

Foreign Student Travel Grants for APSA Annual Meeting

Each year the American Political Science Association awards travel grants to advanced, foreign graduate students enrolled in American universities to enable these students to attend the APSA's annual meeting. Grants will be funded by the Asia Foundation, the Huang Hsing Foundation (USA) and other sources including the APSA.

Monies from the Asia Foundation are awarded to students from Asian countries while graduate students from other nations are being funded through the Huang Hsing Foundation and the APSA.

The APSA selects recipients on the basis of the following guidelines:

- Recipients of awards must be studying in the U.S. at the time the award is offered to them.
- Recipients must be full-time graduate students at U.S. institutions of higher learning. Foreign graduate students in refugee, immigrant, or tourist visa status are not eligible.
- Recipients are not eligible for awards if they are receiving any U.S. government funds, for either academic or travel expenses.
- Recipients may not have received a grant previously.

The maximum amount that can be awarded to any individual is $300.

Applicants must complete a form available from the APSA's national office and must have their departmental chairpersons write a letter of support of their applications. The deadline for receipt of applications for a travel grant to the September 3-6, 1992 Annual Meeting in Chicago is June 15. Application forms and further information are available by writing: Foreign Advanced Graduate Student Travel Grants, APSA, 1527 New Hampshire Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20036.

Jones Nominated President-Elect

The 1992 Nominating Committee, composed of Joseph Cooper, Johns Hopkins University, Chair; Robert Bates, Duke University; Benjamin

Ginsberg, Cornell University; Paula D. McClain, University of Virginia; Ellen Frankel Paul, Bowling Green State University; and Donald L. Robinson, Smith College, propose the following slate for Association officers and Council members:

President-Elect (1992-93): Charles O. Jones, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Charles O. Jones

Charles O. Jones is the Glenn B. and Cleone Orr Hawkins Professor of Political Science at the University of Wisconsin, Madison and a non-resident senior fellow at the Brookings Institution. He has also taught at the University of Virginia, University of Pittsburgh, University of Arizona, and Wellesley College. He received his B.A. from the University of South Dakota, his M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin, as well as attending the London School of Economics and Political Science for a year.

Honors and fellowships include: Phi Beta Kappa; Visiting Fellow at Brookings Institution and American Enterprise Institute; Fellow at Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences; Guggenheim Fellowship; Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters, University of South Dakota; and Fellow, American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

He has served as managing editor of the American Political Science Review, co-editor of the Legislative Studies Quarterly, president of Policy Studies Organization and Pi Sigma Alpha, Vice-President of the American Political Science Association, Chairman of Executive Council of Inter-University Consortium of Political and Social Research, Chairman of Executive Committee of Social Science Research Council, and President-Elect of the Midwest Political Science Association.

He is the author (or co-author) of 13 books and monographs, approximately 70 articles and book chapters. Most recent books: The Trusteeship Presidency: Jimmy Carter and the United States Congress (1988); The Reagan Legacy: Promise and Performance (1988). Other books include: The United States Congress: People, Place, and Policy (1982); Clean Air: The Policies and Politics of Pollution Control (1975); An Introduction to the Study of Public Policy (1984); The Minority Party in Congress (1970).

Fields: Legislative Politics, Public Policy, and Presidential/Executive Politics.

Vice-President (1992-93): Allan Kornberg, Duke University.

Allan Kornberg

Allan Kornberg is the Norb F. Schaefer Professor of Political Science at Duke University and has acted as chair of the department since 1983. He received his B.A. from the University of Manitoba and his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.

Among his professional activities are: International Political Science Association, Chair, Legislative Specialists Committee, 1974-; Editor, The Journal of Politics, 1981-85; President, Southern Political Science Association, 1988-89.

Books include Canadian Legislative Behavior, 1967; Influence in Parliament: Canada, 1976; Citizen Politicians—Canada: Party Officials in a Democratic Society, 1979; Representative Democracy in the Canadian Provinces, 1982; Citizens and Community: Political Support in a Representative Democracy, 1992.

Articles include "The Recruitment of Canadian Members of Parliament," American Political Science Review, 1968; "Policy Differences in British Parliamentary Parties," American Political Science Review, 1971; "Political Elite and Mass Perceptions of Party Locations in Issue Space," British Journal of Political Science, 1975; "Some Correlates of Regime Support in Canada," British Journal of Political Science, 1978; "Federalism and Fragmentation: Political Support in Canada," The Journal of Politics, 1979; "Parliament and Political Support in Canada," American Political Science Review, 1984; and "Risky Business: Partisan Volatility and Electoral Choice in Canada," Electoral Studies, 1992.

Fields: Comparative Politics (Anglo-American Democracies), Legislative Politics, and Political Parties and Interest Groups.

