PUBLICATIONS

BLACKFRIARS PUBLICATIONS

THE Dominicans of the English Province have established a small Publishing House under the title of BLACKFRIARS PUBLICATIONS. This House has no vast plans to establish itself as a rival to the already existing Catholic publishers, for its aims are modest and limited. An Apostolic Order in modern times requires modern instruments for spreading the Truth of the Divine Word. And as the Press holds the primacy among such instruments, the Order of Preachers needs to have it ready to hand. The French, American and Irish Dominicans and others as well have already taken hold of the Apostolate of the printed word by controlling their own publications. The English brethren are now adopting the same method for their country. The whole venture has in fact arisen from the need to extend the apostolate of BLACKFRIARS review which the Province has successfully produced for nearly 30 years. This publishing house simply continues in a broader field the work of BLACKFRIARS and its more recent confrere, THE LIFE OF THE SPIRIT.

BLACKFRIARS — ST. GILES — OXFORD

EVE & THE GRYPHON

by GERALD VANN, O.P.

“FR Gerald Vann’s Eve & the Gryphon deals with fundamental principles. Analysing the essentially feminine qualities of a woman’s heart and mind, Fr Vann shows how she can fulfill her vocation not as a man’s rival but as his complement. Written sensitively but without the least sentimentality, in beautifully balanced prose, this is the sort of book that could hardly fail to be a genuine inspiration to any reader of good will.”
K.S. in The Universe.

The author is concerned with the theology behind a modern woman’s life in the world. He takes the four great models of Catholic femininity, Our Lady, St. Catherine, St. Monica and Beatrice, and shows how the vocation of such as they is the vocation of all.

PILGRIM CROSS. The Vézelay Peace Pilgrimage in pictures and prose with a sermon “Let there be Love” by GERALD VANN, O.P.

“FOR the first time this publication has made available a full selection of photographs of the great march of the British Pilgrims taken by Francis Reiss, Picture Post’s photographer who was intelligently commissioned by his paper to accompany the pilgrims. One is surprised that so few of the national papers realised the romance and novelty of this expression of the post-war Catholic renaissance.

The pictures, which take up half the space of the 32 large pages, will perhaps give a better idea of this spiritual adventure and the wonder it caused than the sober and humbly written letterpress.

A map of France as frontispiece gives at a glance the routes of the different pilgrimages, but it also underlines the fewness of the different pilgrimages. Above all, may this British example stimulate a further and truly international peace pilgrimage.”

THE THEOPHILA CORRESPONDENCE

I. WHATSOEVER HE SHALL SAY

by FERDINAND VALENTINE, O.P.

THIS correspondence to an imaginary girl just beginning her life after school, was written and privately circulated to a number of people during the war years. The letters were at once in great demand, for they lead the reader from the first desire to take the spiritual life seriously to the simple practice of, and a taste for, converse with God. The manner is very simple and very practical so that any serious reader may profit greatly by reading and studying them. They are addressed to Theophila, but Theophilus can find them of equal benefit. "... a veritable mine of instruction on practically every aspect of ordinary prayer... Directors of Catholic Action groups like Praesidia of the Legion of Mary will also welcome it as supplying such a ready summary of the doctrine that forms the background and the source of the apostolic spirit."

H.O'N. in The Irish Rosary.

II. THE INSIDE OF THE CUP

by FERDINAND VALENTINE, O.P.

THE 2nd Theophila Correspondence continues the first dealing in particular with the difficulties which are met with in trying to follow the instructions already given. The chapter on Temptation has already been welcomed for its balanced application of human psychology and supernatural doctrine, when it appeared in The Life of the Spirit.

III. READING BETWEEN THE LINES

by FERDINAND VALENTINE, O.P.

THE Correspondence is continued with direct reference to St John's Gospel. The outstanding passages in that Gospel are taken and applied to concrete spiritual life in the world. When it was privately circulated it was at once agreed that it should be given to the general Catholic public as it was invaluable, particularly for those groups of Catholic Action who base themselves on their Weekly Gospel Enquiry.

AN OLD APOSTLE SPEAKS

FATHER Vincent McNabb at his death left a great store of unedited sermons and addresses which had been taken down by one or two of his followers who attended his many retreats and public speeches. This book contains a selection from this store, to keep before men's minds the character of a speaker who could deal in such simplicity with the social problems of the day as well as the deeper spiritual needs of men's hearts. Father Gerald Vann prefaces these sermons with a memoir of the "Old Apostle".

