

People in Political Science

Activities

Eugene J. Alpert, formerly of Texas Christian University, has been named Vice President for Academic Affairs at The Washington Center for Internships and Academic Affairs.

Eugene J. Alpert

Gayle Binion, professor of political science, University of California at Santa Barbara, participated in the USIA Speakers Program, lecturing on human rights and civil liberties in South Asia for three weeks in September.

Diane D. Blair, professor of political science, University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, has been named by President Clinton to the Board of Directors of the Corporation of Public Broadcasting.

Joyce Gelb, professor of political science, City College in New York and the Graduate School and University Center, CUNY, has been appointed Coordinator of the Women's Studies Certificate Program and Director of the Center for the Study of Women and Society at the Graduate Center from Spring 1994 until 1996.

Ted Robert Gurr, University of Maryland-College Park, elected President of the International Studies Association for 1993-1995.

Beverly G. Hawk, University of Alabama at Birmingham, has been selected as a Fulbright Scholar. She will serve for one year in Kenya at the University of Nairobi where she will teach research methods and comparative politics.

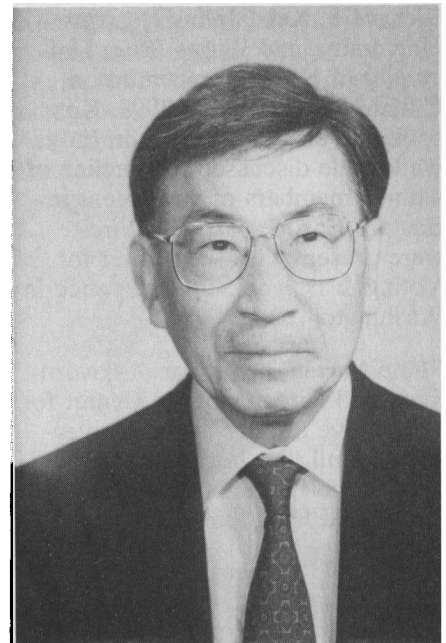

Diane D. Blair

Chun-tu Hsueh, Huang Hsing Foundation, received an honorary professorship from the People's University of China, Beijing, last October. Among the distinguished guests who were invited to attend the ceremony were Chai Zemin, former Chinese ambassador to the United States, and Wang Shu, former ambassador to West Germany. After the ceremony, Hsueh delivered a lecture on U.S.-Chinese relations. In October, Hsueh was also named overseas honorary vice president of the Western Returned Scholar's Association of China on the occasion of the 80th anniversary of the founding of the association. Chinese President and Party General Secretary Jian Zemin gave a talk at the ceremonial convention of the association.

Beverly G. Hawk

Chun-tu Hsueh

Helen M. Ingram, Director of the Udall Center for Studies in Public Policy at the University of Arizona, gave the 1993 Abel Wolman Lecture on November 8, 1993 at the National Academy of Sciences. Ingram is one of four U.S. members on the National Research Council's binational study on the use of the Mexico City aquifer as a water supply source and is a former member of the Council's Water Science and Technology Board and Commission of Geosciences, Environment, and Resources.

Charles O. Jones, professor of political science, University of Wisconsin-Madison, and President of the American Political Science Association, has been appointed to the Douglas Dillon Chair of Governmental Studies at the Brookings Institution. Jones, who has been a nonresident senior fellow at Brookings since 1988, will hold the chair as visiting fellow during 1994 and 1995.

Richard S. Katz, Johns Hopkins University, and Wilma Rule, University of Nevada, appeared on C-SPAN on August 9, 1993. Katz spoke on electoral reform in Italy, while Rule discussed the decline of women members of parliament in Eastern Europe. Their lectures were presented to the Center for Voting & Democracy conference in Washington, D.C.

Philip Norton, professor of government and Director of the Center for Legislative Studies at the University of Hull, has been elected President of the Politics Association of the United Kingdom.

Stanley A. Renshon, associate professor, City University of New York, is currently serving as editor of Political Psychology. The journal is published in conjunction with the City University Graduate Center's Ph.D. program in political science and that program's interdisciplinary specialization in the psychology of political behavior which Renshon heads.

Paul M. Sniderman, professor of political science, Stanford University, and research political scientist at the University of California, Berkeley, served as a Fellow of the Institute for Advanced Study at Indiana University, Bloomington, for a three-week period in October and November 1993. During his time as a fellow, Sniderman presented lectures on several campuses of Indiana University as well as presenting the Charles S. Hyneman Endowed Lecture in Bloomington.

