TRACING IT HOME: A Chinese Journey

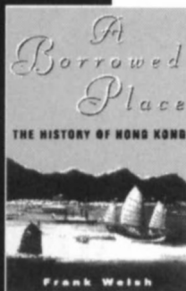

Lynn Pan

A lyrical evocation of personal fate and history by an acclaimed Anglo-Chinese writer. Set in motion by the unexpected death of the author's mother, the narrative chronicles the unraveling of an intricate puzzle of familial relationships spun across three generations and two continents.

"Lynn Pan's book is a beautifully written account of her family's fortune during the turbulent years of China's recent history."—Nien Cheng, Author of Life and Death in Shanghai

"Tracing it Home is resonant, rich, and true."—Fae Myenne Ng, Author of Bone

A BORROWED PLACE: The History of Hong Kong

Frank Welsh

Hong Kong, the last great imperial possession, returns to Chinese sovereignty July 1, 1997, after a century and a half of British rule. Drawing on a broad range of international sources, Frank Welsh tells the compelling tale of this insular possession, one of the "little dragons" of Asia. In vivid detail, Welsh describes the court intrigues of London and Peking, the tea parties and opium parties of the heyday of the British Empire, and the colony's unique situation at the threshold of turbulent China. As the years of wartime occupation by Japan give way to the skyscrapers and slums of Hong Kong's postwar life, the narrative sweep of Welsh's absorbing chronicle offers a compass with which to chart the unfolding fortunes of this "borrowed place."

World Investment Report 1993: Transnational Corporations and Integrated International Production

There are over 37,000 transnational corporations in the world with over 170,000 foreign affiliates. The World Investment Report 1993 presents for the first time ever data on the largest 100 non-financial transnational corporations ranked by foreign assets. This report describes and analyzes the continuing expansion of transnational corporations, the regionalization and globalization of firms, the emergence of an integrated international production system and some legal and policy implications of these developments. The wealth of information presented is complemented by over 80 statistical tables and charts related to the operations of transnational corporations. Among others, economists, policy makers, investment firms, trading corporations and academicians will find this book invaluable.

World Economic Survey 1993: Current Trends and Policies in the World Economy

SLOW WORLD GROWTH TO CONTINUE

With no signs of accelerated output in developed countries overall, the resumption of growth remains the overriding issue in the world economy in 1993 warns the 1993 World Economic Survey. The report also states that developing countries are registering strong growth and forecasts a continuance in 1994.

This 1993 survey provides an overview of the world economy in 1992 and in recent months and presents a forecast of short-term prospects for 1993 and 1994. It analyses the nature of the weaknesses in the developed market economies, the continuing decline in output by most economies in transition and the great diversity of economic progress in the developing countries. It examines major developments in international trade and the trends in the international flow of financial resources. The rapid and enthusiastic response of individual and local initiative to the process of economic reform is noted as the survey examines the growth of the non-state sector's economic growth in China. The statistical annex of world economic and financial data used in the analysis is invaluable.

Chinese Families in the Post-Mao Era

Edited by DEBORAH DAVIS
& STEVAN HARRELL

How have the momentous policy shifts that followed the death of Mao Zedong changed families in China? What are the effects of the decollectivization of agriculture, the encouragement of limited private enterprise, and the world's strictest birth-control policy? Eleven sociologists and anthropologists explore these and other questions in this path-breaking volume.

The Inner Quarters

Marriage and the Lives of Chinese Women in the Sung Period
PATRICIA BUCKLEY EBREY

Foreword by Bonnie Smith

The Sung Dynasty (960-1279) was a paradoxical era for Chinese women. This was a time when footbinding spread, and Confucian scholars began to insist that it was better for a widow to starve than to remarry. Yet there were also improvements in women's status in marriage and property rights. In this thoroughly original work, one of the most respected scholars of premodern China brings to life what it was like to be a woman in Sung times.

Postwar Japan as History

Edited by ANDREW GORDON

Japan's catapult to world economic power has inspired many studies by social scientists, but few have looked at the 45 years of postwar Japan through the lens of history. The contributors to this book seek to offer such a view. A provocative set of interpretative essays by eminent scholars, this book will appeal to anyone interested in the history of twentieth-century Japan and the dilemmas facing Japan today.

