

Along Freedom Road

Hyde County, North Carolina, and the Fate of Black Schools in the South

David S. Cecelski

For an entire year, residents of a small coastal community fought for an equal role in the desegregation of local schools. Chronicling one of the most sustained and successful protests of the civil rights movement, David Cecelski tells a moving, personal story and explores questions that continue to challenge educators today.

Feminism in Action

Building Institutions and Community through Women's Studies

Jean Fox O'Barr

Foreword by Kristin Luker

Feminism in Action is Jean O'Barr's first-hand account of two decades spent working to promote the cause of higher education for women through the establishment of women's studies programs. These essays pose—and help to answer—basic questions about the role of women's studies programs in the academy. "A splendid account of creative teaching, learning, and institution-building."—Marcia Westkott

A Moral Art

Grammar, Society, and Culture in Trecento Florence

PAUL F. GEHL

"At one level a focused account of the textbook materials used in Florentine secondary education in the fourteenth century, at another Gehl's book, with its felicitous definition of the aims of Florentine education and penetrating suggestions as to the teachers, methods of instruction and institutional arrangement of the schools, offers readers a broad insight into the culture of the city."—Ronald G. Witt, Duke University. $38.95

The Chicago Pragmatists and American Progressivism

ANDREW FEFFER

The Chicago pragmatists pursued a close critique of the modern workplace, school, and neighborhood which provided a theoretical base for the progressive reform agenda. Feffer here provides a richly textured group portrait of Dewey and his colleagues George Herbert Mead and James Hayden Tufts against the backdrop of Chicago's social history. $32.95

On Humanistic Education

Six Inaugural Orations, 1699-1707

GIAMBATTISTA VICO

Translated by Giorgio A. Pinton and Arthur W. Shippee. With an Introduction by Donald Phillip Verene. Vico here explores the relationship between the Greek dictum "Know thyself" and liberal education. $29.95 cloth, $10.95 paper
