KINDRED STRANGERS

THE UNEASY RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN BUSINESS AND
POLITICS IN AMERICA
DAVID VOGEL

Notwithstanding the myriad forms of government assistance to American business, the relationship of business to politics in the United States remains a highly antagonistic one, characterized by substantial mutual distrust. This adversarial relationship is both reflected and reinforced not only in American business ideology, but also in America's unique legalistic and confrontational style of regulation, the political strategies of the public interest movement, the American approach to American industrial policy, and the distinctive way Americans think about the subject of business ethics.

This volume brings together more than two decades of scholarship on business and politics by one of the leading authorities on this subject. These essays also explore a number of critical contemporary issues, including the ongoing debate over the scope and extent of business power in America, the growth of shareholder protests and consumer boycotts, the changing politics of consumer and environmental regulation, and the emergence of both public and business interest in business ethics. They demonstrate the importance of integrating the study of business by political scientists with the study of politics by students of management.

The Classic Works of Peter F. Drucker

With new introductions by the author

THE PENSION FUND REVOLUTION

Drucker examines the implications of the increase in the number of pensioners and the investment of pension funds in American business.

ISBN: 1-56000-626-9 (paper) 224 pp. $19.95/£12.95

THE AGE OF DISCONTINUITY

Guidelines to Our Changing Society

Drucker focuses with great clarity and perception on new forces of discontinuity in our social, political, and economic landscape.

"[This] is the kind of book that makes businessmen think thoughts they had never thought before."

—The New York Times

ISBN: 1-56000-618-8 (paper) 424 pp. $21.95/£13.95

CONCEPT OF THE CORPORATION

This is the first study of the constitution, structure, and internal dynamics of General Motors. Drucker introduces the concept of looking at the organization as a social structure that works to satisfy the community's economic needs.

ISBN: 1-56000-625-0 (paper) 320 pp. $21.95/£13.95

THE FUTURE OF INDUSTRIAL MAN

Can an industrial society be a free society? Drucker probes this question as he views the radical growth of postwar industry.

"He possesses a fund of historical and economic knowledge; his mind does not follow conventional grooves; his style eschews the cliché and achieves frequent paradoxes and occasional profundity."

—W. H. Chamberlain, The Atlantic Monthly

ISBN: 1-56000-623-4 (paper) 210 pp. $21.95/£13.95

THE NEW SOCIETY

The Anatomy of Industrial Order

Drucker sees the industrial society of the 20th century as a new and distinct society, with specific social institutions: large-scale business enterprises, governments, and labor unions.

ISBN: 1-56000-624-2 (paper) 365 pp. $21.95/£13.95

LANDMARKS OF TOMORROW

A Report on the New "Post-Modern" World

"A set of provocative ideas about some directions of social change...the combination of sociological astuteness, economic realism, and philosophical sensitivity...is fresh and stimulating."

—H. C. Bredemeier, American Sociological Review

ISBN: 1-56000-622-6 (paper) 275 pp. $21.95/£13.95

THE END OF ECONOMIC MAN

The Origins of Totalitarianism

"[Drucker] not only has a mind of his own, but has the gift of starting other minds along a stimulating line of thought."

—Times (London) Literary Supplement

ISBN: 1-56000-621-8 (paper) 275 pp. $21.95/£13.95

Also by Peter F. Drucker

ADVENTURES OF A BYSTANDER

"The famous are here as well as the infamous. ...Drucker's book appears in a stroke to have restored the art of the memoir and of the essay."

—Dorothy Rabinowitz, The Washington Post

ISBN: 1-56000-738-9 (paper) 360 pp. $21.95/£13.95

THE ECOLOGICAL VISION

Reflections on the American Condition

This book defines the discipline of social ecology as a sustained inquiry into the man-made environment and an active effort at maintaining equilibrium between change and conservation.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE

Competition, Interconnection, and Monopoly in the Making of the American Telephone System

Milton Mueller

Universal service means a telephone network that covers all of the country, is technologically integrated, and connects as many citizens as possible. Policymakers have long considered regulated monopoly to be the only industrial structure compatible with this goal. Milton Mueller argues that free market competition in the early years of the telephone industry played a major role in making universal service a reality.

His analysis leads to a fundamental change in our understanding of how and why the American telephone system became a monopoly, the history of universal service, and the economic effects of interconnection.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

General Information

Manuscripts are considered for publication on the understanding that they are not concurrently under consideration elsewhere and that the material—in substance as well as form—has not been previously published.

Three copies of the manuscript should be submitted.

Authors should identify themselves only on a separate title page that provides name, mailing address, and telephone number. Authors must also remember not to identify themselves in the body of the manuscript; specifically, references to their own work in the text should be in the third person, and citations should be written without possessive pronouns—not “See my. . .”

Each article should be accompanied by a précis of 75-100 words outlining the main point(s) of the paper and placing the article in context. Subheads should be used to divide the manuscript into three or four sections (or more, depending on length).

We do not have an upper or lower page limit, but articles usually run between 25 and 60 typescript pages, including notes and other material.

Articles must contain notes in the humanities style, not references as in the social sciences.

We are always eager to publish illustrations, but authors should not include originals of illustrative materials at the time of submission; photocopies of such material may be included.

Authors of accepted manuscripts will receive two copies of the issue in which the article appears and twenty-five free offprints.

Manuscript Preparation

ALL material—including extracted quotations and notes—must be double-spaced. Legible photocopies or word-processed originals may be submitted. Use of dot-matrix printers is discouraged.

Notes should be numbered consecutively and citations should be placed at the end of the text. Do not place footnotes at the bottom of the page (see word-processing instructions).

Each table or figure should occupy a separate page and should be numbered (in arabic numerals) and grouped together between the text and the notes. The position of these items should be indicated in the text (as, “see Table 3”), but they should not be mingled with the text and no extra space should be left for them there. Each table and figure must be accompanied by a complete source.

We use the 13th edition of The Chicago Manual of Style (1982) and spell and hyphenate words according to Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary.

The journal encourages authors to use gender-neutral prose in all cases where it is not anachronistic to do so; male nouns and pronouns should not be used to refer to people of both sexes.

We use the day-month-year form for dates, as 11 February 1990.

Double quotation marks should be used for journal titles and direct quotation; single quotation marks are used for quoted material inside quotations.

Sample Citation Forms:

Book: Alfred D. Chandler, Jr., The Visible Hand: The Managerial Revolution in American Business (Cambridge, Mass., 1977), 321–22.

Journal: Charles Cheape, “Not Politicians but Sound Businessmen: Norton Company and the Third Reich,” Business History Review 62 (Autumn 1988): 444–66.

Note that we do not include the publisher in book citations. We do not use loc. cit., op. cit., or idem., but ibid. (not italicized) may be used.

Word-Processing Guidelines

The journal can accept disks of all standard sizes and densities, but they must be formatted in MS-DOS; we cannot use Apple or Macintosh software. WordPerfect is directly compatible, but we may be able to accept your document if it can be converted into an ASCII file.

Potential contributors should submit hard copy, not diskettes, initially, but it will save considerable work for all parties in the event of acceptance if authors working on PCs follow a few rules from the beginning:

In general, use as few formatting commands as possible.

Do not justify or half-justify the right-hand margin.

Do not hyphenate words at the end of lines.

Do not use hard returns except for new paragraphs or required page ends except as absolutely necessary (for example, to break between text and notes).

Do not use special fonts; underline material that is to be set in italics.

Most important, do not use the word processor's automatic footnote functions: do not embed notes in the text. Notes should be keyed in at the end of the text (after any tables) or as a separate file.