The Power of the Gun

The Emergence of Modern Chinese Warlordism

EDWARD A. McCORD

This detailed study offers a new interpretation of the emergence of warlordism in early twentieth-century China. Focusing on the provinces of Hunan and Hubei, McCord shows how the repeated use of the military to settle disputes over the structure and allocation of political power in the early Republic ultimately thwarted the consolidation of civil authority.

Technological Independence

The Asian Experience

Edited by Saneh Chamarik and Susantha Goonatilake

Focusing on the importance of technology as a key to development, this volume examines the experiences, efforts, and perspectives of technological development in six Asian countries: China, India, Japan, Korea, the Philippines, and Thailand. It describes the background of each country's technological development, development experiences, and planning and policies for self-reliance. The technologies selected for research vary according to country, reflecting different technological development stages and their importance to national efforts and goals.

The subject of this study is the process and effects of modernization in China, Japan, the Republic of Korea, and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. In particular the emphasis is on the transformation of cultures as a part and result of efforts to modernize and on the role played by the state. The cultural transformations that are described range from everyday customs and habits to the arts, from the level of the individual to large-scale social and economic planning. The book is also of special interest in gathering together Korean scholars from both the North and South for the first time since 1950.

Introducing

WOMEN IN JAPAN

A unique teaching tool created and published by the Japan Society (New York)

Women in Japan is the fifth in a series of teaching modules, Japanese Society through Film, which combine three Japanese feature films with a printed teaching guide. All films are on videocassette and have English subtitles.

The Women in Japan module includes films by three of Japan's greatest filmmakers:

- Akira Kurosawa's Rashomon (1950), a classic murder mystery centered around a beautiful, aristocratic woman in 12th-century Japan.
- Kenji Mizoguchi's Osaka Elegy (Naniwa erejii, 1936), a powerful portrayal of a working woman of the 1930s exploited by men and society.
- Yasujiro Ozu's Floating Weeds (Ukigusa, 1959), about a group of itinerant theater players and their various male-female relationships.

Additional modules available in the Japanese Society through Film series are: The Japanese Family, Japanese Literature on Film, Childhood and Education in Japan and Self and Society.

This project is made possible in part by grants from the Panasonic Foundation, Inc.; the United States Department of Education; the National Endowment for the Humanities; The Hitachi Foundation; The Sumitomo Bank, Ltd.; The Chase Manhattan Bank, N.A.; and the Commemorative Association for the Japan World Exposition (1970). Technical production of Japanese Society through Film is made possible by SVS, Inc. and Janus Films.

THE ESSENTIAL ASIA SERIES • Edited by David I. Steinberg

These two books inaugurate this major new series about Asia. The series will provide the single or first book that a literate, intelligent, serious visitor would want to read before traveling to a particular country. The books will be imaginative and interpretive as well as formative.

INDIA
Facing the Twenty-first Century
Barbara Crossette
Foreword by David I. Steinberg

Torn by racial violence, impoverished, ancient, mystical, exciting, and dangerous—India is all of these things and more. A senior New York Times editor and award-winning journalist incisively describes and analyzes the world's largest and most fractious democracy. The first book for a first-time visitor to India.

Department of Sociology

Applications are invited for teaching appointments in the Department of Sociology from candidates who should possess a relevant PhD degree. Preference will be given to those who specialise in one or more of the following areas and who have teaching and/or research experience within Southeast Asia:

Sociology of Education
Sociology of the Family
Social Stratification
Urban Sociology

The Department of Sociology was established in 1965 under the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. The Department conducts courses leading to the degrees of BA and BSocSci (Honours). Postgraduate programmes are also available for MSocSci and PhD degrees.

The Department is very active in research and the main areas of interests are social change, problems of multiethnic societies, social policy issues and Southeast Asian studies. The University and many international agencies and foundations have provided generous funding for the research programme. Staff members are also very active in applied research and in providing consultancy services to both public and private organisations. The University provides a computer-intensive environment for both teaching and research.

All academic staff have access to the following computer and telecommunication resources: a networked microcomputer (an IBM compatible or Apple Macintosh); an IBM mainframe computer with 16 MIPS of computing power; an NEC SX supercomputer with 650 MFLOPS of computing power; departmental laser printers; a wide spectrum of mainframe and microcomputer software; voice-mail. The campus-wide network, which is based on the high speed optical fibre based FDDI technology, links up all the academic staff and student microcomputers, UNIX workstations and provides access to the mainframe computer, the supercomputer, UNIX hosts, the on-line library catalogue, CD-ROM databases, Teleview, Internet and BITNET.