Vice-President (1992-93): Arlene W. Saxonhouse, University of Michigan.

Arlene W. Saxonhouse is a professor of both political science and women's studies at the University of Michigan. She also serves in the position of chair of the department of political science. She received her bachelor's degree from Oberlin College and her master's and Ph.D. from Yale.

She has served in APSA in various capacities: Benjamin Lippincott Award Committee chair, Gladys M. Kammerer Award Committee, Nominating Committee chair, Executive

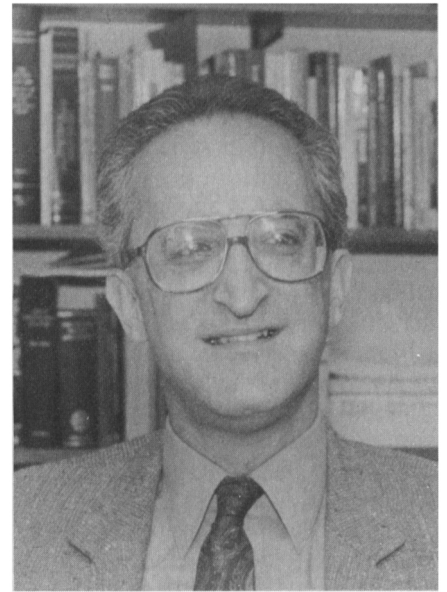

Arlene W. Saxonhouse

Council, Administrative Council, Program Committee, Heinz Eulau Award Committee, and President of the Women and Politics Organized Section. She was also a member of the editorial board of the American Political Science Review.

Recent publications include: Fear of Diversity: The Birth of Political Science in Ancient Greek Thought (1992); Women in the History of Political Thought: Ancient Greece to Machiavelli (1985); Chapter 2, "Aristotle, Defective Males, Hierarchy, and the Limits of Politics," reprinted in Feminist Interpretations and Political Theory, eds. Mary Shanley and Carole Pateman (1990); "Public and Private: The Paradigm's Power," in Stereotypic Attitudes Towards Women in Power: Historical Perspectives and Revisionist Views, ed. Barbara Garlich (1992); "Leo Strauss," Bibliographical Dictionary of 20th Century Political Thinkers, ed. Philip Greene (forthcoming); "Of Paradigms and Cores," Polity (1988); "The Tyranny of Reason in the World of the Polis," American Political Science Review (1988); and "An Inquiry into the Philosophic Roots of the Concept of Economic Order," with Gary R. Saxonhouse, Zeitschrift für die gesamte Staatswissenschaft (Journal of Institutional and Theoretical Economics) (1988).

Fields: Political Thought and Philosophy, Women and Politics.

Vice-President (1992-93): Kenneth A. Shepsle, Harvard University.

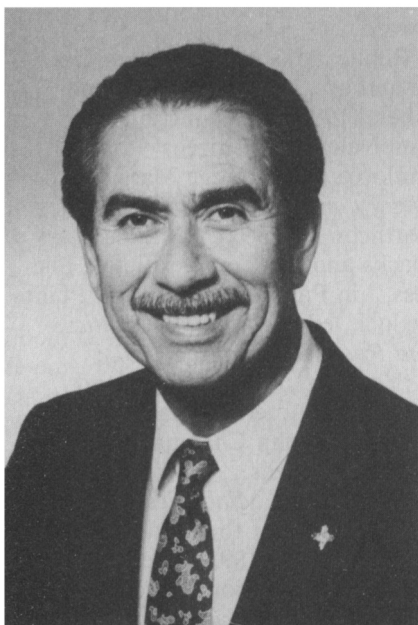

Kenneth A. Shepsle

Kenneth A. Shepsle, a 1970 Ph.D. of the University of Rochester, is professor of government at Harvard University. He previously served on the faculty of Washington University for sixteen years.

His research focuses on the development of formal political theory in the rational choice tradition and on its application to phenomena in American and comparative politics. Much of his research, both theoretical and empirical, has centered on the U.S. Congress. More recently, he has written a monograph on models of multiparty electoral systems and a series of papers on formal theories of government formation in parliamentary regimes.

Professor Shepsle has been a fellow at the Hoover Institution and at the Center for Advanced Studies in the Behavioral Sciences, both located at Stanford. He was elected to the National Academy of Sciences and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1990. He has been the recipient of a number of research grants and fellowships, and was the co-winner of the Duncan Black Prize of the Public Choice Society in 1982 and of the Heinz Eulau Prize of the American Political Science Association in 1988.

Secretary (1992-93): F. Chris Garcia, University of New Mexico.

F. Chris Garcia

F. Chris Garcia has been a professor of political science at the University of New Mexico since 1970, where he has also acted as Vice-President for Academic Affairs and Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of New Mexico, and his Ph.D. at the University of California, Davis.

