Environmental Practice is the successor to The Environmental Professional, which appeared from 1978–1995. Environmental Practice will endeavor to honor the fine traditions established by The Environmental Professional while simultaneously opening new avenues of discussion on environmental issues.

Mission Statement for Environmental Practice

Aims and Scope

Environmental Practice is the official journal and newsletter of the National Association of Environmental Professionals (NAEP). The central purpose of Environmental Practice is to provide an open forum to NAEP members and other concerned individuals for the discussion and analysis of significant environmental issues. Research Articles, Environmental Reviews, and Commentaries appearing in Environmental Practice are peer-reviewed and aim for the highest standards of professional quality.

Environmental Practice is a source for continuing professional renewal and development. It aims to serve men and women at all stages of their careers, from initial training through mid- and senior-levels. Environmental work is an exciting, dynamic field, and Environmental Practice strives to match that pace with lively and timely commentary on the critical issues of the day. Environmental Practice aims to provide authoritative discussion on issues of wide interest to the international community of environmental professionals.

Professionals from many different disciplinary backgrounds, working in many different arenas, are faced with developing imaginative approaches for the practical resolution of a wide variety of environmental problems. Environmental Practice provides a comprehensive outlet for the publication of such interdisciplinary findings. This publication actively seeks breadth of viewpoint and method because it holds that solutions to environmental problems are often to be found in understanding the linkages among issues previously considered separate. Periodically, Environmental Practice will devote its pages to selected topics of special concern to a significant segment of the readership.

Priority for publication is given to articles that offer insightful views on the importance and interpretation of results from an interdisciplinary perspective. Reports of findings should go beyond a laboratory analysis, a field experiment, a philosophical discussion, or a theoretical modeling, for example, and discuss the implications of the findings for public policy or professional practice. Environmental Practice seeks especially to publish studies that link data and findings in science and technology with issues of public policy, health, environmental quality, law, political economy, management, and the appropriate standards for expertise. Many publications achieve excellence through tightly focused specialization, but in contrast Environmental Practice seeks its accomplishments through the promotion of excellent research and writing on the common interests among different kinds of specialists.

For the NAEP membership, Environmental Practice will carry NAEP news (national and chapter), and brief sketches of representative professional activities and issues. Whenever possible, Environmental Practice will seek to draw connections among current events, statements from leaders, pertinent research and scholarship, and NAEP concerns.