Gross annual emoluments range as follows:

Lecturer	S$51,500 - 65,620
Senior Lecturer	S$59,970 - 106,030
	(US$ 1.00 = S$ 1.61 approximately)

The commencing salary will depend on the candidate's qualifications, experience and the level of appointment offered. In addition, a 13th month allowance and an Annual Variable Component may be payable under the flexible wage system applicable to staff on normal contracts.

Leave and medical benefits will be provided. Depending on the type of contract offered, other benefits may include: provident fund benefits or an end-of-contract gratuity, a settling-in allowance of S$1,000 or S$2,000, subsidised housing or a housing allowance, education allowance for up to three children subject to a maximum of S$16,425 per annum per child, passage assistance and baggage allowance for the transportation of personal effects to Singapore. Staff members may undertake consultation work, subject to the approval of the University, and retain consultation fees up to a maximum of 60% of their gross annual emoluments in a calendar year.

HUANG HSING AND MODERN CHINA

Essays from an International Symposium

黃興與近代中國 學術討論會論文集

(Taipei, Taiwan: Graduate School of History, Chengchi University, 1993. 505 pp. N. p.)

Twenty-one articles originally presented at a symposium on Huang Hsing, who was one of the two most important leaders of the Republican Revolution that overthrew the Manchu dynasty. The conference was jointly sponsored by the Huang Hsing Foundation (USA),* Chengchi University, Academia Historica and other institutions in Taiwan in May 1992. It was the first time PRC scholars visited Taiwan for an academic conference.

This impressive and beautifully printed volume deals with various aspects of Huang's life, personality, military leadership and political thought. His pragmatism and views on modernization, democracy and party politics might still be more relevant to China today than heretofore recognized. The scholarly and objective reexamination of Huang's role by some of the most eminent historians in Taiwan is a refreshing departure from the heretofore orthodox Kuomintang historiography.

*The Huang Hsing Foundation (USA) was established as a non-profit organization by Chün tu Hsüeh 薛君度 to provide support to qualified individuals and institutions in the United States and abroad in the fields of modern Chinese history, social sciences, humanities and the arts. It has established the Huang Hsing Foundation Distinguished Lectureship in Beijing and at Berkeley (University of California), and arrangements are being made to establish a similar program at Oxford, New Delhi and Tokyo. Henry Luce III, Chairman and CEO of the Henry Luce Foundation, and four other distinguished international figures serve on the Board of Advisers. As a rule, the foundation does not consider personal applications; they are generally processed through institutions. It has received no funding from any government or government-related sources.

Seeds in the Heart

Japanese Literature from Earliest Times to the Late Sixteenth Century

by Donald Keene

Praise for Donald Keene:

"A chief interpreter of Japanese culture to the West... Shows his breadth of knowledge and unflagging curiosity."

—The Los Angeles Times Book Review

With Seeds in the Heart, Donald Keene completes his masterful, four-volume survey (which included World Within Walls, Dawn to the West and Travelers of a Hundred Ages) of Japanese literature from the earliest times to 1970. Keene employs his prodigious wealth of knowledge, depth of critical insight, and gift for narrative to guide us through one thousand years of literary history that includes the robust poetry of the Man'yōshū, the subtle perfection of the waka poem, and the fifteenth-century Nō drama, among other works. Above all, the author shows us the relevance this great body of literature has for all centuries.

Donald Keene, University Professor and Shincho Professor Emeritus at Columbia University, has received many decorations in Japan and the United States, including the Order of the Rising Sun and the 1990 National Book Critics Circle Ivan Sandrof Award.

Books that Span East and West...

Charles E. Tuttle Co., the leading English-language publisher of books on Asia, offers a unique selection of Japanese literature ranging from ancient myths and legends to poetry and contemporary fiction.

The Kojiki: Records of Ancient Matters

Translated by Basil Hall Chamberlain

$16.95, 08048-1439 2 4 1/4 x 7 512 pages

This 8th-century work, one of the most significant in Japanese literary history, presents the mythological creation of Japan, tales of the Sun Goddess, other deities and the origins of Jimmu, the first emperor.

The Taiheki: A Chronical of Medieval Japan

Translated by Helen Craig McCullough

$14.95, 08048-1322 1 4 1/4 x 7 452 pages

An account of the early 14th-century civil wars between the Hojo family and the Emperor Go-Daigo that gives vivid details of the Emperor's rise to power, his unsuccessful attempts to overthrow the Kamakura shogunate, and the triumphant return to imperial power in 1333.