Ernest Wilson, University of Maryland-College Park, has been appointed Director, International Programs and Resources, National Security Council.

Linda Faye Williams, University of Maryland-College Park, has been appointed as temporary director of policy research for the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation.

Philip Norton

Administrative Appointments

Lucius Barker, chair, department of political science, Stanford University, effective September 1, 1993.

Roderick Camp, chair, department of political science, Tulane University.

Joseph A. Melusky, professor and chair, department of history and political science, has been appointed interim Dean of General Education, Saint Francis College (PA). He has also been named to serve as Executive Director of the Northeastern Political Science Association.

Neil J. Mitchell, chair, department of political science, University of New Mexico.

Gerald M. Pomper, formerly of Rutgers University, Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr. Chair in Public Life at Northeastern University, effective fall quarter 1993. With Governor Michael S. Dukakis, he had co-chaired a national conference on "improving the Electoral Process," held at Northeastern in December 1993. Designation as the O'Neil chair honors Pomper's research on political parties and his series of edited volumes on presidential elections from 1976-1992.

Charles Prysby, head, department of political science, University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Richard J. Samuels, head, department of political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

New Appointments

Stanley Anderson, senior fellow, Earl Warren Legal Institute, University of California, Berkeley, Law School.

Ken Conca, assistant professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland-College Park.

David Lewis Feldman, senior research associate, Energy, Environment and Resources Center, University of Tennessee-Knoxville; formerly of Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

Mark Graber, assistant professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland-College Park.

Susan Haire, assistant professor of political science, University of North Carolina.

Ollie A. Johnson III, assistant professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland-College Park.

Pam Mason, assistant professor, department of political science, John Carroll University.

Neil A. Pinney, assistant professor, department of political science, Western Michigan University.

Glen Ross, student recommended faculty, department of politics and society, University of California-Irvine; formerly Otterbein College, Ohio.

Steven Vogel, assistant professor, department of politics and society, University of California-Irvine; formerly of University of California, Berkeley.

Promotions

Ronald Brown, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Wayne State University.

Susan Buck, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Mark R. Daniels, associate professor, department of political science, public affairs programs, Memphis State University.

Richard C. Elling, professor, department of political science, Wayne State University.

Mark P. Gibney, professor, department of political science, Purdue University.

Robert Kirby Goidel, assistant professor of political science, University of Southwestern Louisiana.

James M. Ingram, professor of political science, University of Alaska, Anchorage. Ingram will be on leave in 1993-1994 to work on his book, The Education of Winston Churchill.

Kristen Monroe, professor, department of politics and society, University of California, Irvine.

Amita Shastri, associate professor, department of political science, San Francisco State University.

Penny A. Weiss, associate professor, department of political science, Purdue University.

Retirements

Richard C. Claude, professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland-College Park.

Chun-tu Hsueh, professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland-College Park.

Edgar Litt, professor, department of political science, University of Connecticut.

Ralph Ranald, associate professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland-College Park.

David RePass, professor, department of political science, University of Connecticut.

T. McN. Simpson, associate professor, department of political science, University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Morton J. Tenzer, associate professor, department of political science, University of Connecticut.

Visiting Appointments

Samuel Decalo, visiting professor, department of political science, University of Florida.

Andrew P. Dunne, Lentz Postdoctoral Fellow in Global Issues, International Conflict and Peace Research, Political Science and Center for International Studies, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Robert S. Jordan, serving second year as visiting professor of international relations, department of national security studies, Air War College. He is on leave from the University of New Orleans, where he is a research professor of international institutions and professor of political science.

Marion Just, Wellesley College, visiting professor of public policy for 1993-94, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Sarah McCally Morehouse, professor emeritus of political science at the University of Connecticut, has been appointed visiting scholar at the University of Kentucky for 1992-1994.

Moo-Sup Shin, professor, department of public administration, Chon Buk National University, Korea, visiting professor, department of political science, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Kenny Whitby, associate professor, University of South Carolina, visiting scholar at Wayne State University during fall semester 1993.

Award Recipients

Women's Caucus Dissertation Award

The Women's Caucus for Political Science presented the 1993 Alice Paul Dissertation Proposal Award to Rachel K. Gibson, of Texas A & M University, for her prospectus on "Western European Anti-Immigrant Parties, 1970-90."

Rachel K. Gibson