He has served on several APSA organizational committees including: the Executive Council, the Administrative Committee, the Committee on Pre-Collegiate Education, the Committee on the Status of Latinos, and currently the Committee on Research Support.

He has authored six books: Latinos and the Political System (1988); New Mexico Government (1981, co-edited); State and Local Government in New Mexico (1979, co-authored); The Chicano Political Experience (1977, co-authored); La Causa Politica: A Chicano Politics Reader (1974); The Political Socialization of Chicano Children (1973); and more than thirty articles, book chapters, and reviews since 1970 on voting behavior, public opinion, Hispanic politics, political socialization, and education. Additionally, he was co-principal investigator in the Latino National Political Survey, a major national survey of the political orientations of U.S. Hispanics.

Fields: Urban Politics, Electoral Behavior and Public Opinion, Political Psychology and Sociology.

Council (1992-94): Harriet B. Applewhite, Southern Connecticut State University.

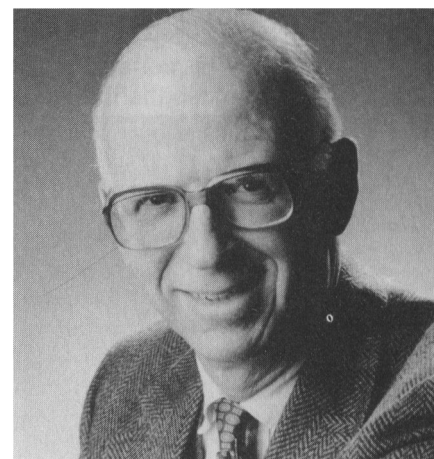

Harriet B. Applewhite

Harriet B. Applewhite is a professor of political science at Southern Connecticut State University. She earned her bachelor's degree at Smith College, and her master's and Ph.D. at Stanford.

Her many publications include Political Alignment in the French National Assembly, 1789-1791 (forthcoming 1993); Women and Politics in the Age of the Democratic Revolution (1990), co-authored with Darline G. Levy; "Responses to the Political Activism of Women of the People in Revolutionary Paris," Women and the Structure of Society (1984); Women in Revolutionary Paris, 1789-1795 (1979); and "Political Legitimacy in Revolutionary France, 1788-1791," Journal of Interdisciplinary History (1978).

Fields: Comparative Politics (Western Europe: France), Elections and Public Opinion, and Women and Politics.

Council (1992-94): David S. Broder, Washington Post.

David S. Broder

David S. Broder is the national political correspondent and columnist for the Washington Post.

Broder joined the Post staff in 1966, and was named an associate editor in 1975.

Broder began his career in journalism as a reporter on the Daily Pentagraph in Bloomington, Illinois, where he worked from 1953 to 1955. He then covered national politics for Congressional Quarterly from 1955 to 1960, for the Washington Star from 1960 to 1965, and for the New York Times from 1965 to 1966.

Broder's twice-weekly syndicated column appears in more than 300 newspapers across America and abroad. In 1973, he won the Pulitzer Prize for Distinguished Commentary.

Broder is the author of Behind the Front Page: A Candid Look at How the News Is Made, published by Simon and Schuster in 1987; Changing of the Guard: Power and Leadership in America, also published by Simon and Schuster in 1980; The Party's Over. The Failure of Politics in America, published by Harper and Row in 1972; and is co-author, with Stephen Hess, of The Republican Establishment: The Present and Future of the G.O.P., published by Harper and Row in 1967.

Born in Chicago Heights, Illinois, Broder received a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Chicago. He has been a Fellow of the Institute of Politics at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, and a Fellow of the Institute of Policy Sciences and Public Affairs at Duke University.

Council (1992-94): James L. Gibson, University of Houston.

James L. Gibson

James L. Gibson holds the position of Distinguished University Professor of Political Science at the University of Houston. He received his bachelor's degree from Emory University and his master's and Ph.D. from the University of Iowa.

His honors include the 1987 Best Article Award from the Political Organizations and Parties Organized Section, the Franklin L. Burdette Pi Sigma Alpha Award for the best paper presented at the 1986 APSA Annual Meeting, and the Heinz Eulau Award for the best article published in the American Political Science Review in 1988.

