

MEMBERS OF THE MONTH

ELIZABETH MATTO

MAY MEMBER OF THE MONTH

Rutgers University, Eagleton Institute of Politics

“In recent years, I've been an active member of the Political Science Education section and have been a steady participant in the Teaching and Learning Conference. It's been in this section and at the TLC that I've developed strong professional relationships with political scientists interested in furthering the scholarship of teaching and learning.”

LORRIE FRASURE-YOKLEY

JUNE MEMBER OF THE MONTH

University of California, Los Angeles

“I continue to take leadership roles within the association because I want to help our diverse association continue to evolve and inclusively confront the challenges and opportunities facing political scientists. I have served in leadership positions in APSA working groups, award committees, and more recently, the Inaugural Chair of APSA's new standing Committee on the Status of First Generation Higher Education Scholars in the Profession.”

KIRSTEN RODINE-HARDY

JULY MEMBER OF THE MONTH

Northeastern University

“Political science provides a very big tent to ask questions and analyze issues of power, freedom and justice. I chose to focus on comparative and international political economy to ask some of these questions, especially in areas of new technologies.”
