn College directs its activities.

The Association conducts an annual National French Contest under the direction of James W. Glennen of the University of Akron. Over 40,000 students participate.

Milton L. Shane of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., manages the Association's Bureau de Correspondance Scolaire.

The Association sponsors a national French Honor fraternity and also the Société Honoraire de Français for secondary schools.

It maintains a free traveling realia exhibit through Minnie M. Miller of the Kansas State College of Emporia.

For information on the activities of the AATF or a sample copy of The French Review, write the Secretary-Treasurer, GEORGE B. WATTS, Davidson College, Davidson, N.C.

The AATG

THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF TEACHERS OF GERMAN was founded in 1926 to advance the study of the German language and literature through the promotion of friendly relations among its members, through the publication of articles and the results of investigations by members and others, through the presentation and discussion of papers and important issues in the field at annual meetings, and through such other means as might tend to promote a knowledge and understanding of the German language and civilization.

Membership is open to teachers in schools and colleges, to libraries, and to all others interested in the German language, literature, and civilization. There are five classes of membership: member-at-large, associate, junior, emeritus, and honorary. Annual dues are $3.50.

There are twenty-one active Chapters of the Association throughout the United States. Each Chapter has one or more meetings a year. The Association has an annual meeting in December, usually in the same city as and immediately before or after the annual meeting of the MLA.

Members receive The German Quarterly, the official organ of the Association, which publishes articles of literary, linguistic, and pedagogical interest, as well as a variety of departmental material: News and Notes, Chapter News, Realia, Shop Talk, Audio-Visual Aids, and Reviews. The Editor of The German Quarterly is STUART ATKINS, Harvard University, Cambridge 38, Massachusetts.

The German Quarterly maintains a Placement Service Bureau which acts as a clearing house for those who wish to fill vacancies and for those who seek positions. There is no charge for this service.

The Association maintains a Service Bureau where members, for only the cost of postage, can avail themselves of materials and other aids for the enrichment of their classes. The Bureau is located at the University High School, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota, and is under the direction of ARNOLD MENDEL.

For information about the Association or for a sample copy of The German Quarterly, write to EDGAR H. HEMMINGHAUS, Business-Manager, Hunter College, Bedford Park Blvd. and Goulden Avenue, New York 68, New York.

The Mediaeval Academy

THE MEDIAEVAL ACADEMY OF AMERICA, founded in 1925 and incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, has for its purpose the promotion of research, publication, and instruction in mediaeval records, art, archaeology, history, law, literature, music, philosophy, science, social and economic institutions, and all other aspects of mediaeval civilization.

Membership in the Academy is open to all persons interested in the Middle Ages. Classes of membership include Life Member ($200), Contributing Member ($10 or more annually), and Active Member ($7.50 annually). SPECULUM, the Academy's quarterly journal of mediaeval studies, is sent to all members.

The Academy has published fifty-eight books dealing with the Middle Ages. A list of these publications appears regularly in SPECULUM. Academy books are available to members and subscribers at a substantial discount from the list prices.

Another major activity of the Academy is sponsorship of research projects in the various fields of mediaeval studies. Examples of such projects are the excavations at Cluny under Academy auspices and direction, the preservation of excavations in St-Denis, the study (by a group of American and English scholars) of the actual working of the machinery of English government during a decade of the early fourteenth century, and the edition of Arabic, Hebrew, and Latin texts of the commentaries of Averroes on the works of Aristotle.

A constituent of the ACLS and of the American Documentation Institute, the Mediaeval Academy cooperates also with the American Academy in Rome, the Byzantine Institute, the Dumbarton Oaks Research Library, and other institutions with similar or related interests. Since one of its aims is a closer association of all those interested in the Middle Ages, the Academy acts as a clearing-house for all mediaeval matters. Communications are issued from time to time informing members of Academy activities.

Annual meetings of the Mediaeval Academy have been held in Boston, Chicago, New York, Princeton, Toronto, and Washington.

Inquiries regarding membership in the Academy or subscriptions to SPECULUM should be addressed to the Executive Secretary, Mediaeval Academy of America, 1430 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge 38, Massachusetts.

The American Philological Association

THE AMERICAN PHILOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION was founded in 1869 to promote the study of language and literature. Early volumes of its Transactions and Proceedings were less exclusively devoted to the literatures of classical antiquity than are the more recent volumes. The departmentalization and specialization which led to the establishment of the MLA (1883), the Archaeological Institute of America (1879), the Linguistic Society of America (1924), and the Mediæval Academy (1925) have, in fact, progressively narrowed the interests of the Association until today it might be more appropriately called the American Association of Classical Philology.

The chief activity of the Association has been the publication of its long series of Transactions and Proceedings. The current volume is No. 82.

In 1931 a series of Philological Monographs was established for the publication of larger studies in classical antiquity. This series, beginning with a work on the divinity of the Roman emperor, includes text editions, an index verborum of Apuleius, and studies in ancient history, law, philosophy, geography, and syntax. Monographs xv,2 and xvi are currently at the press.

More recently, Special Publications have been issued on the text of Servius' Commentary on the Aeneid and Homer's Iliad of the 6th century B.C.

The Association is a constituent of the ACLS, the American Documentation Institute, and the Federation Internationale des Associations des Etudes Classiques.

Membership in the Association is open to all persons who wish to support its work. Classes of membership include Annual ($6), Sustaining ($10), and Life ($250). All members receive the current volume of Transactions and Proceedings.

Inquiries concerning membership in the Association, back numbers of Transactions, or copies of Philological Monographs and Special Publications should be addressed to MERIWETHER STUART, Secretary, American Philological Association, Hunter College, 695 Park Avenue, New York 21, New York.

A Short History of the English Novel

by S. D. Neill

Here is the fascinating story of the evolution of the English novel from its infancy to Finnegans Wake in relation to the social and economic history of the times. It covers such classics as Richardson and Fielding, with new light on Joseph Conrad, Henry James, and other Victorian novelists. The concluding chapters discuss such writers as Aldous Huxley, Virginia Woolf, and James Joyce.

Form and Idea: Thirty Essays for College Study

by M. W. Bloomfield &
E. W. Robbins

Here, in a collection of thirty essays, the authors present both a study of the literary form most closely allied to composition assignments and an introduction to academic experience through the variety of the subject matter covered in the essays themselves. Accompanying each essay are a biographical sketch of the author, notes, penetrating questions on the work, and suggested assignment topics.

Sentence Craft

by V. L. Newsome & E. Borgh

Concentrating on the sentence as the focal point of most writing problems, this text draws its examples from contemporary expository writing and thus avoids the "manufactured," sentences found in most workbooks. The book has a liberal approach to problems of grammar and usage, making it descriptive rather than prescriptive. It gives not only general usage but also acceptable variations.
