Professor Clive M. Schmitthoff is one of the very few highly qualified scholars who have been thinking, writing and collaborating with others in order to lay the foundation of modern international trade law. During the course of the development of modern international trade law he has been a pioneer in formulating the material part of that law, in each of its stages of development. His essays exhibit an immense scholarly capacity and a remarkable intellectual vitality. Published and scattered in various countries, these valuable writings have been eagerly sought by students and practitioners, but have not always been easy to obtain.

This book brings them together, classified according to subject matter and assembled in chronological order (1937-1987), thus providing a readily accessible reference source for all those involved in this vital field.

Professor Cheng is an Attorney-at-Law and Professor of Public International Law at the Institute of European Studies, Tamkang University; Professor of Public International and International Trade Law, Soochow University and Professor of International Economic and Trade Law at Ming Chuan Commercial College, Taipei, Taiwan.