Recent publications include: "Pluralism, Federalism, and the Protection of Civil Liberties," Western Political Quarterly (1990); "Putting Up With Fascists in Western Europe: A Comparative, Cross-Level Analysis of Political Tolerance," Western Political Quarterly (1992 forthcoming, co-authored with Raymond M. Duch); "Alternative Measures of Political Tolerance: Must Tolerance Be 'Least-Liked'?" American Journal of Political Science (1992, forthcoming); "Anti-Semitic Attitudes of the Mass Public: Estimates and Explanations Based on a Survey of the Moscow Oblast," Public Opinion

Quarterly (forthcoming, co-authored with Raymond M. Duch); "Blacks and the United States Supreme Court: Models of Diffuse Support," Journal of Politics (forthcoming, co-authored with Gregory A. Caldeira); "Democratic Values and the Transformation of the Soviet Union," Journal of Politics (1992 forthcoming, co-authored with Raymond M. Duch and Kent L. Tedin); "The Etiology of Public Support for the Supreme Court," American Journal of Political Science (forthcoming, co-authored with Gregory A. Caldeira); and "The Political Consequences of Intolerance: Cultural Conformity and Political Freedom," American Political Science Review (1992, forthcoming).

Fields: Public Law and Judicial Policy, Political Parties and Interest Groups, and Electoral Behavior and Public Opinion.

Council (1992-94): Jennifer L. Hochschild, Princeton University.

Jennifer L. Hochschild

Jennifer Hochschild is a professor of politics and public affairs at Princeton University. She received her B.A. from Oberlin College and her Ph.D. from Yale. She has served as the chair of the Victoria Schuck Award Committee, Women's Caucus for Political Science Membership Committee, and on the APSA Nominating Committee.

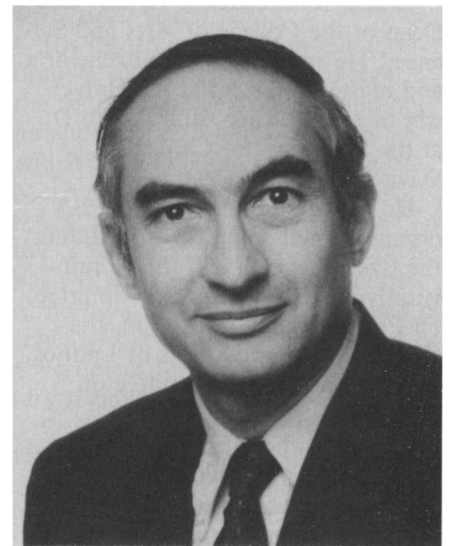

Among her many honors are fellowships from the Spencer Foundation and the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences; Andrew W. Mellon Preceptorship, Princeton University; and the 1982 Franklin L. Burdette Pi Sigma Alpha Award.

Publications include: Equalities, co-author with Douglas Rae and others (1981); "Disjunction and Ambivalence in Citizens' Political Outlooks," in George Marcus, ed., Theory and Practice of Democracy (forthcoming 1992); "Middle Class Blacks and the Complexities of Success," in Paul Sniderman and Philip Tetlock, eds., Prejudice, Politics, and Race (forthcoming 1992); "Yes, but. . .": Principles and Caveats in American Racial Attitudes," in John Chapman and Alan Wertheimer, eds., Nomos XXXII: Majorities and Minorities (1990); "The Politics of the Estranged Poor," Ethics (1991); and "The Politics of Victimization Makes Strange Bedfellows," Michigan Law Review (1989).

Fields: Urban Politics, Political Thought, and American Government.

Council (1992-94): Raymond F. Hopkins, Swarthmore College.

Raymond F. Hopkins

Raymond F. Hopkins is a political science professor at Swarthmore College. He received a bachelor's degree from Ohio Wesleyan University, his master's from Ohio State University, and his Ph.D. from Yale. He is currently director of the Public Policy Program and is a member of the Board of Editors of International Political Economy Yearbook.

His fellowships and grants include: German Marshall Fund Fellowship, Mellon Faculty Fellowship, Heinz Endowment, Rockefeller Fellow in International Conflict, Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars Fellow, and Guggenheim Fellow.

He is the author of eight books: Political Roles in a New State (1971); Structure and Process in International Politics, co-author (1973); The Global Political Economy of Food, co-authored and edited (1979); Food, Politics and Agricultural Development, co-editor and author (1979); Global Food Interdependence: Challenge to American Policy, co-author (1980); Food in the Global Arena, editor and co-author (1982); Information Sharing and Consultation Among Major Food Aid Donors (1984); and Food Aid: The Political Economy of International Policy Formation (draft manuscript to be submitted to Cornell University Press). He has also published numerous articles and book chapters.

Fields: International Relations/World Politics, Comparative Politics (Africa), and Public Policy (Food).

Council (1992-94): Gary C. Jacobson, University of California, San Diego.

Gary C. Jacobson

Gary C. Jacobson is professor of political science at U.C. San Diego, where he has taught since 1979. He received his A.B. from Stanford in 1966 and his Ph.D. from Yale in 1972, both in political science. From 1970 to 1979 he taught at Trinity College, Hartford. He has also taught at U.C. Riverside (1968), Yale (1973) and Stanford (1986-87). During 1990-91 he was a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences.

