BABYLONIAN PROBLEMS

By Lieut.-Col. W. H. LANE

With an Introduction by Professor S. LANGDON

With Maps and Illustrations 21s. net

THIS book deals with prominent problems connected with ancient Babylonia, comprising much topographical, archaeological, historical (both general and military), and geographical data of an entirely new character, the result, to a great degree, of exploration conducted on the actual ground. The volume is furnished with 20 appendices containing the translations of a large number of the cuneiform inscriptions of the Neo-Babylonian period.

ARCHAIC FICTILE REVTMENTS IN SICILY AND MAGNA GRAECIA

By E. DOUGLAS VAN BUREN

Author of 'Archaic Fictile Revetments in Etruria and Latium in the VI and V Centuries B.C.' Illustrated, 21s. net.

THE author, who in a previous volume published the early terracotta decorations of Etruria and Latium, now deals with a region almost purely Greek. In lieu of marble, the exposed parts of these southern temples were protected by fictile revetments, the fragments of which have been revealed by chance finds and systematic excavations. This scattered material is presented in a descriptive catalogue with adequate illustrations; thus disclosing a wealth of form and design, a mastery in obtaining effects through simple colouristic means, which constitute a notable achievement of the Hellenic genius.

ENGLISH CHURCH FITTINGS, FURNITURE, AND ACCESSORIES

BY

J. CHARLES COX, LL.D., F.S.A.

Author of 'The English Parish Church', &c.

With an Illustrated Introduction by AYMER VALLANCE, M.A., F.S.A.

Author of 'The Old Colleges of Oxford'.

D R. COX has already dealt with the fabric of the Parish Church itself, but in the present work—the last of his long and able series on antiquarian subjects—he has endeavoured to give an informative, illustrated account of the objects of interest which are to be seen in and around the old Parish Church. This includes much that is curious and rare, but also an array of beautiful and appropriate craftsmanship in Wood, Stone, Metalwork, Decorative Painting, and Embroidery, which all contributed to the rich and noble effect of the interior. The author's aim has been to indicate briefly and simply the characteristics of each fitting, not only in both Mediæval and post-Reformation times, but also to distinguish the different types of design and workmanship in various parts of the country especially in the Middle Ages.