SAVONAROLA

by MGR JOHN O'CONNOR.

FATHER Brown, immortalised as the imperturbable amateur detective by G. K. Chesterton, here sets out in his own name and character to detect the holiness of the great 15th century Dominican. Ever since the great Florentine Reformer was burnt in the Piazza Signoria there have been learned discussions about his fanaticism or sanctity. Mgr O'Connor takes up the defence of his hero with a vigour which the readers of the Chesterton classic may not at first recognise. His narrative is short, stirring and popular—worthy of the preacher who sent word to the tyrant Lorenzo "Bid him do penance for his sins, for the Lord is no respecter of persons".

MARGARET, PRINCESS OF HUNGARY

by S.M.C.

"In 1943, in the midst of the ferocity and turmoil of war, there was canonized, by the present Holy Father, a saint who lived 24 of her 28 years in an enclosed convent, who was beautiful, who was a princess, who died at an early age seven centuries ago and who during her short lifetime did nothing the world would call great. Yet in the Decree of her canonization her life is summed up as one of uninterrupted exercise of prayer, penance and work for her country and for the Church. This was Margaret . . . The author of Margaret's biography—S.M.C.—is herself a nun of the English Dominican Congregation of St Catherine of Siena. Those who are acquainted with her earlier books—such as Brother Petroc's Return and The Dark Wheel—will wish to obtain this monograph. They will not be disappointed, for it is replete with vivid information concerning the life, the times, and the country of its heroine saint; a saint whose austerity may indeed inspire us with zeal for noble effort even on feeble lines. Three full-page illustrations—a 15th century engraving and two paintings by Fra Angelico—are included, and add to the intrinsic value of this admirable biography.”

W.J.R. in The Catholic Gazette.

BLESSED HENRY SUSO

by S.M.C.

S.M.C. is already well known as a writer of vivid religious fiction. Her latest success, The Flight & the Song, written in conjunction with Miss Anderson, has continued the theme of her earlier novels. But her hagiographical work is marked not simply by the descriptive power of the novelist but also by the accuracy of the historian. Blessed Henry Suso lends himself to both these talents : and in these days of revived interest in mystical writers his story will appeal to many.

S. Dominic, & S. Catherine in Early Painting.

Two of a series which is being prepared by the learned iconographer Dr. George Kaftal. They will contain an introduction, translations from the earliest lives of these Saints and between 30 and 50 reproductions from the best period of Dominican art.

THE EVERYDAY CATHOLIC

by FR MARTIN HARRISON, O.P.

“ St Thomas Aquinas begins his Prologue to his great masterpiece the Summa Theologica, with these words : ‘ Because a teacher of Catholic truth ought not only to teach the learned but also to instruct the beginners, in accordance with the words of the Apostle : As unto little ones in Christ, I gave you milk to drink, not meat—(1 Cor. iii, 2), we purpose in this book to treat of whatever belongs to the Christian religion in such a way as may tend to the instruction of beginners ’.

These same words might be used with equal propriety as a prologue to this present work. Not that the author, in any wild flight of futile ambition, sets himself to produce a work of comparable magnitude or sublimity to that of St Thomas; nevertheless he has written a singularly comprehensive survey of ‘ whatever belongs to the Christian religion ’ and has rendered this essential spiritual food of the mind in a form at once palatable, easily digested and nourishing.

This is a miniature and simple Summa for the work-a-day Catholic, . . . there is none that could not profit from its perusal.”

From the Preface by FR HILARY CARPENTER, O.P.

Ready September 10s. 6d.

MONEY IS STERILE

by G. JANSEN, O.P.

“ ONE of the minor annoyances of the great between-wars depression was the spate of books it produced from people who didn’t quite know what they were talking about, but all lavishly citing each other as established authorities. There are welcome indications that in the next crash the public may be better served. Fr Jansen’s short study will make a good beginning for anyone who has begun to suspect text-book economics to have been strangely de-vitaminised and is looking for a bone with more meat on.