Jacobson is the author of Money in Congressional Elections (1980), which won the Gladys E. Kammerer award (1981) and the Leon Epstein Award (1991); The Politics of Congressional Elections (3rd ed., 1992); The Electoral Origins of Divided Government (1990); and co-author of Strategy and Choice in Congressional Elections (2nd ed., 1983).

He is a member of the Board of Overseers of National Election Studies and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Fields: American Government, Political Parties and Interest Groups, and Electoral Behavior and Public Opinion.

Council (1992-94): Barbara S. Romzek, University of Kansas.

Barbara S. Romzek

Barbara S. Romzek is a professor in the public administration department at the University of Kansas. She received her B.A. from Oakland University, her M.A. from Western Michigan University, and her Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin.

She currently holds the position of chair of the department of public administration, as well as serving on the editorial boards of both Administration and Society and Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory. Prior positions with APSA include chair of the Public Administration Organized Section and member of the John Gaus Award Committee.

Her publications include: "The Personal Consequences of Employee Commitment," Academy of Management Journal (1989); "Employee Investment and Commitment: The Ties That Bind," Public Administration Review (1990); American Public Administration: Politics and the Management of Expectations, co-author (1991); "Balancing Work and Nonwork Obligations," in Public Personnel Management, Carolyn Ban and Norma Ricucci, eds. (1991); "Dynamics of Employee Commitment," in Agenda for Excellence: Public Service in America, Patricia Ingraham and Donald Kettl, eds. (in press); and "Accountability and the Centrality of Expectations for Public Administration," co-author, in Research in Public Administration, Vol. 2, James Perry, ed. (forthcoming).

Fields: Public Administration and Organizational Behavior.

Council (1992-94): Linda Faye Williams, University of Maryland.

Linda Faye Williams

Linda Faye Williams, associate professor of government and politics at the University of Maryland, is a leading analyst of black political behavior. Formerly associate director of research at the nation's premier black think-tank, the Joint Center for Political Studies, Williams was principal investigator for a number of surveys conducted from 1985 through 1988 in conjunction with the Gallup Organization on black/white public opinion toward candidates, parties, issues, and values. She has also conducted surveys of black elected officials and of minority staffs of offices of the House of Representatives and the Senate. She is on the advisory board of a number of important surveys of minority public opinion including the National Latino Survey headquartered at the University of Texas and the National Black Election Survey of the University of Michigan.

Williams has served as a consultant on election issues and interpreting election results to a variety of women's groups including the National Women's Political Caucus, the National Black Women's Political Caucus, the Coalition of 100 Black Women, and the women's issue group of the National Black Leadership Roundtable. Currently, she is a consultant for the Women's Economic Voices Project of the Center for Policy Alternatives.

Williams is co-editor of The Long Struggle for Black Political Empowerment and many academic journal articles on urban, black, and gender politics.

A native of Texas, Williams holds a bachelor's degree from Rice University and master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Chicago. Prior to coming to the University of Maryland, Williams taught at a number of universities including Cornell, Howard, and Brandeis. She served as a research fellow of the Joan Shorenstein Barone Center for the Study of the Press, Politics and Public Policy of the John F. Kennedy School of Government of Harvard University from fall 1989 through summer 1991. She teaches courses on urban politics, American politics, and the American welfare state and other areas of public policy.

Williams has been interviewed by all of the major networks' evening news programs, CNN, C-SPAN, MacNeil-Lehrer, Nightline, The Today Show, the three major newsweeklies, The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, and many other prominent news media. Her works appear in such popular publications as Public Opinion, The Black Scholar, and Focus.

Continuing Council Members for 1992-93 will be:

President (1992-93): Lucius J. Barker, Stanford University.

Lucius J. Barker

Lucius J. Barker is the William Bennett Munro Professor of Political Science at Stanford University. Professor Barker joined the Stanford faculty in September 1990 after having spent twenty-one years as the Edna Fischel Gellhorn Professor in political science at Washington University.

Professor Barker received his B.A. degree from Southern University in Baton Rouge, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois. He also spent a year in 1964-65 as a Liberal Arts Fellow of Law and Political Science at the Harvard Law School, Cambridge.

His major fields of teaching and research interests are in American national politics specializing in Judicial Politics and Constitutional Law, and in African-American Politics. Professor Barker is author or co-author of a number of articles and books including Freedoms, Courts, Politics (with Twiley Barker); Civil Liberties and the Constitution (with Twiley Barker); and Our Time Has Come: A Delegate's Diary of Jesse Jackson's 1984 Presidential Campaign.

In addition to research, Professor Barker has also been deeply engaged in teaching and service. He has won awards for outstanding teaching at both the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and at Washington University where he also served as chair of the department for two terms. From 1967-69 he was professor of political science and assistant chancellor at the University of Illinois, and during 1988-89 served as visiting professor of government at Harvard University.

