

recently published Books about Important Periods in the Development of American Economy

THE AGE OF GIANT CORPORATIONS

A Microeconomic History of American Business, 1914-1970

by ROBERT SOBEL

Professor Sobel begins this microeconomic history with the mobilization of industry for the First World War when business had to cooperate with and be controlled by government. He traces the effects of business and government on one another through the laissez-faire policy of the 1920s, the depression and New Deal, the mobilization for the Second World War, and the development of conglomerates and government-oriented industry of the present day.

PATERNALISM AND PROTEST

Southern Cotton Mill Workers and Organized Labor, 1875-1905

by MELTON ALONZA MCLAURIN

"If it did nothing more, McLaurin's study could rest on its laurels as another important corrective of misconceptions regarding workers and unionism in the South. Myth, McLaurin writes, portrays the textile worker of the New South as a docile, contented appreciative dolt who resisted attempts to enlist him in unions . . . Nothing could be further from the truth. Southern millworkers, like their counterparts in the Northeast, often found their lot oppressive and sought redress in unionism. Unlike their fellows to the north, however, southern workers ultimately suffered total defeat . . . McLaurin tells the story well and makes effective use of a wide range of source materials."

BUSINESS AND POLITICS IN AMERICA FROM THE AGE OF JACKSON TO THE CIVIL WAR

The Career Biography of W.W. Corcoran

by HENRY COHEN

"The volume's subtitle is of the essence, for Professor Cohen's splendid contribution has to do with the Mexican indemnity, the Collins Line, the Texas debt, the Illinois Central Railroad, the 'Great Superior Scheme,' and other aspects of business and politics . . . No one doing main-current research in the designated era can henceforth afford to ignore either Corcoran or what the young Loyola scholar has written about him."

— Mid-America

"A valuable reference work, a veritable catalogue of the political aspects of financial transactions."

— The Annals of The American Academy of Political and Social Science

"Well written and thoroughly researched . . . this original study by a competent academician will appeal to students of finance, economic and business historians, and to American historians interested in the role of business in politics."

— Choice

"This important book adds a significant economic dimension to the standard political histories . . . Cohen writes concisely and with wit."

Social and Economic History

General Editor: S. B. Saul, University of Edinburgh

This unique series presents important primary and secondary sources relating to the evolution of social and economic systems throughout the world. Many of these pioneering studies were instrumental in shaping American and European economic policy during the turbulent period between the two World Wars. These works offer invaluable material to economists, sociologists, and historians, as well as to students of business and marketing research.

Newcomen Awards in Business History

Presented by

THE NEWCOMEN SOCIETY IN NORTH AMERICA

in cooperation with

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ Two Newcomen Awards in Business History are offered annually for articles published in the Business History Review. The First Prize, of $250, is awarded the article judged, according to the rules outlined below, to be the best of the year. The Special Award, of $100, is for the best article by an author who is not more than 35 years of age and who has not published a book.

¶ Prize articles are selected by a panel of judges composed of a representative of The Newcomen Society and members of the Advisory Board of the Business History Review. No member of the Advisory Board or editorial staff shall be eligible for a prize, and articles so authored will not be considered in the judging. Authors eligible for the Special Award shall also be eligible for the First Prize, but in no event shall both prizes be awarded for the same article. The Advisory Board reserves the right to withhold the Special Award in the event that eligible articles do not, in the Board's judgment, merit prize consideration. The awards program is administered by the editorial offices of the magazine.

¶ Criteria for selection include: originality, value, breadth, and interest of contribution, quality of research materials and methods, and quality of presentation.

PRIVATE INVESTMENT IN INDIA 1900-1939

AMIYA KUMAR BAGCHI

A case study in the economic relations between Britain and India while the former was an imperial power and the latter a dependent colony.

Professor Bagchi develops a simple theoretical framework and tries to isolate the influence on private investment in India of factor supplies as against demand conditions. All major manufacturing industries of the period 1900-1939 are studied. $19.50

THE CORRESPONDENCE OF LORD OVERSTONE

Edited by D. P. O'BRIEN

Samuel Jones Loyd, Lord Overstone (1796-1883) was a major figure in English monetary history in the controversies leading to the Bank Charter Act of 1844 and for thirty years afterwards. His papers, formerly believed destroyed, were discovered by D. P. O'Brien in 1964. The correspondence is published in three volumes: 1, June 1804-September 1849; 2, September 1849-December 1861; 3, December 1861-April 1883.

Each volume: $28.50

THE TURNPIKE ROAD SYSTEM IN ENGLAND 1663-1840

WILLIAM ALBERT

Deals with the development and administration of turnpike trusts in England from the creation of the first turnpike authority to the coming of the railways. The work is concerned specifically with assessing the economic importance of the trusts before and during the Industrial Revolution. Dr. Albert examines his sources in the light of modern economic historians' concern with the dynamics of economic development. $17.50
