

Limited-Term Appointment in Sub-Saharan African History University of British Columbia

The Department of History, University of British Columbia (Vancouver, Canada) invites applications for a one-year position as an assistant professor without review in the field of Sub-Saharan African history, effective 1 July 2012. Candidates must have a Ph.D. (or expect to have successfully defended prior to 1 July 2012) and must provide evidence of excellence in research, as demonstrated by their published contributions or potential contributions to scholarship in the field. The successful candidate will be expected to teach a 12-credit (2-2) load, and thus a strong commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level is also required. This position may be renewed for up to two additional years.

The full text of this advertisement can be found at <http://www.history.ubc.ca/content/limited-term-appointment-sub-saharan-african-history>

The deadline for applications is 1 October 2011. Applications should include c.v., published writing, summary of current and future research interests, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants should send these materials and arrange for three letters of reference to be forwarded under separate cover to Prof. Paul Krause, History of Sub-Saharan Africa Search Committee, Department of History, University of British Columbia, Room 1297, 1873 East Mall, Vancouver BC, Canada V6T 1Z1.

Questions can be directed to Prof. Krause at krause@mail.ubc.ca

The first ever graphic history— from Oxford University Press

“Through Trevor R. Getz and in the engaging images of Liz Clarke, Abina affirms the mark that each person can make on the world.”

—Patrick Manning, University of Pittsburgh

“Trevor R. Getz has pushed the envelope of Africanist scholarship. This is GENIUS.”

—Jonathan T. Reynolds,
Northern Kentucky University

“Getz has crafted a gem, a valuable contribution to African studies and the world history classroom. The book combines a well-informed pedagogy with current historiographical trends. Its multi-layered format delves deeply and lyrically into Abina’s world of image and word.”

—Candace Goucher,
Washington State University, Vancouver

“This is a superb introduction to the way that historians construct the past, to the history of slavery in Africa, and to colonialism. Getz’s analysis of how he reads the document and the problems he had in building the narrative displays an ability to contextualize the document, and to read it both with and against the grain.”

—Martin Klein, University of Toronto