Professor Barker is also active in professional organizations, and has been president of the Midwest Political Science Association and the National Conference of Black Political Scientists. He has also served as vice president of the APSA and as a member of the APSA Executive Council and Administrative Committee.

In addition, he has just finished the last year of a three-year term (1989-91) as the first editor of the National Political Science Review, the annual scholarly publication of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists. He is also a member of the Board of Governors of the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies in Washington, D.C., a research organization focusing on African-American politics. In addition, Professor Barker was appointed last year to a three-year term (1990-93) as a member of the Board of Overseers' Visiting Committee for the Department of Government at Harvard.

Treasurer (1991-93): James J. Caporaso, University of Washington.

James A. Caporaso has been Bloedel Professor of Political Science at the University of Washington since 1988. Before that he taught at the

James J. Caporaso

University of Denver, 1978-88, and Northwestern, 1968-78. He received his bachelor's from Pennsylvania State University, his master's from Villanova, and his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

He was a Rockefeller Fellow, 1974-75; APSA's program committee, 1983 (associate chair) and 1990; APSA's Nominating Committee, 1985-86.

Publications include The Changing International Division of Labor, ed (1987); special issue of Organization on "Dependency," ed (1978). He recently completed a book manuscript with David P. Levine on Theories of Political Economy.

Fields: International Relations and World Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy.

Council (1991-93): Susan C. Bourque, Smith College.

Susan C. Bourque is Esther Booth Wiley Professor of Government and director of the Project on Women and Social Change at Smith College. She received her bachelors and Ph.D. from Cornell University.

Honors include Fulbright Hays Fellowships, the Hamilton Prize for Women of the Andes, the NECLAS prize for "Gender, Technology and Development" and research awards from the Social Science Research Council, Howard Heinz Endowment, Andrew Mellon, Ford and Rockefeller foundations. She is on the

Susan C. Bourque

Executive Council of the Latin American Studies Association, Board of Directors of the Association for Women in Development, and past president of the New England Council of Latin American Studies.

Her publications include Cholification and the Campesino; Women of the Andes, Women Living Change; Learning about Women: Gender, Politics and Power; "Democracy without Peace: The Cultural Politics of Terror," Latin American Research Review; and "Politics as an Un-natural Practice," Politics and Society.

Council (1991-93): Germaine A. Hoston, The Johns Hopkins University.

Germaine A. Hoston has taught at The Johns Hopkins University since 1980. She has also been a visiting professor at the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme, L'École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales in Paris, and at Osaka City University, and she has held four appointments as a Foreign Research Scholar at the University of Tokyo. She received her bachelor's from Princeton University and her master's and Ph.D. from Harvard.

Honors include a Rockefeller Foundation International Relations

Germaine A. Hoston

Fellowship, a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship, an International Federation of University Women Fellowship, an American Association for University Women Fellowship, a National Science Foundation Fellowship, and grants from the Social Science Research Council and the Northeast Asia Council of the Association for Asian Studies.

Among her writings are: Marxism and the Crisis of Development in Prewar Japan, 1986; "Conceptualizing Bourgeois Revolution: The Prewar Japanese Left and the Meiji Restoration," Comparative Studies in Society and History, 1991; "A 'Theology' of Liberation? Socialist Revolution and Spiritual Regeneration in Chinese and Japanese Marxism," in Ideas across Cultures, 1990; "Between Theory and Practice: Marxist Thought and the Politics of the Japanese Socialist Party," Studies in Comparative Communism, 1987; "Marxism and National Socialism in Taishō Japan: The Thought of Takahashi Kamekichi and the Theory of 'Petty Imperialism,'" Journal of Japanese Studies, 1984; and "Tenkō: Marxism and the National Question in Prewar Japan," Polity, 1983. In addition, she recently completed her forthcoming book entitled The State, Identity, and the National Question in China and Japan.

She served on the 1990 APSA Program Committee and is an Academic Associate of the Atlantic Council.

Association News

She has also been elected a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. She currently is serving on the Board of Directors of the Institute for East-West Security Studies and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Virginia Theological Seminary.

Fields: Comparative Politics (China and Japan), Political Development, Comparative Political Theory.

Council (1991-93): Richard W. Mansbach, Iowa State University

Richard W. Mansbach

Richard W. Mansbach has been chair and professor of political science at Iowa State University since 1988. Before that he taught at Rutgers University, 1969-88, and was chair of the Rutgers Political Science Department, 1983-88. He also taught at Swarthmore College, 1967-69, and was visiting professor at Princeton University, 1980. He received his bachelor's degree (Phi Beta Kappa, High Honors) from Swarthmore College and his D.Phil. from Oxford University, England.