Fr Jansen sees the creation of credit as perpetual inflation, and shows how increased production becomes over-production, instead of increased consumption . . . ”

The paper usefully sketches the background of Aristotle’s use of these terms and the increase in their intention added by the middle Platonists and deals interestingly and effectively with the great advance made by Plotinus towards the First Cause of Christian theology.”

How to Study. Translated with an essay of comment
by VICTOR WHITE, O.P.

St Thomas wrote this letter to a young novice beginning his studies, advising on a life of study which would avoid the habitual pitfall of unbalanced sophistication and lead him at once towards wisdom and heaven. Fr White applies the advice to the modern student and scholar in a long commentary which is a classic on its own.

DARTFORD PRIORY

by THE DOMINICANESSES OF HEADINGTON.

THE story of the foundation and six hundred years of chequered existence of the 2nd Order of St Dominic in England. These enclosed religious were designed by the Founder as the backbone of his Order and for all this long period, against many odds, the sisters have been playing their part in the apostolic work of the brethren, from Prouille to Carisbrooke and Headington. The authoresses add a chapter on the Dominican ideal of Contemplation in apostolic activity.

ROSARY CHAIN

by SISTER MARY DOMINIC, O.P.

THE fruits of the 2nd Order are largely hidden in the depth of divine Providence. Occasionally, as with this book of verse, it manifests itself in more tangible form. Hand set, and printed on hand-made paper these verses take us back to the biblical sources of the 15 mysteries of the Rosary and show us how to contemplate in a Dominican style, and are worthy of the high vocation of the 2nd Order. The Very Rev. Aelwin Tindal-Atkinson, O.P. contributes a preface.

MONTHLY REVIEWS

BLACKFRIARS

THE demand for this review of Christian thought and letters increased steadily during the war years and it now emerges as one of the more popular Catholic monthlies with a public similarly extending in the United States. Among the regular Dominican contributors are Gerald Vann, Illtud Evans, Victor White, Columba Ryan, Richard Kehoe. Other contributors in recent issues include Richard O'Sullivan, K.C., Eric Newton, Bernard Kelly, Walter Shewring, Naomi Royde Smith, Iris Conlay, Janet Cleeves. A special feature is the long section of BOOK REVIEWS celebrated for their honesty and analysis. Another and new feature is the review of recent work particularly of current reviews and important pamphlets—OBITER by ALDATE.

LIFE OF THE SPIRIT. A Blackfriars Review.

THIS review began its career during the war as a Supplement to Blackfriars. As soon as legislation permitted it set out on its own, namely in July, 1946, and at once met with a reception which has made it difficult to keep pace with the demand. It is devoted to the theology and practice of prayer and the spiritual life and has been designed to assist in the re-establishing of the Catholic tradition of ascetical and mystical writing in the English language. It has been given a very warm welcome with long tributes in The Irish Rosary, The Catholic Gazette, The Westminster Cathedral Chronicle, Youth, Orate Fratres, Southern Cross. Also it was welcomed in The Clergy Review, Catholic Booknotes, Universe, etc.

CERF PERIODICALS

La Vie Intellectuelle, founded in 1929, is outstanding among French Catholic magazines. Its primary object is to deepen understanding of the nature of the Church and Christianity among Christians, offering at the same time authoritative studies for the consideration of non-Christians. The three sections into which it is divided indicate the breadth of its investigations: L'Église et la Chrétienté, Les Peuples et Les Civilisations, La Culture. Recent contributors include Louis Bouyer, Georges Duhamel, A.M. Festinière, Étienne Gilson, Maurice Schumann, François Mauriac, Dominique Dubarle.

La Vie Spirituelle, founded soon after the first World War is probably as well known. Devoted to the strengthening of spiritual life, it draws on the great Christian sources—the Bible, the Liturgy, the example and teaching of the masters of Christian living, the theology and experience of the Church.

Each number 2s. 3d.
Annual Subscription 17s. 6d. post free.

La Maison Dieu is a recently founded quarterly from the Centre de Pastorale Liturgique, concerned with the liturgical life of the Church.

Each issue 5s.

TRIBUTE

to a great work being done through members:

'May I take this opportunity of sincerely thanking the C.T.S. for helping a born Catholic to realise the tremendous privilege which God has given him.'

This is one of many instances which could be quoted; one item from the vast collection of evidence to the value of a work which is calling for your support.
