THE MYTH OF POPE JOAN

Alain Boureau

Translated by Lydia G. Cochrane

"American readers ought to rejoice that this book is finally available in English. This far surpasses Peter Stanford's 1999 apologia The Legend of Pope Joan, one of the few resources about Joan that has been available in English. . . . The scholarship is impeccable, and the stories and the prose make this a book that a wider audience will also enjoy."—Publishers Weekly

RECONCILING SCIENCE AND RELIGION

The Debate in Early-Twentieth-Century Britain

Peter J. Bowler

"A fascinating and detailed account of the interaction between science and religion in Britain in the first half of the twentieth century. Peter Bowler's book will be of great interest to all those concerned with the historical approach to these complex interdisciplinary questions."—Rev. John Polkinghorne, author of Belief in God in an Age of Science

Cloth $40.00

DRAMA, PLAY, AND GAME

English Festive Culture in the Medieval and Early Modern Period

Lawrence M. Clopper

"Drama, Play, and Game now joins a select tradition of studies that have compelled students of medieval drama to rethink its origins, structure, contexts, and manuscripts. In this provocative and insightful book, Clopper reinterprets the evidence for, and texts of, early English drama within the larger context of festive culture. He also bridges the arbitrary medieval-renaissance divide, one hopes for good."—Richard K. Emmerson, author of Approaches to Teaching Medieval English Drama

Cloth $45.00

COMMON PRAYER

The Language of Public Devotion in Early Modern England

Ramie Targoff

"Common Prayer brilliantly historicizes the troubling binary between inner emotion and external convention that has plagued most work on religious poetry since Dr. Johnson. Attentive to both the nuances of literary texts and the complexities of history, Targoff demonstrates the centrality of religious and particularly liturgical discourse to the processes of subject formation in early modern English."—Michael Schoenfeldt, author of Bodies and Selves in Early Modern England
