Ecology and Natural History of Tropical Bees

DAVID W. ROUBIK

Describing the prominent themes in ecology, natural history and evolution of bees, this book includes discussions on pollinating behaviour, natural enemies, reproduction, social behaviour and maintenance of the diversity of tropical communities. The numerous illustrations and reference material allow the book to be used as a field guide and resource for workers in tropical and temperate areas.

Vascular Epiphytes

DAVID H. BENZING

Growing within tropical forest canopies, epiphytes are subject to severe environmental constraints, and their diverse adaptations make them a rich resource for studies of water balance, nutrition, reproduction and evolution. This book synthesizes the growing body of information from research on epiphytes and their relations with other tropical biota, and provides a comprehensive overview of basic functions, life history, evolution, and the place of epiphytes in complex tropical communities.

Public Policy and the Misuse of Forest Resources

Edited by ROBERT REPETTO and MALCOLM GILLIS

This book explores the role of governments in accelerating the rate of forest destruction by providing direct and indirect subsidies to support what would otherwise be non-commercial logging operations. In a series of country-by-country investigations this book documents the government policies that are leading to the misuse of forest resources. Each is written by an authority on the country, and each contains descriptive, analytical and empirical material on key policies and their effects.

Wildlife Production Systems

Economic Utilisation of Wild Ungulates
R. J. HUDSON, K. R. DREW and L. M. BASKIN

Commercial utilisation of large mammals is one of the most controversial aspects of wildlife conservation. This book chronicles the changing role of wildlife and considers whether wildlife production is a viable economic and environmental strategy or a method of exploitation. This book should be of interest to people both applauding and deploring use of wildlife in this new economic role.

INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS

1. Scope of the journal

Papers may deal with any aspect of tropical ecology, and both those devoted to the results of original research as well as those which form significant reviews will be considered. Generally, papers should not exceed 5000 words of text.

Short Communications, which must not exceed four printed pages in total length, are acceptable. Notes up to one page long will also be considered.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor.

2. Preparation and submission of manuscripts

Detailed instructions for the preparation and submission of Papers, Short Communications and Notes are printed at the back of each part of Volume 1 and Part 1 of each subsequent volume. Potential contributors are advised that careful attention to these instructions will greatly assist the Editor and thus speed the processing of their manuscripts.
