TANAP Monographs on the History of Asian-European Interaction

Edited by Leonard Blussé (general editor)
and Hendrik E. Niemeijer (project co-ordinator)

This series provides for a scholarly analysis of a European (Dutch) presence in Asia 1600-1830 and is written by Asian, South-African, and European PhD candidates who research the archives of the Dutch East India Company (VOC) in The Hague, Cape Town, Colombo, Madras, and Jakarta. They look at the documents from a non-Western perspective, in search of a better understanding of the effects that European expansion had on various nations, groups, and individuals in Asia. As such, the series contributes to the further integration of Asian and European history into global history.

The TANAP Monographs on the History of Asian-European Interaction has been carried out under the aegis of Leiden University and the National Archives in the Netherlands (The Hague), 2000-2007. The programme is funded by the Netherlands Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Netherlands Ministry of Education, Culture and Science, the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research (NWO), and the Netherlands UNESCO Commission.

TANAP Monographs are produced under the supervision of scholars affiliated with the Institute for the History of European Expansion and Global Interaction (IGEER), Leiden University, and its journal Itinerario. International Journal on the History of European Expansion and Global Interaction.

This study focuses on the perceptions of the merchants of the Dutch East India Company (VOC) of the Thai royal court during their extended residence in Ayutthaya. Basing herself on a wealth of Dutch primary sources, the author shows how trade, politics and diplomacy shaped a unique relationship based on 'partnership' and a 'sense of differences'. The book contributes to expanding the study of Ayutthaya's history – known for its scarcity of indigenous sources – with the help of contemporary Dutch views.

Bhawan Ruangsilp (1971) obtained her MA in European History and German Literature at Tübingen University in 1999, and received her doctorate in History at Leiden University in 2007. Her main interests include the history of Asian-European interactions and pre-modern Thai history.

The study examines the colonial intervention in Sri Lanka at the end of the eighteenth century, when British rule replaced Dutch rule on the island. It focuses on the local reforms in the Dutch administration and policymaking on the island prior to the take-over and the various ways in which the British colonial government dealt with the Dutch legacy. Native agency in the colonial state formation process, the influence of the revolutions that swayed Europe at the time and changes in Dutch and British colonial exploitation are addressed respectively in an effort to characterize the transition of colonial regimes in Asia during this revolutionary era.

Alicia Schrikker (1976) obtained her MA in History at Leiden University in 2001 and studied at the University of Edinburgh in 1999/2000. Her main interests include the history of the Asian-European interaction and colonial state formation. She is currently employed at Leiden University as coordinator of the ENCOMPASS (Encountering a Common Past in Asia) project.

The Dutch East India Company's Tea Trade with China, 1757-1781

Yong Liu

- TANAP Monographs on the History of Asian-European Interaction, 6

This case study of the Dutch East India Company's tea trade with China deals with the most profitable phase of the Dutch Company's China trade, focusing on the question why and how the tea trade was taken out of the hands of the High Government in Batavia and put under the supervision of the newly established China Committee in 1757. Various factors which contributed to the phenomenal rise of this trade and its sudden decline are dealt with in detail.

Filling in lacunae left open by previous research and this monograph contributes to a more comprehensive understanding of the VOC trade with Asia.

Liu Yong obtained his MA in History at Xiamen University in 2001. He received his doctorate in History at Leiden University in 2006. His main interests are the history of overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia as well as Sino-European trade.

Hoang Anh Tuan

Against the background of a regional crisis caused by dynastic change in China and the closure of Japan in the middle of the seventeenth century, the Vietnamese kingdom of Tonkin rose to the fore as the major silk producing and exporting region in East Asia. Based on a wealth of so far unused primary sources from the Dutch East India Company archives, this monograph explains how Dutch and Chinese maritime traders played a critical role in Tonkin's dramatic emergence as a trading power.

Hoang Anh Tuan (1976) obtained his MA in Maritime Archaeology at Vietnam National University, Hanoi in 2001, and received his doctorate in History at Leiden University in 2006. He specializes in Vietnamese history and the Asian – European encounters during the early modern period.