Osamu Dazai

Crackling Mountain and Other Stories

Translated by James O'Brien

$16.95, 08048-1565 8 5 x 7 1/4 256 pages

The 11 works gathered here from Japan's master story-teller showcase the range and depth of his talent. Stories include Memories, A Poor Man's Got His Pride, and Heed My Plea.

Ryunosuke Akutagawa

Rashomon and Other Stories

Translated by Takashi Kojima, introduced by Howard Hibbett

$8.95, 08048-1457 0 4 1/4 X 7 102 pages

Six of Akutagawa's finest stories, chosen to represent the variety of his techniques and artistry are gathered in this collection. They include In A Grove, a psychological drama that was later used in the film Rashomon, and The Martyr, a tale set in 16th-century Nagasaki.

Japanese Death Poems: Written by Zen Monks and Haiku

Poets on the Verge of Death

Compiled, with introduction and commentary by Yoel Hoffmann

$21.95, 08048-1505 4 5 x 7 1/4 366 pages

A bestselling and unusual selection of poetry. In the introduction the compiler explores the attitudes and customs surrounding death in historical Japan. The text also includes background notes on many of the poets and monks, an index of poetic terms and bibliographical index. Haiku appears in English translation and romaji.

Religion and Society in Modern Japan

Selected Readings

edited by

Mark R. MULLINS
SHIMAZONO Susumu
Paul L. SWANSON

An anthology combining the best of current Japanese and Western scholarship, aimed at giving students a variety of perspectives on the significance of religion in modern Japan, with an emphasis on the sociocultural expressions of religion in everyday life.

PART 1 JAPANESE RELIGIOSITY

Includes a general statistical survey of religious attitudes as well as articles on Shinto and Shugendō.

PART 2 RELIGION AND THE STATE

Contains valuable historical documents from the Meiji Constitution to the present, along with treatments of civil religion and folk religion.

PART 3 TRADITIONAL RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS

Studies on rites for factories, abortions, and ageing, and a firsthand account of life among Sōtō Zen nuns.

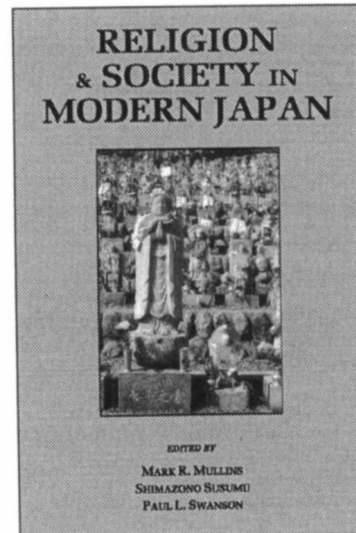

PART 4 NEW RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS

Covers exorcism, militancy, and foreign expansion in new religions, as well as a study of Christianity as a "new religion."

Religion and Society in Modern Japan is vol. 5 of Nanzan Studies in Religion and Culture, edited by Paul Swanson (editor of the Japanese Journal of Religious Studies).

Three Plays by Kōbō Abe

Translated by Donald Keene

224 pp / 3 illus / $29.95

Donald Keene, long considered the leading interpreter of Japanese culture to the Western world, makes three absurdist plays by one of Japan's most prominent contemporary writers available in English for the first time.

Kōbō Abe (1924-1993), although best known as a novelist, has received worldwide recognition for his work as a playwright, producer, and director of daring and innovative dramas. This volume contains Involuntary Homicide (1971), in which a bizarre community of islanders seeks scapegoats for a murder; and The Ghost is Here (1958), in which a spirit exploited by entrepreneurs is elected mayor. Finally, in The Green Stockings (1974), a lingerie fetishist becomes the world's first human herbivore.

Keene's skillful, witty translations reveal the limits of absurdity and the complexities of this most provocative of Japanese writers.

"The papers in this volume represent the most detailed, mature, critical, and constructive appraisal of any 'area studies' enterprise I have read. There is little self-promotion in these assessments and a great deal of careful reflection about the intellectual history of Southeast Asian studies."

PURPOSE AND ORGANIZATION

The Association for Asian Studies is a scholarly, non-political, and non-profit professional association open to all persons interested in Asia and the study of Asia. It seeks through publications, meetings, and seminars to facilitate contact and exchange of information among scholars and to increase understanding of Asia. The Association for Asian Studies is the largest society of its kind in the world. Its 7,000 members include scholars, teachers, business people, diplomats, journalists, and interested laypersons.

