Victorian and Edwardian Theatres
Victor Glasstone

Theatre masterpieces. Opera houses of enchantment and illusion. Music halls of magic and gaiety. Sumptuously illustrated with over 200 engravings and photographs in both black-and-white and color. Brilliantly commented upon by author, architect, and lover of theatre, Victor Glasstone. $17.50

Stage One is a theatre laboratory with a resident ensemble company. It is dedicated to the actor, his attitude, preparation, and personal process. And to a search for that theatre form which touches hidden and forgotten aspects of the human experience.

Productions available for touring winter 75-spring 76:

Gertrude Og Ophelia — a unique character study of two of Shakespeare's most famous women. The two women struggle for dignity and meaning as they reflect the society that made them what they are.
"Reminiscent of Personna . . . Superb production"
The Boston Phoenix

The Great God Brown — an experimental adaptation of one of Eugene O'Neill's most mystical and little known masterpieces.

Collective Theatre Workshops deal with ensemble work, work in smaller groups, and finally with individual acting problems and challenges. The acting students work with members of the company in warm-ups, improvisations, image work, and attitudes. The disciplines are geared to both the individual and the collective with emphasis on the individual's needs and process.

Five-week intensives, limited to ten students:
Oct. 6-Nov. 7, Feb. 11-Mar. 15, June 10-July 12
Residencies are available.

Shall I compare thee?

Go ahead. Compare. You'll find The Riverside Shakespeare looks all the better for the scrutiny.

Start with the text. It includes the complete works, plus "The Two Noble Kinsmen" and the Shakespearean scenes from "Sir Thomas More."

Examine the scholarship. Gwynne Blakemore Evans worked more than ten years to produce a volume unparalleled for its consistency of editorial viewpoint.

The volume's supplementary essays and full illustrative program tell you about Shakespeare's life and times. And introductions to each play tell you about his work.

Clear explanatory notes are located beneath each text column. Biographical and textual notes follow each work.

So compare, if you will. Because we think you'll find The Riverside Shakespeare as you like it.

UR-DRAMA: The Origins of Theatre by E.T. Kirby presents a much needed comprehensive study of the origins of theatre based on recent anthropological data. As the origin of drama is one of the best-known and most widely discussed scholarly problems in the academic study of theatre, this new work is particularly significant since it is the first book to be devoted to a study of the relation between shamanism and theatre.

UR-DRAMA contradicts the common view of the origin of theatre as having been founded in fertility worship and organized in a seasonal pattern. E.T. Kirby proposes that shamanism rather than nature worship gave rise to most drama: not merely classical Greek drama but diverse forms in many parts of the world. He demonstrates how many of the world's most important theatre forms—ancient Greek drama, Sanskrit drama of India, Chinese classical drama, and Japanese noh drama—were developed from early shamanistic rituals, rather than fertility worship. In its entirety, UR-DRAMA presents a detailed, general theory of theatre's origins which should replace that of the year-cycle, to become the standard reference in the field.

Surrealism and the Contemporary Stage

by
GLORIA ORENSTEIN

With an Introduction
by Anna Balakian

Illustrated with photographs/$15.00

NYU Press

Washington Square, New York 10003

What Gloria Feman Orenstein terms "The Theater of the Marvelous" is what appears to be a new branch of contemporary theater typified by modern masters such as Alexandro Jodorowsky, Fernando Arrabal, Eugène Ionesco, Octavio Paz, Julio Cortázar, Aimé Césaire, and Leonora Carrington. This intriguing study relates a new body of literature to its ancient sources to illuminate a richer understanding of the works of these contemporary conjurers of Surrealist inspiration. What is most striking about this first substantial treatment of works produced since 1940 is Ms. Orenstein's ability to perceive and portray the theatricality of works seldom, if ever, seen in stage performances and to activate the latent dramatic qualities of the plays she considers.

GRADUATE DRAMA AT NYU'S SCHOOL OF THE ARTS

We don't take a literary approach. We study the play on stage; our emphasis is the history and theory of performance itself. This makes our graduate program unlike any other.

Faculty members must be more than scholars. They must be involved in practical theatre. Like Michael Kirby, author of Happenings, The Art of Time, and Futurist Performance, who is also a playwright, director, and editor of The Drama Review. Brooks McNamara is a theatre set designer as well as author of The American Playhouse in the Eighteenth Century and The Medicine Show. Richard Schechner is the author of Public Domain and Environmental Theatre. He is the founder and co-director of the Performance Group. Theodore Hoffman, the co-author of A Guide to Theatre Study, is also a critic and a teacher of improvisation.

Our A.M. program covers the history of theatre, the history of acting, directing, physical theatre, and theatrical theory. Its focus is contemporary performance practice.

Our Ph.D. program emphasizes the specialties of the faculty. Courses are offered in such areas as History of Avant-Garde Performance (Kirby), Popular Entertainments (McNamara), Ritual and Theatre (Schechner), and Theatrical Criticism (Hoffman).

All our students must have practical theatre experience (not necessarily at the professional level). We feel our ideas will be most useful to people who are interested in doing theatre rather than merely reading about it.

There is no better place to study drama than in New York—the theatre capital of the world.

For more information and application, call (212) 598-2407 or mail coupon.

PERFORMANCE DOCUMENTATION

AN ANTHOLOGY
EDITED BY MICHAEL KIRBY FROM
The Drama Review

THE NEW THEATRE attempts to recreate various theatrical experiences by documenting in words and photographs a wide range of recent experimental, or avant-garde performances from many different countries. Entirely reprinted from The Drama Review, the book includes drama, dance, and several productions—some related to Happenings—that would be difficult to classify. Among the documented performances are: Jerzy Grotowski's Apocalypsis cum figuris (Poland); Frederic Baal's Real Reel (Belgium); Ariane Mnouchkine's 1789 (France); Victor Garcia's The Balcony (Brazil); Georgij Paro's Christopher Columbus (Yugoslavia); Luca Roconi's XX (Italy); Shuji Terayama's Jashumon (Japan); The People Show 39 (England); Richard Foreman's Sophia (USA); and Robert Wilson's The Life and Times of Joseph Stalin (USA).

IS OFFERING AN ALTERNATIVE PROGRAM IN:

EXPERIMENTAL THEATRE

The Department of Drama, Undergraduate, which offers a B.F.A. degree in acting, is pleased to announce the formation of the Experimental Theatre Wing. A limited number of students will have the opportunity to work intimately with four of New York's leading experimental theatre groups in a two-year program designed specifically for students who have already completed two years of foundation work with one of the three studios working with our Department: Stella Adler Conservatory, The Circle in the Square Theatre School, and the Lee Strasberg Theater Institute. The ETW is also open to students who have studied acting elsewhere and who wish to transfer into our Department. Students in the ETW will spend one semester with each of the following groups: The Performance Group (best known for Dionysus in 69 and The Tooth of Crime), The Ridiculous Theatrical Company (specializing in commedia dell'arte techniques), Mabou Mines (recently featured in Newsweek for their highly acclaimed Beckett production), and Richard Foreman's Ontological-Hysterical Theatre (frequently featured in The Drama Review). Students will work in unique acting, voice, and movement workshops taught from each particular group's point of view. In the last semester a production, directed by Richard Foreman, will be performed by the students. In addition to studying with the four groups, students will take dramatic literature and history of performance courses offered through the Department.