He was a Marshall Scholar from 1964 to 1967; a Fulbright Fellow, 1976-77; an ACE Fellow, 1981-82; an Estimates Officer, National Intelligence Council/Assessment Group, 1981-83.

Publications include The Elusive Quest: Theory and International Politics, 1988; In Search of Theory:

Toward a New Paradigm for Global Politics, 1981; The Web of World Politics: Nonstate Actors in the Global System, 1976; Structure and Process in International Politics, 1973.

Fields: International Relations and World Politics, International Organization.

Council (1991-93): Gwendolyn Mink, University of California, Santa Cruz

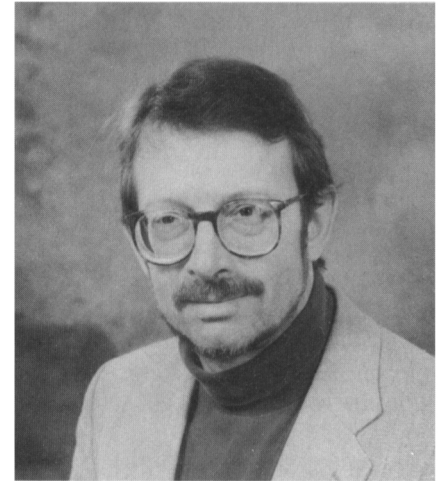

Gwendolyn Mink

Gwendolyn Mink has taught at the University of California-Santa Cruz since 1981. She received her Ph.D. in government from Cornell University in 1982. She writes and teaches about: the role of racism in American political development, feminism, gender and the law, the political history of U.S. labor, and the politics of diversity in higher education. She is the author of Old Labor and New Immigrants in American Political Development and is currently writing on feminism, race-consciousness, and the development of the U.S. welfare state. Honors include a Rockefeller Foundation Award (1989).

Council (1991-93): Ronald Rogowski, University of California, Los Angeles

Ronald Rogowski is professor and chair of the Department of Political Science at UCLA. He previously taught at Princeton and Duke and has held research appointments at the

Ronald Rogowski

Center for Advanced Study in Behavior Science (Palo Alto) and Harvard. His most recent book is Commerce and Coalitions (Princeton University Press, 1989). He has written also on corporatism, legitimacy, bandwagons, the Nazi leadership, representation, and democratic institutions. He has served on the APSA Nominating Committee and on the editorial boards of Ethics, International Organization, the Journal of Politics, and World Politics. Born in 1944, he took his B.A. from the University of Nebraska in 1964 and his Ph.D. from Princeton University in 1970.

Council (1991-93): Nancy L. Rosenblum, Brown University

Nancy L. Rosenblum

PS: Political Science & Politics

Nancy L. Rosenblum is professor of political science at Brown University and is presently chairperson of the department. She has been on the faculty of Brown since 1980, following positions as Henry LaBarre Jayne Assistant Professor and associate professor of government at Harvard University, where she received her B.A. in social studies and Ph.D. in government.

She is author of Another Liberalism: Romanticism and the Reconstruction of Liberal Thought (1987) and Bentham's Theory of the Modern State (1978) and editor of Liberalism and the Moral Life (1989).

She has been book review editor of Political Theory since 1989 and is vice-president of the Conference for the Study of Political Thought. This year she chaired the APSA Burdette Pi Sigma Alpha Prize Committee, and has been on the Strauss and Lipincott award committees and program chair of the history of political thought section of the APSA convention.

Honors include two NEH grants, a Bunting Institute Fellowship, and Harvard's Toppan Prize in 1974.

Fields: Contemporary Theory and the History of Political Thought.

Council (1991-93): Martin Shefter,
Cornell University

Martin Shefter

Martin Shefter is professor of government at Cornell University. He received his bachelor's from Cornell and his Ph.D. from Harvard. Prior to joining the Cornell Faculty, he was an assistant and associate professor at Harvard, and has been a visiting associate professor at the University of Chicago.

He currently serves on the executive committee of APSA's Section on Political Economy, chaired the book award committee of APSA's Section on Urban Politics in 1989, served on the William Anderson Award Committee of APSA in 1986, and organized the panels on political parties at the 1981 Annual Meeting and the panels on Urban Politics, State Politics, and Federalism at the 1990 Annual Meeting of APSA. In addition, he currently chairs the working group on Metropolitan Dominance of the Social Science Research Council, serves on the editorial board of Studies in American Political Development, and is an associate editor of the Encyclopedia of New York City.

Honors include: visiting member, Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton; fellow designate, Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, Stanford; and the APSA Section on Urban Politics prize for the best book on urban policy.

Publications include: Political Crisis/Fiscal Crisis: The Collapse and Revival of New York City, 1985; Politics By Other Means, 1990; and Global City: The Economic, Political, and Cultural Influence of New York, forthcoming.

Fields: American Government and Politics, Political Economy, Urban Politics, History and Politics.