Founded in 1941 as the Far Eastern Association, the organization was renamed the Association for Asian Studies in 1957 to reflect the wider geographic interests of its membership. In 1970, four elective area Councils—South Asia, Southeast Asia, China and Inner Asia, and Northeast Asia—were established to guarantee each area constituency its own representation and a proportionate voice on the Board of Directors. In 1977, a Council of Conferences was established as a liaison with eight regional conferences throughout the United States to serve the needs of those interested in Asian studies in different parts of the country. The Association is a member of the American Council of Learned Societies and the National Council of Area Studies Associations, actively participating with its sister societies in a wide range of activities, including joint participation in research and informational exchanges.

Publications of the Association include The Journal of Asian Studies, the Bibliography of Asian Studies, Doctoral Dissertations on Asia, the Asian Studies Newsletter, the Monograph Series, and committee publications. The Association holds a three-day meeting each spring devoted to planned programs of scholarly papers, round table discussions and panel sessions on a wide range of problems in research and teaching, and on Asian affairs in general. From time to time, it sponsors, through its committees, special conferences on research problems and other matters of topical interest.

ADVANCED READER OF MODERN CHINESE: CHINA'S OWN CRITICS

Volume I: Text

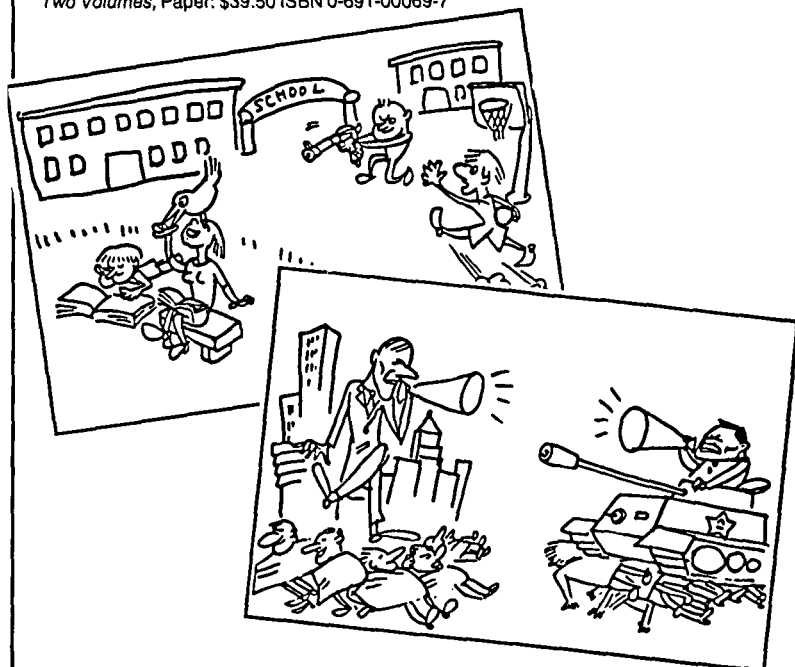

Volume II: Vocabulary & Sentence Patterns

CHIH-P'ING CHOU, JOANNE CHIANG, AND DER-LIN CHAO

This textbook presents a selection of thirteen expository essays written from the 1920s through the 1980s by influential Chinese intellectuals on controversial issues of their times. To provoke classroom discussion, each topic is treated by essayists with opposing views.

Prepared for American students who have already completed two years of Chinese, the book juxtaposes traditional and simplified characters for the text and vocabulary. Each of the texts is followed by a detailed glossary, annotated in English, with suggested topics for class discussion. An index at the end of the book allows students easy access to the vocabulary items.

NEWSPAPER READINGS

The U.S.A. in The People's Daily

CHIH-P'ING CHOU AND XUEDONG WANG

This book is a newspaper reader for the American student who has completed one and a half to two years of modern Chinese. The fourteen selections included in the reader show how the U.S. was depicted in commentaries and essays in The People's Daily from 1990 through 1991. The articles are generally critical of American society as a whole: their controversial nature will elicit student interest and classroom participation.

Each selection is presented in both traditional and simplified characters, with a copy of the actual newspaper article and a cartoon included: each is also accompanied by a vocabulary glossary, sentence patterns annotated in English, and suggested discussion topics. In addition to the fourteen glossed selections, eight un glossed essays are included for use as supplementary reading materials.
