The Journal of Modern History

For seventy years the leading North American forum for scholars of European history.

Edited by

John W. Boyer
Sheila Fitzpatrick
Jan E. Goldstein

Celebrating seven decades in print, the Journal of Modern History is recognized as the leading American journal for the study of European intellectual, political, and cultural history. The journal's geographical and temporal sweep—Europe, including Russia and the Balkans, since the Renaissance—makes it unique in its field. The JMH provides the latest research on events and movements in specific countries as well as investigations of broader themes that transcend particular times and places.

Journal of Women in Culture and Society

Edited by Carolyn Allen and Judith A. Howard

Published quarterly by

The University of Chicago Press

Since its inception in 1975, Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society has been recognized as the trailblazer in the field of women's and gender studies. In fact, Signs is consistently ranked among the top core journals in women's studies (source: SSCI Journal Citation Reports).

Signs' international scope includes articles from a wide range of disciplines in a variety of voices — articles engaging gender, race, culture, class, sexuality, and nation. The focus of essays ranges from cross-disciplinary theorizing and methodologies to specific disciplinary issues. Signs is a reliable resource for scholars, students, and professionals throughout the humanities, social sciences, education, law, and public policy.

● Unconventional perspectives

Signs encourages new methods of scholarship, analysis, and interpretation with articles that contest and reconfigure such founding terms as woman, culture, feminist, race, and nation.

● Unique attractions

Signs publishes major articles, disciplinary review essays, book reviews, special issues and sections, "U.S. and International Notes," and a "Comments and Reply" section, which provides a forum for lively debate between authors and readers. Signs takes its readers in provocative directions with cover designs that raise questions and promote energetic discussion. In fact, Signs recently won the annual award for the best journal design from the Council of Editors of Learned Journals (CELJ).

● Superb value

Your subscription to Signs ensures that you will keep pace with the latest interdisciplinary inquiry in the field, and it will energize your research with the most intense debate in women's studies—all at reasonable rates.

Regular one-year subscription rates: Individuals $38.00; Students $27.00; NWSA members $31.00; Institutions $133.00. Outside USA, please add $6.00 for postage. Canadian residents, please add postage and 7% GST. Visa and MasterCard payments are accepted. To order, send check, purchase order, or complete credit card information (acct. #, exp. date, phone number, and signature) to the address below. Credit card customers may fax their orders to (773) 753-0811. Online ordering is available using our secure server.

Seeking Victory on the Western Front
The British Army and Chemical Warfare
in World War I

BY ALBERT PALAZZO

“Albert Palazzo’s fine contribution brings sound scholarship and welcome objectivity to a subject often burdened with emotional bitterness.”—Rod Paschall, author of The Defeat of Imperial Germany, 1917-1918.

Seeking Victory on the Western Front examines how, in the face of the devastating firepower advantages that modern weapons offered the Germans, the British army developed the means to reclaim the offense and break the stalemate of the western front to defeat their enemy. Within this context, Albert Palazzo demonstrates the importance of gas warfare to Britain’s tactical success and argues that it was a much more efficient weapon than past historians have suggested.