Council (1991-93): Hanes Walton, Jr.,
Savannah State College

Hanes Walton, Jr.

Hanes Walton, Jr., is the Fuller E. Callaway Professor of Political Science at Savannah State College since 1967. He has also taught at Atlanta University and been a visiting scholar at Stillman College and Cornell University's Africana Center. He received his bachelor's from Morehouse College, his master's from Atlanta University, and Ph.D. from Howard.

Honors include membership into Phi Beta Kappa, a Ford, Guggenheim, Congressional and United Negro College Fund fellowships. He has served on the National Academy of Sciences' Assembly of the Social and Behavioral Sciences Executive Committee, 1975-78, and the Louis Pelzer Awards Committee. In 1987 he received NCOBPS award for outstanding scholarly productivity, and the College's distinguished teaching award in 1988.

He is the author of ten books that include Black Politics, 1972; Black Political Parties, 1972; Invisible Politics: Black Political Behavior, 1985; The Political Philosophy of Martin Luther King, Jr., 1971; and When the Marching Stopped: The Politics of Civil Rights Regulatory Agencies, 1988.

Fields: Political Philosophy, African-American Politics, Political Parties and Elections, International Relations, African Government and Politics, and Public Policy.

Under APSA's constitution the preceding nominations are subject to the vote of those members of the Association attending the Annual Business Meeting. If there is a contest for any elected office, an election will be conducted by mail ballot. Ballots will be distributed within 30 days of the Annual Business Meeting by the executive director. They must be returned within 30 days following distribution.

The 1991 Annual Business Meeting rules are printed in the Gazette section of this issue of PS. The rules require that any nominations in addition to those made by the Nominating Committee must be received in writing at the Association's Washington office prior to Monday, August 26, 1991, or thereafter at the Association's annual meeting office in the hotel headquarters. All such nominations and certifications must be received at least 24 hours before the session of the Annual Business Meeting in order to include those names on the original nominating document. Specific procedures for offering nominations are included in the Annual Business Meeting rules.

Political Science and the Study of Global Environmental Change

The American Political Science Association plans an international symposium on the human dimensions of global environmental change in conjunction with the International Political Science Association. The series of roundtables will seek to integrate the political science discipline into research on global environmental change including global warming, acid rain, ocean pollution, and depletion of forests and arable land. Natural scientists and political scientists will examine the societal contributions to global environmental change and the possible strategies for mitigating and adapting to change.

Sessions will be held during the APSA's 88th Annual Meeting to be held in Chicago, Illinois from September 3-6. The sessions will address the state of existing political science research relevant to global change, the theory or theories that inform the research, and the questions that will guide future individual and cooperative research. The symposium will also examine the way or ways scientific knowledge is transmitted into the policy process, as well as how that knowledge changes the content and direction of the process.

Theodore Lowi, vice president of IPSA and past president of APSA will convene the symposium. Harold Jacobson will coordinate the program.

Why the Size of the APSR Has Been Changed

The Association must seek to control the costs of all of its operations without cutting and, wherever possible, with increasing membership services. The decision to change the size of the Review reflects this goal. The economies and advantages of the new larger trim size were examined by the Publications Committee which recommended the new size to the editor. The Committee determined that most scientific scholarly journals are now printed in this size, and that, as indicated in the list below, the new size had several advantages. The editor accepted this recommendation. The Association anticipates that our sister associations will follow our example.

1. The size of the Review was changed for several reasons. The primary reason being the ability to publish more material, particularly book reviews, without increasing costs. An enlarged book review section will also be a more timely book review section.
2. The new trim size uses less paper because paper is cut in this stock size. Consequently, this size is more economical and more ecologically considerate.
3. The new trim size accommodates displays of data more effectively. Tables and figures are more likely to be integrated into the text and larger tables and figures can be read without rotating the Review.
4. The new trim size is easier to copy. An increasing number of faculty are assigning articles and the larger page size reduces copying costs and again saves paper.
5. All other APSA publications, including PS, the Annual Meeting Program, and the directories are being published in this larger size. The Association will realize additional savings by mailing the Review and PS as a single package.
6. The new trim size is more popular among book publishers. They have responded positively to the change, in spite of the higher rates for the enlarged size. Publishers now have more space, can list more books, and can submit the same advertisement for all major APSA publications, which in turn, reduces their production costs and should encourage more advertising.
7. In consulting with the Association of Research Libraries, we learned that libraries would not object to the change in the size. Indeed, it was noted that the Review will require less shelf space.

While the trim size of the Review has been changed, the typeface, type size, organization and format of the 1992 Review are the same as the 1986-1991 Reviews. The running heads have been modified in order to assure that all information needed for a full citation appears on the title page of each article. Right and left margins have been only slightly reduced.